

Red Boycott Threat Stirs UN

Commission Enlarged For Soviets

32-Nation Unit Asked by USSR

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Some UN quarters Sunday expected an extraordinary New Year session of the General Assembly if the Soviet Union carried out its threat to boycott the disarmament commission.

One veteran observer of disarmament negotiations said it would be a pretty good guess that such a session would be held some time after Jan. 1, when the commission will grow from 12 to 25 members.

Some delegates, on the other hand, thought it more likely that a move would be made before the Assembly adjourns Dec. 11 to have it reconsider its decision enlarging the commission and endorsing the Western plan for overall partial disarmament.

The Assembly voted Tuesday to enlarge the commission in an effort to give a makeup that would satisfy the Russians. But the Soviet delegation reiterated in a statement it would not sit on the commission because most of the members belonged to "aggressive military blocs."

A Soviet spokesman, distributing this statement here Saturday, told reporters his delegation would agree to work on a commission of 32 countries—half Western and half communist and neutralist. He termed the Western disarmament position "unrealistic and propagandistic" because it overlooked a ban on nuclear weapons and tests.

But he said the Soviet Union was ready to discuss any "serious approach" from the West and it was up to the U.S. delegation to take the initiative. He said the Russians "will try to approach the Western position."

A U.S. Spokesman retorted that the Western position was serious and that the Assembly supported it. He also noted that the Assembly had proclaimed it wanted disarmament talks to continue.

"It's up to the Soviets," he said. "We'll still have a seat for them when the disarmament commission meets."

America 'Feverish,' Says Bevan

Official Writes on Impressions

LONDON (AP)—Aneurin Bevan wrote Sunday that he found in the United States "a desperate feverishness, with no sense of direction, and certainly with no conception of social design."

Bevan, who would become foreign secretary if the Socialistic Labor Party regains power, described impressions of his recent visit to the United States in an article in News of the World.

"The people of the United States are open, warmhearted, generous and infinitely hospitable," he wrote.

"It would be childish if I did not express my deep appreciation of the way in which I received the benefits of all these qualities."

Certificates Necessary For Students

Increasing students at Michigan State must have a health certificate on file at Olin Hospital, Dr. Clifford Menzies, hospital director, reminded Friday.

A State Board of Agriculture recommendation March 15 urged the university to require that students have a medical examination form completed by a family physician and mailed to the university, in order to be eligible for service.

Menzies stated the ruling was not strictly enforced for this year's incoming freshmen. It will be, however, for winter term enrollment, he added.

The following students are eligible for surgical and medical care at the Health Center.

"All students regularly enrolled in school and taking 11 credits or more are considered full-time students and entitled to health service. Graduate assistants and fellows regularly working toward a graduate degree, are considered eligible."

Students without the certificate will not be permitted to register winter term, the doctor said.

Germany's Reunifying Questioned

Professor Views Western Policy

LONDON (AP)—George F. Kennan called Sunday night for reappraisal of the West's policies toward German reunification and the possible withdrawal of both Eastern and Western forces in Europe.

The former U.S. ambassador to Moscow said in a radio address the West could not expect the Russians to end the division of Germany without some guarantee that a reunited Germany could not later be ranged in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization against the Soviet Union.

He also questioned whether the West would be left at a complete disadvantage by a "mutual withdrawal of forces from Europe"—in effect, the creation of a neutral belt across Europe.

Kennan, now professor of history at the Institute of Advanced Studies in Princeton, N.J., is a visiting professor at Oxford. He was giving his third talk in the British Broadcasting Corp. series of Reith lectures. These are delivered annually by an authority on a topic of outstanding public interest.

Sunday night's talk titled "The Problem of Eastern and Central Europe" dwelt on dangers to peace from the deadlock over Germany.

Kennan said a solution of the deadlock would be the key to settling the "extremely precarious situation" in the satellite countries of East Europe.

"Fear for your job, fear that you might be thought to hold views repugnant to your employers."

"The period of political witch-hunting, now known to history as McCarthyism contributed another element of hate."

"Hate of communism, hate of socialism, hate of radicalism, and hate of anything that could be regarded as tainted by any of these."

Against this background, Bevan argued, must be judged the shock felt by Americans at the launch of the Soviet satellite.

"But in a curious way they do not add up to a total social climate that I found in the least attractive. The frame is more magnificent and glittering than ever, but the picture inside is shallow, unrewarding and in places even tawdry."

Bevan, treasurer of the Labor party, asserted American advertising created a climate of opinion in which the dominant note was fear.

"Fear that you will fall behind in the display of ostentatious personal expenditure, fear that dandruff or body odor might lose you your sweetheart, fear of this, fear of that, fear of everything," the article said.

Ever meet a fanatic?

He's got just one thing uppermost in his mind. If he's looking for a job he's thinking only of pay or only of security. Reasonable men, however, weigh these and many other factors when they're evaluating career possibilities. Such factors as opportunity, challenging work, training, professional associates—things fanatics never bother to consider.

The Bell Telephone Companies have a booklet for reasonable men. It's called "Challenge and Opportunity." It's not the sort of thing that'll make a fanatic's eyes light up, but it ought to interest a thoughtful, young man—whatever his college background—who is weighing career possibilities. Browns' 4 Touchdowns Defeat Los Angeles

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jim Brown, who only a year ago was toiling for Syracuse University, set a National Football League rushing record Sunday by leading the Cleveland Browns to a 45-14 victory over the Los Angeles Rams.

A 220-pound, 5-foot-10-inch Brown hit the 1-A line for 223 yards rushing in 31 tries, but setting the league mark of 223 set last year by Tom Wilson of Los Angeles.

Brown, of course, is leading the league in rushing and now has piled up 769 yards in 161 efforts for his season's work.

No less important was that fact he scored four touchdowns. A feat which played no small part in keeping the Browns in their accustomed spot atop the Eastern Division of the NFL.

As it turned out, the Browns need the victory for the New York Giants, trailing along in second place just a half-game out, announced the Chicago Cardinals, 28-24, behind Chuck Conerly's two scoring passes.

The Colts, who had been downed by the Rams, and the Lions for first place in the Western Division of the NFL.

It appeared for a while that they were on their way down, but they came from behind three times and, Alan Ameche finally sent over the winning touchdown with less than a minute to go to cap a drive started by John Unitas' passing.

Bears, Casares Rip Detroit, 27-7

Special to the State News

DETROIT—Rick Casares, 221-pound fullback from Florida, scored two touchdowns to pace the Chicago Bears to a 27-7 upset victory over the Detroit Lions here Sunday.

The Lions' first blood as Gene Goshorn, former Hoosier star, capped a 77-yard first quarter drive scoring on a seven-yard run-off tackle. The drive covered 11 plays. Bobby Layne made the conversion, and the Lions led 7-0 at the end of the first quarter.

While Detroit was held scoreless, halfback Bobby Watkins and Casares accounted for two Bears touchdowns while George Blanda contributed a 10-yard field goal to give Chicago a 17-7 halftime lead. Watkins' scoring run covered seven yards, while Casares went off tackle for 25.

Casares scored his second touchdown in the third period four plays after guard Bill George recovered a John Henry Johnson fumble on the Lions 16-yard line. The play covered one yard.

The final Chicago score came on a 33-yard fourth quarter field goal by Blanda. Blanda, who kicked off for the Bears, also converted the three extra points. The first field goal was set up by Layne's fumble on the Lions 16-yard line.

The combined efforts of Lion quarterback Lance and Tobin Bell was only good enough to complete 12 passes in 35 attempts good for 119 yards. One pass was intercepted and 14 yards were lost attempting to pass.

Detroit picked up 14 first downs as compared with the Bears 17, and three of them were made by means of a penalty and only four in the second half. The Lions were in Chicago territory only three times. Two of their four fumbles were recovered by the Bears and were instrumental in the scoring.

Chicago's Ed Brown hit on seven aerials in 14 tries for 26 yards and had two passes intercepted. Seven yards were lost attempting to pass.

In rushing the Bears out-gained Detroit 200 to 196. Former Spartan Vic Zeno, a rookie halfback in the National Football League this year, was instrumental in the Bears' defense which held the Lions to a meager three yards rushing in the second half.

The Lions' loss coupled with Baltimore's win over San Francisco dropped Detroit into a two-way tie for second place in the Western Division with the 49ers. The victory gave the Bears a fourth place tie with the Los Angeles Rams.

A crowd of 55,769 viewed the game.

Dulles, W. German Minister Policy Accord Reached

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and West Germany were described by Secretary of State Dulles and Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano Sunday as "in accord on major policy questions."

The agreement was announced after the two foreign policy leaders concluded an intensive round of conferences on proposals for strengthening the Atlantic alliance.

Von Brentano flew into Washington Saturday morning, spent the afternoon and evening talking with Dulles, met him again Sunday for an hour, then took off for Europe.

He was enroute back to Rome where he will rejoin German President Theodor Heuss on a visit.

While neither Von Brentano nor Dulles spelled out what they meant by agreement, the implication of what they said was that they would together in the NATO summit meeting at Paris next month to achieve:

1. A much greater degree of political consultation among the 15 NATO allies than now exists.

2. The largest possible cooperation in pooling of scientific, technical and development for military and potential purposes.

3. A greater sharing of the tasks of the alliance, although it was understood that West Germany has made plans its interest in going into missile production in behalf of the allies. U. S. officials have been studying the possibility of missile production in various countries.

Although Von Brentano said that Dulles and he had not discussed creation of missile bases in German territory because that is a matter for the military, it was reported the discussion had brought understanding that establishment of missile launching sites would create no serious problem since they would be, for the time being at least, under operational control of American rather than west German forces.

Ag Board

The total $800 to 1,000 students are expected to enroll for classes when the term opens in the fall of 1959, Varner told the board.

Tentative plans for the structure of the $10,000,000 college presented to Michigan State last January by Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Varner, president and vice president, respectively, of the board, told the board that fall term enrollment at State was officially set at 20,572. This included 19,700 on-campus credit students and 772 in extension credit courses.

Sitting with the State Board for the first time were two members-elect and a recently appointed member by Governor G. Mennen Williams.

G. Donald Stevens of Grand Rapids and Jan B. Van der Ploeg of Muskegon were elected last April and will take office on Jan. 1. Allen C. Dorken of 15601 East 14th Ave., East Lansing, was appointed by the Governor last month to fill the position vacated by the resignation of William F. Baker of Grand Rapids.

All 15 of the new members are Democrats, which was just the Democratic vote for reorganization in January.

Note Class Change!

Staff and students are reminded that classes scheduled to meet Thursday will meet Monday, Dec. 9 while Friday's classes will be held Dec. 10.

of confidence between the United States and Germany had been strengthened.

Earlier he had said the United States and Germany are agreed there should be increased technical cooperation within NATO and regular military consultation, involving members of the alliance.

He stressed, however, that he "did not come here in order to reach spectacular decisions between the two of us."

The German foreign minister said he discussed with Dulles how the NATO summit conference in Paris Dec. 16 can be made fruitful.

A major contribution to the university library's permanent collection was accepted by the board from Mrs. Thomas H. Ogilvie, East Lansing. Included were 1,077 volumes, among which were significant works pertaining to English and Scottish history and English poetry.

A large number of the books were custom bound by a noted London firm.
