Segregation Talks Good But Fruitless

Eight student government presidents from the Big 10 met here this weekend to discuss mutual campus problems, mainly racial segregation in fraternities, sororities and campus organizations...

The report said "choosing of one's own friends and associates is a social right which cannot be confused with civil rights."

This means colored boy, Jew boy—stay out! This report is a direct violation of every principle we have been fighting for to rid the world of rabble-rousers and bigots.

Sixty-one national and international fraternities, acting through delegates to the annual conference in Colorado, instructed the organization's executive committee to carry out the report's recommendations.

The fraternities "instructed" the executive committee to: 1. Circulate the report to fraternity chapters and alumni.

2. Encourage fraternity representatives to contact college officials and legislators personally to persuade them that "each college fraternity is a social organization, voluntary membership, and is entitled to exercise its fundamental American right to choose members in accordance with its own standards."

3. What did the report say about the present trend of colleges and universities throughout the nation forcing fraternities to remove restrictive clauses? They charged that an effort to force college fraternities to remove restrictive racial and religious clauses is a planned move "to reduce Greek letter societies to a position of impotence, if not to eliminate them entirely."

This Greek bunk is without a doubt the most undemocratic, discriminating development made at a national fraternity convention on record.

The report added there is presently agitation in more than 50 colleges against the clauses. J. Edward Murphy, conference treasurer, described the restrictive clauses as examples of "the good old American right to select our friends."

We pray that this report will go no further. We pray it never reaches our campus. We pray that the courts rule this report unenforceable and discriminating. The Big 10 presidents voted unanimously to continue the fight against discrimination—the fraternity representatives were in complete disarray.

Let us hope that the Big 10 student chiefs stick to their guns.

President's Speech Trouble Spotlights Related Problems

EDITOR'S NOTE: President Eisenhower's recent stroke and consequent speech impediment have caused considerable controversy. Dr. Ralph Leutenegger, head of speech pathology and audiology in the Michigan State speech dept., here describes some of the common speech troubles of elderly persons and their effects.

President Eisenhower's recent cerebro-vascular incident has put the spotlight on one of the problems of the older members of our society. Frequently such a "stroke" affects the individual's speech. There are a variety of results, dependent on which part of the brain has been affected...

A-Power Plan Called Inadequate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Durham (D-NC) said Sunday the U. S. atomic program is inadequate and confused. He called on the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) for a reappraisal of its aims.

Durham, chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, made his views known in a letter to AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss.

Among other things, Durham viewed a proposal of a 19-year demonstration power reactor program to provide long-term assurance to private industry of government aid for private and public atomic power development.

"Police Confusion" Writing Strauss, Durham asserted: "Their appears to be considerable confusion as to what our objectives and policies are and should be."

However, the general consensus seems to be that the current atomic power development program is not adequate, particularly if we take into account the objective of world leadership in reactor technology.

Durham's letter appeared to be another indication of dissatisfaction among some members of Congress over development of the present-day use of atomic energy, particularly in relation to Soviet claims of atomic power capability.

The North Carolina Democrat wrote Strauss that discussions among committee members and interested individuals here and abroad "have all pointed to the overriding need for a reappraisal of our policies and more precise definition of the policy objectives in the atomic power development program, both from a domestic and international standpoint."

part of the brain has been affected and the extent of the brain damage. This is critical to all parts of the body through the blood stream. When the blood supply falls any given area of the brain the bodily activities controlled by that segment of the brain are interrupted. In the case of speech there is an interruption of the normal flow of information that is to say it is not merely a question of being able or not being able to talk. Instead, there are numerous variations possible from the normal speech.

The term "aphasia" refers to faulty articulation due to brain damage. Perhaps most of us are aware of some older persons whose speech has become "fuzzy." Everything said makes sense, the grammar remains essentially unchanged, but the individual sounds become distorted.

In the main we tend to accept this kind of change as a normal part of aging, even though it frequently is the result of a stroke or other vascular incident.

More dramatic is the more dramatic and devastating in its effects. There are many different symptom patterns, which are considered under the broad classification of aphasia. These range from complete inability to talk or to understand to minor interruptions of their activities.

To illustrate the extent of a person can become completely unable to put his thoughts into words. The process of verbal communication has been lost. All that the person can do is make a series of unrelated sound combinations. Needless to say, the psychological impact of knowing what you want to say and being unable to say it is most frustrating.

Professionally trained people face work with these patients an exciting and deeply rewarding experience. This is particularly true if the speech therapist, as he is able to bring the patient back into better contact with his environment. Aphasia therapy is but one of the many interesting aspects of a speech pathologist or speech therapist's work.

After a stroke some people retain a few isolated words which are still used intelligently. Others have short phrases at their disposal. Others use some words but the "little" words, the adverbs, conjunctions, and prepositions disappear.

Even in slight cases of aphasia, such as the President apparently experienced, there can be after-effects of rapid fatigability. The mind can become "fuzzy" after prolonged use. The patient can forget the thought of the beginning of a paragraph before he finishes reading it through to its end.

Professional training people face work with these patients an exciting and deeply rewarding experience. This is particularly true if the speech therapist, as he is able to bring the patient back into better contact with his environment. Aphasia therapy is but one of the many interesting aspects of a speech pathologist or speech therapist's work.

Lodge to Disclose Algerian Policy

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., (AP) — The United States was under pressure from Asian-African and European allies Sunday to take a stand for or against Algerian-French negotiations on a cease-fire for Algeria.

An American source told a newsman the position would be disclosed in a speech by U.S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge in the U.N. General Assembly's Political Committee, probably this week. He added nothing would be said about it until then.

Asian and Asian delegations were working on a resolution whereby the Assembly would call on France to negotiate with Algerian Nationalists for settlement of the three-year-old rebellion in Algeria.

Moroccan King Mohammed V and Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba have offered to help in such negotiations to be based on sovereignty for Algeria and safeguards for French interests, but French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau told the U.N. committee in opening Algerian debate Wednesday that a cease-fire and elections must precede any talks.

A spokesman for the rebel Algerian front of national liberation said today its position was that a cease-fire could come only through a political settlement resulting from negotiations on the basis of independence. He said its main issue with France was whether the cease-fire should come before or after the elections.

"We are all anxious to hear the U.S. position," the source said. "Everybody has been asking the United States about it for the last month."

The matter was important because, as Syrian delegate Farid Zaimineh told the committee Saturday, the U.S. stand on any resolution has its persuasive effects.

This has been especially true among the 29 Latin American delegations. A two-thirds vote in the 42-nation Assembly would be needed to adopt a resolution on Algeria.

An Asian diplomat expressed belief the United States would abstain from voting on any decisive Algerian resolution.

Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, now 70 years old, has announced his intention to retire next year as deputy Allied commander in Europe. He's the last top Allied commander of World War II on active duty.

U.S. 'Wakened' by Sputniks

"The thought that the country we have always considered backward might be beating our American scientists with the launching of Sputniks I and II is a healthy shock," contends an expert on the Soviet Union here.

The shock, according to Dr. Alfred G. Meyer, 75, awakes in American policy makers more respect for learning and the sciences. The Soviet educational system is geared to bringing out the latent talent in all the population and we have known for some time that the Russians have been producing more and going to run the Soviet Union in better engineers than we are."

Dr. Meyer explained that in Russia the higher the grade average the more of a stipend the student gets.

The MSU political scientist has made an extensive study of the Soviet Union and is author of the books "Leninism" and "Marxism," published by the Harvard University Press.

'Conspectus' Interview To Feature Arbitrator

Dr. Chas. Killingsworth, director of the department of economics and noted arbitrator for labor disputes, will be the guest on "Conspectus," scheduled for WKAR-TV tonight.

Jessie Landfield hosts the weekly program and interviews leading campus personalities.

ation in Russia and the recent Cosmograd of Defense Minister George Zhukov, Dr. Meyer said. "The question of who is relatively unimportant."

Soviet policies depend far less on who makes them than on the groups he may represent, the problems faced by such groups and Soviet society as a whole, and on the political traditions of the Soviet state.

"When the scanty evidence we have," he said, "we can conclude that ever since Stalin died his lieutenants have made strenuous efforts to prevent anyone from succeeding him. All the leaders know the fate in store for them should one man become Stalin's successor."

Spartan Cagers Encounter Butler in Home Opener; Seek to Avenge Last Year's Bulldog Overtime Win

5 Veterans Slated to Start

By LARRY WROBLEWSKI
State News Night Editor

The curtain rises on the basketball front, as the Michigan State cagers host Butler University tonight at 8 p.m. in the Jemison Fieldhouse.

The Spartans will seek to avenge last year's 81-79 overtime setback at the hands of Butler.

Also at stake is a chance to earn Butler's two-win string over the cagers which includes last winter's victory and a 40-39 triumph in 1947.

Although listed as a "small" college, Butler has spoiled nothing, but TRIBLE for Big 10 teams.

Looking at the overall Spartan-Butler record, this assumption holds true, for the Bulldogs hold a commanding edge of seven wins and three losses.

Hoping to maintain their success over the Spartans, the Bulldogs will field virtually the same personnel which proved disastrous for the cagers last season.

Coach Paul Hinkle, entering his 29th year of coaching, will call on six freshmen to form his continuation.

This includes forwards Ted Gurek (6'4") and Keith Grave (6'2") with sophomore Ken Pennington (6'4") filling the center slot and Bob Plump (5-11 1/2) and Wally Cox (6'4") handling the rearguard duties.

Gurek's 331 points established a new varsity record and, in three years of competition he has counted 1,060 points. He is Butler's All-America nominee.

Plump was the horn in the sides of the Spartans last year as he personally contributed 23 points.

Grave returns to the team following his two-year hitch in the Army after three time varsity years in 1952-53-54.

Spartan followers will be able to view coach Forde's Anter's crew for the first time since its inspiring rise to the Big 10 co-championship and eventual fourth place finish in the NCAA finals after beating North Carolina, the champion, three bitter fought overtime games.

Anderson has built this year's nucleus around forward Larry Hedden (6'5"), center John Green (6'5") and guard Jack Quigley (6'3"), all starters from last year's championship contingent.

Making their first appearance as starters will be forward Bob Anderegg (6'3") and guard Dave Scott (6'2"). Both were used in substitute roles last year.

For the first time in Spartan cage history the squad has attracted national prominence by being ranked eighth in the country before even its first game.

On hand to give the Spartans needed depth is a quartet made up of either Max Gombosch or Chuck Benice, Kentucky game hero, at center, two promising sophomore forward prospects in Lance Olson and Horace Walker along with guards Jim Stodger and Tom Rand.

"This Butler outfit is real dangerous. With Gurek and Plump heading the attack we'll have our hands full," said Anderson.

Proceeding the varsity basketball intrasquad freethrow game will start at 6:15.

The cagers travel Friday to Detroit to meet the Titans and host Colorado Dev. 14.

The probable starting lineup:

STATE BUTLER
33 HEDDEN F. 24 GURK
23 ANDEREGG F. 23 GRAVE
24 GREEN C. 25 PENNINGTON
21 QUIGLEY G. 25 PLUMP

The Big 10 cage teams swing into action tonight against non-conference rivals, so here are a few predictions.

INDIANA over Ohio University. Hoosiers have Dees and that seems enough.

ILLINOIS over Marquette. The Warriors lost their opener Saturday while the Illini are power-liners.

SMU over Minnesota. Probably the only Big 10 squad that will lose is the Gophers. Having lost many regulars last year because of graduation, Minnesota must rely on a crop of sophomores.

PURDUE over Miami of Ohio. The Hoosiers figure to be as strong as last year.

WISCONSIN over South Dakota. This should be a close contest.

College basketball, that December to March extravaganza, makes its big time debut for another season tonight with... of all things... a French touch.

Many of the major powers are getting right down to business and so is Gonzaga University in showing off Jean Lefebvre (Feet) Lefebvre, a 2-foot-3, 280-pound import from the French facilities near Paris.

Although Lefebvre was a size 19 shoe and still finds them tight, was introduced to basketball only two years ago, Gonzaga Coach Hank Amerson says he's coming along well.

Just how well, some 3,000 fans and interested onlookers will be able to tell when Gonzaga plays the College of Idaho tonight.

Meanwhile, America's homebred big man, Will Chamberlain, leads the Kansas Jayhawks against always-tough Oklahoma State in one of the major features. Kansas ranked second in the nation a year ago in Chamberlain's sophomore season, behind North Carolina's undefeated National Collegiate Champ.

Browns, Colts Win; Lead Pros

The Cleveland Browns, out of the picture last year for the first time in their history, won the Eastern Conference championship and the NFL title by defeating the Pittsburgh Steelers in the Western Conference championship game with victories in the National Football League.

Tommy O'Connell, who went into the Cleveland-Cards game with a twisted ankle midway of the third period, converted after a second period touchdown from Sammy Jurgeson to Dick Dieckel, provided the difference between the Eagles and the Steelers. Pittsburgh threatened constantly in the second half but had to settle for two field goals by Gary Glick.

The Redskins counted twice in the first period behind the passing of Eddie LeBaron and then threw up a defense that never permitted the Bears to get past their 42-yard line.

Gene Bah, Joe Perry and Billy Wilson scored the Bears' touchdowns and Gordy Soltau added field goals of 11 and 21 yards. Although Wilson's TD was the only one scored through the air, Tittle kept the Giants constantly on the defense through the second half with his well-

A Campus-to-Career Case History

"I looked at all the angles"

Howard R. Winter, B.B.A., Texas A & M '51, is now a Commercial Manager with Southwestern Bell Telephone Company in Houston, Texas. He is in charge of 30,000 telephone accounts and a staff of 36 people.

Howard's interest in a telephone career dates from his first interview with a telephone company representative. "I looked at all the angles," he says. "We discussed pay and chances for advancement, which looked excellent because of the rapid growth of the Bell System. We talked about many different kinds of work, and about what would be expected of me."

After receiving his degree in business administration, Howard joined Southwestern Bell's Commercial Department. "It was natural for me," he says. "I have a business background. I like to sell and make contacts."

"My training gave me a really solid foundation in the business. Two years in the Army interrupted it, by the way, but the two years were credited to my telephone company records and count toward all benefits. After I returned and finished my training, I was made a business office supervisor. And since February, 1956, I've been a Commercial Manager in Houston. Each assignment I've had has been a real challenge, and has presented a tremendous opportunity to contribute to and advance in the business."

Be sure to investigate the career opportunities for you in the 17 Bell Telephone Companies serving all 48 states. On your campus the local company represents the others. For more information about these career opportunities, read the Bell Telephone booklet on file in your Placement Office, or write for "Challenge and Opportunity" to: College Employment Supervisor, American Telephone and Telegraph Co., 195 Broadway, New York 7, New York.

Rangers Blast Wings, 5-1; Snap 4 Game Loss Streak

DETROIT (AP)—The New York Rangers broke a four-game losing streak tonight, blasting the Detroit Red Wings 5-1 in a National Hockey League contest.

Larry Papan started it with a 40-yarder that sailed over Sawchuk's shoulder at the 1:17 mark and just two minutes later MacDonald followed with almost an identical goal after a scramble in front of the Detroit net. Henry completed the rout three minutes later. He took the puck away from Metro Pyston at the blue line and coming in all alone on Sawchuk beat him on the short side.
