Read Daily by MSU's 25,000 Students and Faculty

The Michigan State News is published by students of Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich., without direct faculty supervision. It is not the official voice of the university or of the student body, but while seeking to serve the best interests of both, stands ready to battle any move which would drive a wedge between the two whether it comes from within the university or from outside. Student Pedestrians Ignore Automobiles

IT IS EVIDENT that the pedestrian form of travel has existed longer than the motor vehicle type. Yet this historical fact does not necessarily mean that pedestrians at MSU have the right of way over all automobiles and other vehicles.

MSU students have long been locally notorious for their maneuvering into the paths of oncoming cars. Many students, in their eagerness to reach their various destinations (they just can't wait to get to that 4.5 Nat Sci lecture...) use any type of short-cut available.

For these unthinking and inconsiderate students motorists must stop. We would hate to report the consequences were the motorists equally as thoughtless as many of the pedestrian student body.

THIS DISREGARD for the rights of automobiles can have its indirect effects, too. As mentioned before, the student body's reputation has not been enhanced.

Its reputation is made even worse when, as often happens, some student replies with an indignant verbal blast to any driver who would dare question the student's area of jurisdiction by sounding his horn.

Perhaps, too, this situation has some influence on campus police and their sometimes over-indulgent passing out of traffic and parking violations.

Obviously, there is no valid reason for such behavior. Students know traffic laws and ought to respect the rights of those 3,000-pound vehicles threatening their safety.

Simply out of concern for their own personal safety—and their lives—and for the rights of others, student pedestrians must learn again to follow rules learned in first grade—just plain old "Stop, look, wait—then walk."

Student Congress Lauded

We'd like to pay AUSA what we feel is a well-deserved compliment for its handling of the proposed Johnny Mathis show.

Perhaps the final outcome of the vote will be disapproved by some students, but the manner in which the decision was reached showed responsible consideration throughout.

Presentation of the idea, first of all, was very thorough. Wayne Reganall of Student Government's executive branch had prepared a detailed five-page report covering tentative finances, seating arrangements and nearly every possible angle. This was mimeographed for each congressman.

Student representatives were notified in advance and asked to feel out their constituents on the idea, to gain some notion of its possible success.

The lengthy discussion on the proposal was calm and intelligent. Valid considerations were brought out, and there was almost none of the previously experienced irrelevant bickering over trivialities.

The big factor defeating the measure was its tremendous risk. Congress members did not feel they had a right to chance the "quarters" of about 40,000 students.

The final vote—a close one—was the result of careful consideration, each representative acting as he determined the best interests of his constituents and the student body.

We'd like to applaud AUSA, and sincerely hope that this example of responsibility is only the first step in improving the effectiveness in working for the students' interests.

Foreign Policy Decision

U. S. Should Reject Dictators

'Inter-Americanism' Needed

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the final article in a three-part series by Carlos Teran, professor of Latin American studies at MSU, explaining U. S.-Latin American relationships and suggesting means to improve them.

By CARLOS TERAN

Such a policy is understandable only when we consider that responsibility in world affairs befall this country too early. This is the only reasonable explanation which might prompt the Latin Americans to be lenient in their criticism and not to lose hope for the future.

In reality, the United States was an isolationist nation wealthy but provincial, until 1914. The treaty of Versailles threatened the United States with a terrible obligation, that of sharing the government of the world.

Look for Reasons. Nixon's visit put the finger on the sore. The grief was expressed in loud outbursts. The United States, with true greatness, did not confine itself to skimming the outer aspect of the trouble but began to search for the reasons.

It was, in truth, a wonderful example of greatness and generosity which might have been complete without the useless boasting of parachutists and marines who at an ill-fated hour were summoned by President Eisenhower.

Policies Being Revised. At this time, all the policies of the United States toward Latin America are being revised.

Present conditions make this revision more urgent. The happenings in Asia and Africa point to an approaching major danger.

The Latin Americans are concerned with a United States, truly democratic, free from any racial conflicts or unpleasant boasting of power and wealth.

So the United States should be concerned with a united, democratic, prosperous, cultured Latin America, free from the physical, spiritual and morally annihilating, disgraceful yoke of dictatorships.

Should Reject Dictators

The disappearance of the dictatorships which the United States should disavow and even reject openly, the frank and loyal help to the authentically democratic governments which follow the doctrines taught by this country, the ceasing of the identification of political force with the force of weapons, and the quon non conditions for friendship and fruitful collaboration.

We need a new deal from whose application the countries and citizens of the two Americas will come out united, under the inspiration of an authentic "democratic and anti-imperialistic inter-Americanism."

Film Fare Comedy Offering Seen In Weekend's Movies

By ED FLOURNOY

Those who like comedy should be pretty well pleased with the week-end outlook in movies. At the Luau is Alec Guinness' latest offering from Britain, "The Horse's Mouth."

This film has already won several honors and is on a number of the most prominent 10 Best lists.

Alec Guinness won the Volpi Cup for Best Actor at last year's Venice International Film Festival and came in second best at the annual voting of the New York Film Critics. Kay Walsh, who plays Coker, the homely barnmaid, was voted Best Supporting Actress by the National Board of Review.

Guinness himself wrote the screenplay based on Joyce Carey's novel of the same name, but his acting is considerably more adroit than his writing, or at least it would appear so in this case.

There is no real plot, just the adventures of Guilely Jimson, the artist who is half genius, half tramp. For all it's worth, "The Horse's Mouth" is a rather zany 93 minutes with more than just a few good laughs. Guinness is a master at this sort of comedy and makes this whole potpourri of nothingness enjoyable.

"Rally Round the Flag, Boys"

Since timing novels is becoming more and more popular, it isn't at all surprising that Max Shulman's tale about a public relations man (Paul Newman in the film) his busy-body wife (Joanne Woodward) and the U. S. Army has also been subject matter for the cameras.

"Rally Round the Flag, Boys" opens Saturday at the Gladner and is highly recommended for those who like comedy American style.

In addition to the aforementioned performers, Joan Collins, Jack Carson, and Gale Gordon, formerly Mr. Conklin of the "Our Miss Brooks" series, are in the cast. Leo McCarey was a perfect choice for director of a film of this weight.

"Anna Lucasta,"

"Anna Lucasta," at the Michigan, is a bit of a comedy too, an occurrence not intended, to be sure, by the author of the play, Philip Yordan, who is also responsible for the screenplay.

Eartha Kitt's dramatic ability is negligible, but never let it be said that she isn't entertaining to watch, and entertainment is about all "Anna Lucasta" has to offer.

The Lansing film year usually ends in mid-March, and for this reason, it is rather difficult for those who like to ponder and select from the year's output to feel justified in doing so. It is also for this reason that Film Fare is a bit late in reviewing last year's highlights, but next week's column will be devoted entirely to the Best Films of 1958.

What's New With Hue?

Spring Styles Feature Upbeat, Offbeat Colors

Hue is the cry for spring, according to all reports on the new spring fashions. For the coming season, styles will be the boldest and most colorful in years.

The voice of the turtle will soon be heard in the land and so will the authoritative voices of Triguere, Chanel, Schiaparelli, Balenciaga and Mr. Mort. Eventually the dictates of these leading couturiers will be adapted and copied by lower-priced designers and manufacturers more commonly patronized by Miss and Mrs. America.

Costs and suits forecasting the spring trend are not only brilliant in themselves, but are often worn with sharply contrasting blues or with hats in surprise colors.

With this whole new spectrum of color, red suits paired with hot pink blouses are not a breach of good taste, but an exciting new innovation. The "girl in the grey flannel suit" will be an unusual sight in the Easter parade since such subdued shades as

Runners Hope Triangle Lucky

By DARWIN BENNETT
The Michigan State team, which is expected to be a contender for the Big 10 crown, will be a 20-man squad, intent on returning to East Lansing Saturday night with a victory.
A full Big 10 schedule is the prospect for the meet at Kalamazoo, with only two entries per school permitted in the dash, hurdles, 300, 440 and 600. This is to eliminate the preliminary.
Brian Castle, out for the better part of two weeks with a pulled muscle and Bob Hughes, who has been suffering from an infected sinus, are both back in the Spartan "line-up" and ready for Saturday's meet.
The Spartans were routed by Michigan, a Big 10 title favorite, in a dual meet last week by a 112½-49½ score. Western only won three firsts in the entire meet.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Red Schoendienst underwent major surgery Thursday to speed his recovery from tuberculosis. His doctors repeated their belief it's unlikely he can play this year, and they remain uncertain about 1960.
This leaves the pennant-winning Milwaukee Braves without a likely second base replacement for spring training.
Mel Roach had been regarded as the most probable substitute for Schoendienst, the play-making team leader who just turned 36. But Roach, 26, still is limping on a left knee damaged in a collision last August. There is doubt he will be ready on opening day.
A tubercular portion of Schoendienst's right lung was removed in the three-hour operation. He has been a patient since his ailment was diagnosed, shortly after the World Series in which he starred in a losing cause.
Extent of the disease's damage to the lung was about as expected and the surgery should give Schoendienst a better chance for a normal life, his doctor said.
If Roach isn't ready for the start of this season, the second base job may fall to utility man Felix Mantilla or possibly to Casey Wise.

With Vancouver Green Bay's First Draft Choice Signs

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Randy Duncan, Iowa's all-American quarterback, Thursday signed a professional football contract with British Columbia of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.
Duncan, serving six months in the Army at Fort Leonard Wood,

RANDY DUNCAN ... decerts Packers ...

Mo., told his father, Hearst Duncan, Des Moines attorney, that he signed the contract.

Terms of the contract were not revealed. It was estimated that he will receive about $35,000 for the two years.

Duncan was the number one draft choice of the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League. He will report to Vancouver in July after completing his service hitch.

Duncan's father said money was not the deciding factor in his son's decision to play football in Canada.

"Randy felt he had a better future in Canadian professional football," the elder Duncan said. "He does not plan to make a career of playing pro football."

Duncan's father said "Green Bay was more than fair in its financial offer to Randy."

Minnesota Grapplers Here at 8

Gophers Have Strong Squad

Michigan State wrestlers host Minnesota tonight in what offers to be the best match of the season according to assistant wrestling mentor Gale Mykles.

The Gophers are bringing a team of outstanding grapplers for the 8 o'clock meet at the Sports Arena in the IM building, the last for the Spartans at home this season.

Michigan State and Minnesota have met previously this season in a quadrangular tournament where the Spartans had the upper hand with 74 points. Minnesota was third with 44 points.

A gaping hole has been left by a rib injury to Bill Koehn, Gopher 167-pounder. The outstanding sophomore has lost but one match in seven bouts. Jim Ferguson was scheduled to face him.

Only one Gopher spot is weak, the 130-pound. Bob Board, a sophomore, has a single win in six bouts.

Spartan wrestling coach Fendley Collins has announced one change in the line-up that slaughtered Ohio State, 22-6. Gordon Johnson (147) defeated Jerry Jackard in qualifications.

Joe Marchal will face Gopher Ron Andrews in the 123-pound clash. Andrews has a 6-1 record compared to Marchal's 0-3.

Norman Young (139) expects to get back in the winning trail after losing two straight. He faces Board.

Bill Gucciardo faces Charles Coeff, a 137-pounder with a 4-1-1 mark.

Bob Moser will have a rough encounter with Harry Schliet, a sophomore with a 4-1 mark. 157-pound Moser has a 2-2-1 record.

John McCray (177), who has won his last four bouts, will have a struggle in Bill Wright. Heavyweight Tim Woodin will have a rougher night than he is accustomed to. The NCAA champ has pinned three opponents in the same number of bouts. But his opposition tonight, Pete Veldman, is undefeated in four matches.

Now a Globetrotter 'Wilt the Stilt' Reported On His Way to Warriors

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Wilt "The Stilt" Chamberlain is in the bag for the Philadelphia Warriors of the National Basketball Association for next season, it was intimated Thursday.

Owner Eddie Gottlieb of the Warriors laughed out loud at a report from Chicago Wednesday night that Minneapolis promoter Max Winter will head a new NBA franchise at the Chicago Stadium with "Wilt the Stilt" a member of the team.

"If Chamberlain plays in the NBA, he'll play for Philadelphia. Of that I can assure you," said Gottlieb.

Pressed to clear the air on the status of Chamberlain, Gottlieb admitted that he had talked with Abe Saperstein, owner of the Harlem Globetrotters for whom Chamberlain now is playing.

"I talked with Chamberlain and Saperstein four years ago when we acquired the rights to Wilt, and again last year before he turned pro with the Trojans."

While Gottlieb didn't actually say it, his tone and obvious confidence indicated that Chamberlain, Saperstein and the Philadelphia owner had a meeting of minds although no contract was signed.

The Warriors actually won't draft Chamberlain until next month's NBA player selection meeting. It's a foregone conclusion Gottlieb will take the big fellow as his top choice. Gottlieb obtained rights to the highly publicized former Kansas All-American under a high school territorial rule passed by the NBA some four years ago. Chamberlain attended high school in Philadelphia.

Gottlieb also spiked the general feeling that Chamberlain might be too rich for his (Gottlieb's) blood. He said it was wrong to assume the Warriors couldn't pay Chamberlain enough money to woo him from the Globetrotters.

Michigan Swimmers Come Here

Wolves Defending Big 10 Champions

By SUZETTE RAMSEY
Michigan, seeking its third consecutive NCAA title and its second straight Big 10 crown, will face a victory hungry Michigan State swimming squad tonight at 8 in the Jenison Pool.

Undefeated Michigan is swimming against a State team with no losses, those to Indiana and Ohio State. The abundance of good races between champion material on both squads should make the meet's outcome unpredictable.

State's Billy Stewart will be meeting Dick Hanley, American titleholder in this event, the 220-yard freestyle. Stewart, consistent record-breaker, should challenge Hanley's title.

The 50-yard freestyle should be another good race with Captain Don Patterson battling Frank Legacki, All-American swimmer and Carl Woolley, runner-up in the 220 in the NCAA championship last year.

Patterson, NCAA champ in this event, along with Dave Diget and Denny Baker in the 100-yard freestyle, will be swimming against Legacki and Woolley again, combined with Hanley.

Both of these freestyle races could be surprising since the average times of the participants are so close that, barring complications they might be photo finishes.

Stewart and Hanley will compete again in the 440-yard freestyle. John Urbanacok will be swimming with Hanley. Even with the distance to be covered in this event, the race should be extremely close.

MSU's NCAA champion breaststroker, Frank Modine, will be competing in another unpredictable race against Captain Cy Hopkins in the 200-yard breaststroke. Hopkins is the American record holder and Big 10 champ in this event.

Some of the attractions from Michigan in diving are Tony Turner, British Olympic performer, and Dick Kimball, NCAA high and low board champion in 1957 and runner-up last year. They will meet State's Jerry Chadwick and Tony Kasmann.

Tony Tashnick won the 100 and 200-yard NCAA butterfly events as well as three Big 10 titles for U of M last year. Tashnick and Hopkins will swim in the 200-yard individual medley, too.

Entered in the 50-yard backstroke for Michigan is John Smith, who finished third and fourth in the 200 and 100-yard NCAA backstrokes last year.

The Michigan meet is "homecoming" for swimming alumni. Spartan alumni will gather for the Friday night meet, then have planned activities, among them meeting the 1959 swimmer, and having an informal alumni swim on Saturday.

In the Big 10 Invitational in Ann Arbor last month, Michigan took seven firsts and two seconds in the nine events.

This is the last home meet before the Big 10 races in the IM pool March 5, 6 and 7. Feb. 28 the Spartans travel to Madison for the last dual meet of the season with Wisconsin.

Spahn Inks Contract

Ford Offered Enticement to Behave

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Whitey Ford, New York Yankee left-handed pitcher, was told Thursday his salary in 1959 would be $35,000 if he would behave off the field during the season. At about the same time southpaw Warren Spahn of Milwaukee signed a $65,000 pact for the coming year.

Ford had a 14-7 record last season for the American league champions who defeated the Braves in the World Series. Spahn posted a 22-11 mark for Milwaukee, then won two games and lost one in the Series. Ford's series record was 0-1.

Spahn, who will be 36 in April, is the highest paid pitcher in the majors. He had been insisting on a raise from his 1958 salary estimated at $60,000. Spahn is the first southpaw in the history of baseball to win 20 or more games in nine seasons.

Ford conferred for an hour with Roy Hamey, assistant general manager, at the Yankees' St. Petersburg, Fla., training camp. He was one of the Yankees criticized last month by Manager Casey Stengel for training violations last season. Private detectives hired by the club scouted several Yankees during off hours last summer.

It was reported the World Champions wanted to cut Ford's salary from $32,000 to $27,000.

Then Hamey agreed on a $35,000 figure if Whitey would agree to a contract covering his deportment off the field.

Ford, who led the league with an earned run average of 2.01 last year, felt that by agreeing to such terms he would be admitting training infractions. He left camp for his beach apartment, where he's living with his family.

Observers at the Yankees' camp also believe that a similar offer has been made to Mickey Mantle, star centerfielder. Mantle's name also had been linked to stories of late hour activities.

It was reported that instead of a slice in wages, Mantle had been offered a boost from $72,000 to $75,000 if he would agree to an off field behavior clause.

Spahn agreed to terms after a telephone talk with Birdie Tebbets, executive vice president. The Braves now have signed 28 players, with 13 to go.

Olson, Walker Expected to Start Forddy Eyes Boilermakers as Villains

HORACE WALKER

LANCE OLSON

By CHUCK RICHARDS

Forddy Anderson, who has been expected to start in the Michigan State football game, has a safe lead in the Big 10 race than when it was thought to be first.

The Spartans' difficult victory over Northwestern, Monday, coupled with Indiana's setback gave State a two-game lead, the largest they have enjoyed in recent history.

But Anderson, who has had nothing but success since coming to State from Bradley, just can't relax.

His present worry is a formidable one — Purdue. The teams will clash in Jensen Fieldhouse at 8 p.m., Saturday.

"We're not as optimistic as everyone feels," Anderson said with caution. "We're wary of any kind of laxness because a collapse is still possible. We're worried about Purdue. They are one of the three teams we've lost to, you know."

What is the Michigan State coaching staff doing to combat the possibility of a collapse?

"The whole theme this week has been to take it easy," he said. "We have been having individual workouts, especially with Lance Olson and Horace Walker out."

Olson is still bothered by an injured left heel and Walker has been suffering from a touch of the flu. Both are expected to be ready for Saturday's contest.

The pair will certainly be needed if State is to entertain hopes for its finest season in history.

The Spartans stand 14-3 overall with four games left on the docket. State could still lose one game.

Michigan State's phenomenal rebounding crew of John Green, Walker, and Bob Anderson will be waiting for the Boilermakers to find the hoop.

Green paces the attack, second-best in the conference, with a 29.2 average but Anderson is close behind at 18.8.

The schedule favors State in the run for an NCAA tournament berth. Besides Purdue, the Spartans face Wisconsin and Iowa on their own floor. Only the crucial contest with Indiana is away.

Indiana is also favored with three of its remaining four games at home while Purdue faces three road games.

It is no wonder Anderson is cautious with the end so close in sight.

Boisture will join the MSU coaching staff after a highly successful career as head coach at Bedford St. Mary's High School in Detroit.

He served as coach at St. Mary's for five seasons, with his teams winning 37 games, losing only four and tying two. His 1957 team was Detroit city champion and his 1958 team was runner-up.

The 33-year-old native Detroit was a graduate of the University of Detroit, where he played football and basketball. On the U of D gridiron, he set three pass-catching records.

Following college, he spent one season as an assistant coach at St. Alphonsus High School in Dearborn, then went to St. Francis Xavier at Ecorse, where he was head coach for three years. In 1954 he moved to St. Mary's.

Several of his players at St. Mary's have gone on to play college football. Among these are Kevin Furlong, Jack Roger Donahoe, Fred Aronson, and Don Kopach, MSU; and Henry Stuart, Michigan.

Stoll served two seasons as an assistant coach at the University of Georgia before becoming an aide to Daugherty. He was graduated from the University of Minnesota and played there on the 1948-49 Gopher team.

Stoll began his coaching career in 1950 at Mount High School, a suburb of Minneapolis, and won a championship with an 8-1 mark. He was line coach at Utah State from 1951-54, and then joined the University of Denver staff for the 1955-56 season.

At the meeting of the Board of Agriculture, President John A. Hannah said that some high school athletes have been concerned about lack of tenure by MSU coaches.

"Football coaches here are on the same basis as faculty members," Dr. Hannah said.

"This set-up gives them more tenure than a contract. Duffy Daugherty does have tenure, he can stay here for life."

Hannah's support of Daugherty was backed by other members of the board.

Canadiens Beat Wings, Plante Scores Shutout

MONTREAL (AP)—Goalie Jacques Plante registered his sixth shutout of the National Hockey League season Thursday night as his Montreal Canadiens teammates humbled the Detroit Red Wings with a 7-0 lacing.

Defeat of the fifth-place Red Wings set a Detroit club record. It was the Wings' 28th loss of the season. Their worst previous season was in 1946-47 when they were defeated 30 times.

The victory, before a crowd of 14,744, left the league-leading Canadiens 15 points ahead of second-place Chicago.

Divorce Swift, Final

Debbie, Eddie Split

LOS ANGELES (AP)—In a five-minute court hearing, actress Debbie Reynolds won a divorce and a possible $750,000 from singer Eddie Fisher Thursday.

"My husband became interested in another woman," she testified simply and tearlessly, never mentioning the name of Elizabeth Taylor.

The end to the once idyllic marriage came so swiftly that Fisher's attorney and manager arrived after it was all over.

Miss Reynolds strode into the brand-new county courthouse before her work day at 20th Century-Fox studios. Superior Judge Roger Pfaff heard her case immediately.

The cost of Fisher's romance with Liz Taylor? He estimated he'll give a million dollars to Debbie in 10 years. The complicated property agreement indicates he'll pay at least three-quarters of a million. Among the provisions for Debbie:

Ownership of their $125,000 house; a $100,000 insurance policy on Fisher's life; and alimony is set at $41,000, depending on his earnings.

The Revolutionary American scene is the subject of the next compositions. Two marches from revolutionary America are "Washington's Grand March" and "Washington's Quick Step."
