Congress To Write History

By LARRY MILLER

New members of Student Congress were introduced Wednesday, Wednesday night, in a rather lackluster session of business.

Another resolution to grant permanent charters to several organizations that had previously requested them was turned over to the Committee on Organizations. The charters had been initially refused because of administrative overhauls.

Congressman Paul Matlack (Republican) suggested the reason for always having Representative on the fifth week of the November session. He stated that because the fifth week falls around mid-term time it gives a handicap on students who might better use their time for studying than for district business.

A bit of humor was injected into the proceedings by Barbara Whipple (Lansing) who told her pet is in one of the university's "pay as you leave" parking lots. Miss Whipple related that she had been locked in by a faulty pay box and said she would like to know if there wasn't some way the system could be improved.

Residents of Brady were welcomed by Congressman Ben Brown (Marquette) who stated that they faced the threat of more trucks if they continued to use the Brady Employees' parking lot after 8 a.m. He told of how this regulation was being ignored by many Brady residents.

Britain to End Imports Quota

LONDON (AP)—Britain is leaving the door to a glittering array of American goods. Almost all remaining quotas on imports from the dollar area and from Western Europe will be removed Nov. 9.

This means $90-$100 million dollars extra in American goods will be sold in Britain yearly, trade experts estimated.

Reginald Maundling, president of Britain's Board of Trade, Wednesday announced the abolition of quota controls as one of a series of actions dismantling Britain's wartime financial and commercial controls.

Even so, many British women are expected to make sacrifices to get New York-styled cocktail dresses and casual wear, always popular here. Housewives will want to try widely heralded U.S. refrigerators, cosmetics, imitation jewelry and certain foods.

Steel Industry, Union Remain Deadlocked

WASHINGTON (AP)—Steel industry and union negotiators met face-to-face Wednesday but parted as deadlocked as ever in the 113-day-old strike.

Federal Mediation Director Joseph Finerman, who called the negotiators together, said negotiators of both sides are focused on the Supreme Court. He repeated the talk indefinitely.

The court has under study a steelworkers union appeal from a district judge's order that 50,000 strikers return to the long-idle steel mills at least for 30 days. There was no word on when the high court may announce a decision.

At issue is the order itself and the emergency machinery of the Taft-Hartley law under which the injunction was issued two weeks ago. The union has challenged the constitutionality of that section of the law. While the Supreme Court considers the case, the back-to-work order remains suspended.

The joint negotiating session lasted only half an hour. On leaving the conference, Union President David McDonald repeated "absolutely none" when reporters asked him whether there was any progress toward a settlement.

Kedzie Victim Slightly Improved

Harlo Mark, Thornton graduate student, remained in critical condition, but was reported "slightly improved" Wednesday when at University Hospital, Ann Arbor.

Wednesday was the first day Mark, injured in the Kedzie explosion, was able to take nourishment.

Philip Shreiner of Lansing, Pa., was in fairly good condition, Filmore Freeman was in fair condition. He was reported "fairly good" Tuesday. Both students are in Lansing hospitals.

Three Police Forces Needed

Game Traffic Causes Problem

The combined forces of the East Lansing, Michigan, and MSU police are up against a knotty traffic problem every Saturday.

Some 20,000 cars pour into the area on every football Saturday.

For homecoming game the traffic flow, as directed by the police, made it possible for 73,000 fans to be at the game by 1:30 p.m.

After the game traffic was dispersed from campus streets and parking lots by 4:30 p.m.

Since the problem affects not only the City of East Lansing but the whole area, Lt. Charles Wilbert, of the East Lansing police, said his force must work with the other police forces of the area.

East Lansing city police provide 18 policemen and are aided by 32 State police and 20 campus police officers.

The problem facing East Lansing, Police Lt. Wilbert said, is to keep the traffic flowing efficiently through the city streets.

The plan being used this fall, said Lt. Wilbert, uses available roads most efficiently.

Lt. Wilbert said that the effects of traffic congestion in East Lansing on Saturdays can be felt as far away as Brighton.

A planning meeting is held as early as July or August of each year. Police representatives and road commissioners, Lt. Wilbert said, meet to adapt each year's plan to new roads and parking conditions.

Testimony Conflicts Rerson Says Revlon Unaware of TV 'Fix'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Martin Rerson, former executive vice president of the Revlon Cosmetics firm that sponsored the scandalized "$64,000" quiz show swore Wednesday he didn't know at the time they were rigged.

Rerson's denial of previous testimony that sponsors were aware of behind-the-scenes cheating brought expressions of disbelief and talk of possible perjury prosecution from two members of a House Commerce Subcommittee investigating the once-popular CBS television program.

Rerson's denial of previous testimony that sponsors were aware of behind-the-scenes cheating brought expressions of disbelief and talk of possible perjury prosecution from two members of a House Commerce Subcommittee investigating the once-popular CBS television program.

Rerson said in his affidavit that if a contestant captured the public fancy, it was the contestant that he should continue.

"If he was dull, we would suggest to the producer that it would be desirable that the contestant not continue in the future," Rerson added.

The house investigation produced these other developments: Patty Duke, Broadway child star, was said to have received in advance the questions and answers that earned her $32,000 in the "Challenge" for her apparent knowledge of popular music.

Howard Felsher, former producer of "The Tac Dough," said secret testimony also made public Wednesday that a tense duel between Martin Dowd, a salesman from New Jersey, and Army Capt. Michael O'Rourke was also rigged.

"The Tac Dough," like the defunct "Twenty-One" on which confessed cheater Charles Van Doren won $129,000, were National Broadcasting Co. features. The "$64,000" programs appeared on the Columbia Broadcasting System network.

Cash Problem Final Solution Not Available

LANSING (AP)—Two Democratic Senators Wednesday revived a proposal to remove sales tax exemptions in three areas, but stirred up little enthusiasm among Republicans.

Sen. Harold Ryan of Detroit, Senate Democratic leader, and Garland Lane of Flint introduced the $8-million-dollar plan to a 16-man steering committee looking for a solution to Michigan's cash troubles.

The bipartisan committee from the House and Senate, winding up their third session, screened half a dozen tax possibilities and got set to look over another score for more today.

The Ryan-Lane blueprint, the first to come from Democrats on the committee, called for extension of the three-cent sales tax to services by such basic necessities as laundries, hair dressers and service stations. This, they said, would yield 30 million dollars a year.

Additionally, they suggested removing exemptions on industrial processing and agricultural machinery, calculated to produce four millions from agriculture and more than 15 millions from industry.

"We would prefer an income tax, but fearing that, this is our suggestion," said Ryan.

Sen. Carlton Morris (R-Kalamazoo), a leading GOP tax strategist, jumped on the proposal as potentially dangerous to industry.

"It would put Michigan business in a bad competitive position with other states at a time when we are short 400,000 jobs of full employment," he said.

Earlier, Morris called for a nickel a bottle extra tax on beer which he said would raise $4 million dollars a year. Democrats objected.

By Republican figuring this would take care of Michigan's cash needs for another year. They claim 70 million dollars a year in new revenue is enough.

Democrats are demanding 110 millions, the amount lost when the state supreme court threw out the penny increase in the use tax.

"I think the beer drinker is going to have a bottle of beer whether it's five cents more or not," Morris said. He argued the present $1.25 a barrel tax, unchanged since 1933, was far too low.

Both Parties Await Election Confidently

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Leaders of both parties, looking for 1960 presidential year trends, claimed comfort from Tuesday's election results.

Sen. Thurston Morton (R-Ky.), the Republican national chairman, said in a statement Wednesday "All in all, I think the Republicans have every reason to look confidently toward 1960."

Paul Butler, the Democratic chairman, said the election results reaffirmed what he described as a mandate given his party in 1958.

Butler said the voting demonstrated the "vigorous good health of the Democratic Party as it prepares the momentous campaign of 1960."

"Here's the way Morton summed up the elections: 'Modest Republican net gains in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Ohio. Roughly a stand-off in Connecticut. In Indiana, Republicans had a statewide gain of six majorities, but despite this net figure, showed net losses in cities of 25,000 and over.'"

"In my own state of Kentucky an expected Democratic split did not materialize and the Democrats won the election according to form."

"All in all I think the Republicans have every reason to look confidently toward 1960."

Objective Exams Pros. Cons Discussed

PROBABLY EVERY student in Michigan has by this time taken an objective test.

The increased use of the objective test in the modern classroom, however, has led many concerned educators to speak out against this type of examination.

FRANK RAYNES SUTTMAN in the November issue of Best Articles and Studies asserts that the objective-test evades superficial thinking and punishes the student who tries to achieve depth in his answers.

SEVERAL MSU instructors have to agree with this theory, saying that the objective test does give an adequate indication of what the student knows, but that it is lacking in educational value for the student.

Dr. Stanley Gorman, president of the Sigma Xi Chapter, claims that objective tests do not teach the student to write and organize his thoughts.

DEAN EDWARD CARLEN of Saginaw College says that the only lasting usefulness of objective tests is that students learn to organize their own material.

According to a recent study by the American Council on Education, the objective test is the most common type of test used in American colleges and universities.

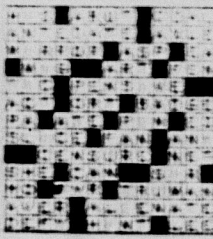

The objective test is not without its advantages, however. It is quick and easy to grade, and it provides a fair and objective measure of a student's knowledge.

The objective test is also a good way to measure a student's ability to recall facts and figures, which is an important part of many college courses.

It is true that the objective test does not measure a student's ability to think critically or to solve problems, but it does provide a quick and easy way to measure a student's knowledge of facts and figures.

Little Joe Rocket Hurls Capsule 35,000 Feet

WASHINGTON (AP)—A mercury space capsule was hurled 35,000 feet high Wednesday by a Little Joe rocket—moving America one step nearer getting a man into space.

Within 45 minutes of the firing, the one-ton capsule was scooped from the launch by the Navy salvage vessel, perched about five miles offshore from the launch point on Wallops Island, Va.

It was the second such test in perfecting the escape mechanism. It hoped will save the astronauts lives if they are to trouble during landing. An escape rocket will fire 30 seconds after the takeoff.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the launching was designed particularly to test the performance of the escape system under maximum load conditions.

Wednesday's test used a capsule similar to one that will be used to orbit a man. This was in contrast to a dummy boiler plate mockup of the capsule that was used in an Oct. 4 Little Joe test. It was destroyed with no recovery effort made.

After the capsule was recovered from the ocean Wednesday it was taken to Navy's Langley Research Center at Hampton, Va. for study.

After the capsule will be used for the actual man-in-space test, probably in 1961. The Little Joe is an instrument for which all launchings have been scheduled in unannounced, non-press test.

The later flights will carry also Rhesus monkeys and finally a chimpanzee to test the effects on them of acceleration, weightlessness and deceleration. NASA said no living thing was aboard in Wednesday's test.

The escape rocket—a boost arrangement on top of the capsule—was designed to shoot the capsule several thousand feet above the main model if something goes wrong during a launching. It then is supposed to open parachutes and safely lower the capsule to earth.

In Wednesday's test, the escape rocket burned about one second. The escape tower was withdrawn after a 20-second coasting period. Seconds later a small parachute was put into place, giving the capsule stability.

Three minutes after the launching, at an altitude of about 10,000 feet, the main parachute opened and lowered the capsule into the ocean.

A new chapter of the national mathematics history started by Dr. W. B. Rouse, will be inaugurated at the University of South Carolina on Dec. 13 by Professor J. S. Frame, head of the M.S.U. mathematics department, and director general of the Institute.

The Michigan Alpha chapter will serve as host for the next national meeting of the Institute to be held in East Lansing Aug. 26, 1960. It is coordinated with the national meetings of the American Mathematical Society, the Mathematical Association of America, and the Society for Industrial and Applied Mathematics.

Engineers Will Watch Special T-V

Certain engineering students will go to the movies and watch television in an experiment which may lead to better quality of instruction.

However, the program will not be of the commercial variety. They will consist of films and televised experiments in the strength of materials laboratories.

A $4,041 grant to support the project was accepted Oct. 22 by the Board of Trustees.

The three-year program at MSU is part of research looking toward more effective educational uses of new media such as television and films.

All this was led to a greater understanding from seeing the films than from performing the experiment in the laboratories.

MSU Speakers Bureau Provides Guest Lecturers

Have you ever wondered where lecturers and guest speakers come from?

MSU has hundreds of them in its faculty members who are willing to inform you about anything from trading stamps to psychology.

The MSU Speakers Bureau, managed by Mrs. Alice Britton, is able to supply speakers for many occasions.

According to Mrs. Britton, requests for certain topics vary with current events and the changing social situation. Various organizations become interested in these events and problems and want to have them explained by an expert.

The bureau has been in operation in its present form since September of 1956 and since then has handled a yearly average of 300 speeches and lectures.

Each year, the bureau sends out lists of speakers and topics to interested organizations. A total of 1,700 such lists were sent during 1958-59.

Fee Seen Increase In History Interest

More MSU students today are looking back on yesterday than ever before.

Dr. Walter Fee, head of the history department, said there are now 1,000 students enrolled in history courses this fall with large increases shown in certain courses.

Russian history and Canadian-American relations showed the largest increases.

Graduate enrollment in history this fall is up 21 percent over last year's.

Explain Expression Dancers to Lecture

A lecture-demonstration of modern dance entitled "Movement as a Means of Expression" will be presented by two master dancers Nov. 11 at 7:30 p.m. in the Women's IM.

Miss Gertrude Lippincott and Robert Moulton will be sponsored by the NPER department, NPER Club, Delta Psi Kappa and Omicron.

The dancers will show how movement can be a powerful means of artistic expression as well as a functional and utilitarian aspect of everyday life. They will illustrate their thesis with dances from their repertoires, including two solos.

For her solo Miss Lippincott will dance "Maze Obsession," a movement dedicated to the memory of Doris Humphrey, famous American dancer and choreographer. Moulton will show "The Elements," a pre-classical solo to music by Handel, based on the idea that the universe is composed of four elements.

A Master Lecture will be presented by the guest dancers at 2:30 p.m. on Nov. 11 in the Women's IM for students of the modern dance classes.

Miss Lippincott and Moulton are directors and choreographers for the Dance Repertory Group of Minneapolis, a professional dance group which they formed in 1957.

Both dancers are directors of the Twin City Dance Association of Minneapolis. Moulton is assistant professor of speech at the University of Minnesota. Miss Lippincott is a contributing editor of the National Section of Dance and is a vice director of the National Council for the Arts in Education.

Past Castro Aide Jailed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—U.S. authorities jailed Maj. Pedro Diaz Lanz Wednesday on charges of murder and attempted murder.

"I'm thankful to God. I'm not in Cuba at this time," the former head of Fidel Castro's revolutionary air force said as he was fingerprinted.

The murder charges—to be documented with formal evidence within two weeks—apparently arise from an Oct. 21 incident in which small planes dropped anti-Castro leaflets over Havana.

The Cuban government said explosives also were dropped from the planes, killing Joaquin Fernandez of Havana and injuring 24 others. Some Havana witnesses have insisted the death and injuries were caused by Cubans attempting to shoot down the planes.

The FBI said Diaz Lanz admitted piloting one of the planes and reported the leaflet-dropping flight originated in Florida. Cuba and Florida are separated by only about 30 miles of water.

Diaz Lanz fled Cuba in June after resigning as Air Force
