Bill Myers Disqualified, Readmitted

Bill Myers, Michigan junior candidate for the university's American Student Government, was disqualified Sunday by Haroldwidley, executive director of the university Student Unions.

Myers was disqualified for breaking campus academic and minimum election rules. However, AUSG President Jim Riedel, when questioned by The State student newspaper, said he would fight the decision, be依法 returned to the contest.

However, AUSG President Myers if he were allowed to campaign on campus for the election.

Bill Myers ordinance to spend only $82.30 on his campaign. Myers had previously been fined $150 for violating another year's fundraising campaign. Myers argued that there was no provision in the ordnance covering student candidates and that the rules should be included in the rules. However, a Student Union board member said a student campaign for the AUSG would be allowed, if it were limited to student candidates.

Hannah OK'd By Trustees

The Board of Trustees has given its approval to President A. H. Hannah's decision to accept a faculty position at Ft. Wayne, Ind. The convention will be held in that city this spring.

One member of the board, Dr. Marvin Downey, said that the president's decision is a matter of long discussion with all political parties to increase well-qualified people like Hannah.

Chairman Cornett of the board said he thought more discipline should be shown in the case of Hannah.

The decision was made in anticipation of the election of the new president of the university.

No Action on Budget

The best news from Lansing is that the Senate Appropriations Committee has decided to delay action on the state university appropriation. The committee has set aside the question of a $1,000,000 appropriation for the next session and will consider the matter at a later date.

The purpose of the conference was to discuss the possibility of increasing the appropriation for the University of Michigan. The committee members agreed that it was necessary to have a higher appropriation for the university in order to meet the needs of the school.

Sen. Fred R. Smith, chairman of the committee, said that the state legislature is aware of the economic problems facing the university and that it will do everything possible to provide adequate funding.

The conference was attended by Sen. Fred R. Smith, Sen. D. B. Boole, and Sen. W. H. Brown. The meeting was held in the Senate chamber.

Sen. Fred R. Smith said that the committee is willing to consider increasing the appropriations for the state universities, but that it is important to have a balanced budget.

Sen. D. B. Boole said that the committee is aware of the need for additional funding, but that it must also consider the financial situation of the state.

Sen. W. H. Brown said that the committee is committed to providing adequate funding for the state universities, but that it must also consider the needs of other state agencies.

The conference was adjourned after the three senators met for about an hour.

In central michigan Knapp's has led the way with confidence

Knapp's has been a mainstay of downtown East Lansing for over 50 years. The store has always been known for its quality merchandise and friendly service, and has been a favorite of shoppers for generations.

In 1949, expansion resulted in a larger store to keep pace with the ever-growing community. The great modernization program of 1951 through 1955 brought new shopping pleasure with convenient escalators, wider, "uncluttered" aisles, modern lighting (making Knapp's one of America's best-lighted stores) and a generally more pleasant shopping atmosphere. The entire year of 1958 was devoted to further remodeling and improvement to better serve the community.

Customers, in turn, over and over again tell us they like to shop at Knapp's because they have the confident feeling that, day in and day out, they can get the things they want... at prices they like to pay... in comfortable surroundings... with courteous service.

Now, greater confidence in the community is expressed by Knapp's New East Lansing store. It will be a magnificent, quality fashion center, dedicated to the serving of the community's needs in Women's, Children's and Men's fashions. It will be ready to open very soon.

The education gap between high school and college can be bridged in part by having the high school teacher become a role model for the individual student.

This can be done in the fields of technology and training in electronics and communications.

Learning devices or teaching machines are capable of instructing students in the basics of any course of study. The teacher allows the student to spend time studying the objectives of the course, using learning machines with actual material that the student can handle.

These devices range from a simple type where children are taught to recognize the word "apple," to complex elec-

Alcohol Consumption "Necessary for Survival"

LODEN, - An editorial in the National British physiology professor said Tuesday he is convinced that men and women who have had alcohol or tranquilizers are still alive in 1946.

"The use of these drugs," he said, "is the key to our continued existence in our so-called civilized world." The professor, who was not identified, would consent to what he says are the scientific facts.

The editorial is from the Royal Institute of Public Health of the British Medical Association.

"Modern man cannot do without drugs and tranquilizers. Life today's Jet age. Alcohol, sedatives and tranquilizers would commit suicide when men are not on the market to survive them and his problems.

By drugs, he said, men solve moral, social and psychological problems.

Gold Medal Pianist Will Appear on TV

Set Group Fights Bias in Housing

At the Student Union, Thursday at 7 p.m., a student group has agreed to work with the Civil Rights Committee of Greater Lansing in the fight to help correct the housing situation of persons who are unable to find suitable housing.

"This is not a drinker's problem," said Dr. Hoshio Tosh of the University of California. "It is a problem of the housing situation."

"We must find an alternative," he said, "and the alternative must be a better understanding of the problems of housing and the information public through speaking with the community.

"This is the way things are going wrong. They have to be a solution of man and the environment"

French Novel Sees Man Alone in Chaotic World

Daring French novel, "Le Diable Nain," is characterized by the feeling that man is alone in a chaotic world and is unable to find certain answers.

"This is not a dream," he said, "but the authors propose a quite different. The French novel does not destroy the dream of the world going wrong. They believe it is a method of survival.

"This novel can be looked at in two ways: as the order of things, and the environment of the French man.
