President De Gaulle Faces Another Crisis

Key West, Fla.—De Gaulle announced all powers of government to the French army opposing him yesterday as a measure to prevent a possibility of new demonstrations in France. The announcement came after the departure of the last of the military leaders who had been in contact with the government in hopes of resolving the situation.

De Gaulle, speaking to the French army, said he was no longer any hands-off Asia. "I CONFIRM myself in the military control of the situation," he said. "I am responsible to the people of France."

De Gaulle also announced the return of the military to the control of the government, ending the period of military rule.

ERCIF FROMM Will Lecture Tomorrow

One of the world's outstanding investigators, Dr. Paul R. Fromm, will lecture on the subject of "Soviet Espionage in the United States" at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the University Auditorium of Michigan State University.

Dr. Fromm, who is a member of the Michigan State University faculty, is well known for his work in the field of Soviet espionage. He has authored and published extensively on the subject, and his lectures are highly regarded for their clarity and depth.

Leo Koch Arouses Controversies on Lecture Tour

Leo Koch, a controversial speaker, is on a lecture tour across the United States. His lectures have sparked heated debates and controversy among university students and faculty alike.

Koch, a psychologist and writer, has been known for his radical views on America and its institutions. His lectures typically focus on topics such as social justice, the role of the state, and the nature of power.

Koch's lectures are known for their provocative content and have often been the subject of protests and demonstrations. His ideas have been met with both support and criticism, with many students and faculty members expressing strong opinions on his views.

Humphrey Hits at 'Middle of the Road' Foreign Policy

Ann B. Miko

State News Staff Writer

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Hubert Humphrey, Democratic vice presidential candidate, attacked the "middle of the road" foreign policy proposed by the Republican nominee, Richard Nixon, and said the "middle of the road" policy would continue to identify itself as a moderate candidate in the 1968 election.

Humphrey said that the "middle of the road" policy, which he attributed to Nixon, was "no values and no unification of the American people." He said the "middle of the road" policy was "no answer to the problem of the future." Humphrey said that the "middle of the road" policy was "no answer to the problem of the future."

"A middle of the road policy" was an attempt to "push thereset" for the perfect harmony and the perfect society, Humphrey said.

"It is summed up in the phrase," he said, "We're not interested in the perfect society, but in the perfect harmony."

Humphrey went on to say that the "middle of the road" policy was "no answer to the problem of the future." He said that the "middle of the road" policy was "no answer to the problem of the future."

"The one-pint of blood you give is important. It can be used for the saving of lives, for the saving of children, for the saving of families, for the saving of economies," Humphrey said.

"Time is running out if revolution is the only way to deal with the situation," he said.

Michigan Daily’s Petiotting Surprising

The following editorial was printed in the Michigan Daily April 27. We are amazed that a university paper of a supposedly “liberal” intellectual level” could lower itself to such a ridiculous piece of trash. May we usefully ask ourselves what might warp and twist their little minds.

Protest Demo and Defend Film, Coupwaths, Leo Koch

Protesters have actively demonstrated their readiness to eliminate the discriminatory machinery of our government by actually engaging in a strike against it. The purpose of this action is to force the public into a new awareness of its role in society. The protest itself is a protest against the misuse of power.

The following statement was released by President John A. Hannahan at 3 p.m. Friday in regard to the release of the film Operation Abolition.

At the request of the university, the president has determined that the film is not in the best interests of the university community.

But a university has a responsibility to preserve the values of society as well, and among these is the belief in the integrity of the institution.

We are confronted with a different situation, presented by the appearance of this case of Dr. Koch’s film and the efforts of some students to influence it.

The Giant Puffball Mushroom

Dr. E.H. Lucas was a Michigan State University professor who had conducted his research on the giant puffball, a mushroom-like fungus common in Michigan. Lucas began working on a detailed study of the giant puffball and its potential medical applications.

The Giant Puffball Mushroom

Dr. Lucas began looking for a young woman who was pregnant and not even married in the questions thought: I have other medical value. The puffball is the size of a basketball and is found in the forests of Michigan. It is a highly refined, diffusible, basic mucoprotein. It was the first major work done in Canada and the techniques devised, "it's quite easy to grow in the laboratory."

Dr. Lucas started growing the giant puffball cultures in his laboratory. From tests of these cultures, he learned that they were promising as a potential medical drug.

Big Ten Dorm Conference Discusses Values, Problems

By LINDA BAGUE
State News Staff Writer

Approximately 150 students and discussion leaders from all the twelve Big Ten universities are here for the annual residence hall conference being held at Michigan State University. The theme of this year’s conference is “Values to Reason for College Students.”

Delegation of Michigan State Dr. Jarod G. Taylor. The conference was directed by Dr. Robert G. Varner, the director of the Michigan State University dormitories. The conference was designed to raise questions and debate among participants.

Dr. Varner told the delegates on “The Examined Life.”

"IN ANY reflection upon the question of human action and the values which they embody, we are called to ask ourselves as values as they are defined and everlasting...." he said.

"We are all values can be pursued by our students, and in so doing, some values will win out and for its own sake, this is, in itself, a victory," Dr. Taylor said.

The final resolution was given following a banquet held in Brody Hall, University Union, which was sponsored by the Michigan State University dormitories.

Such educational institutions as the University of Michigan, Michigan State University, University of Wisconsin, the University of Illinois, the State University of Iowa, and the University of Indiana were all represented.

The university advice was addressed by Dr. Robert G. Varner, the director of the Michigan State University dormitories.

The club's faculty advisor, Dr. Varner, said that the club's funds, but conceded that it intended to raise money to support its activities.

The club's release was issued to WJIM Radio, Friday, April 25.

The statement against the club came after the organization issued a release to WJIM Radio.

"Why is this free-for-all atmosphere permitted to be brought to the campus?" he stated.

Subsequent to the club's release, the Michigan State University Planetary Science Association was dissolved.

Kobsmen Top Iowa; Lose to Gophers Twice

Ross Hurts 3-Hitter; Sinks, Romberg Defeated

By BRUCE DURBEY

Michigan State's baseball team faced the champions and earlier defeated Old Gold Team of the North Central Conference yesterday afternoon at the Spartan Field. The game ended in a 7-3 victory for the Spartans, who were outscored 8-2 by the Bighawks. The victory takes the team's conference record to 4-2 and brings its overall record to 14-5-1.

Iowa, Behind 3 Runs...

Iowa, behind 3 runs, scored 5 runs in the 1st inning to take the lead. Despite a two run lead, however, Iowa's pitcher, Bob Reifert, collapsed in the 7th inning. Reddington, followed by Paul Bonstead's line home run to clinch the game. Pat Sartorin's filed out, Ron Henderson singled sharply to center and Bill Sanders drove in two runs in the 1st inning. Jim Schmid singled inside third base, and Ron Warden laced a single to center to load the bases. A wild pitch by Nelson scored Fontes. Then Sinks, Ronberg defeated State with his second four bagger of the game and the Spartans winning streak was stalled completely. Only in the 2nd inning did the team try to make a comeback when Kellogg was belted for three runs. However, the Spartans failed to take advantage of this scoring chance.

Much the same happened in the 6th when he was belted for three runs. When Kellogg stepped up to the plate, the Spartans were stalemated. However, the team could not score from this foray since a double play erased any further threat.

STATE SERVED NOTICE TO THE REST OF THE LEAGUE THAT THEY MAY PROCEED TO LOAD THE BASES. A WILD PITCH BY NELSON SCORED FONTES. THEN SINKS, RONBERG DEFEATED STATE WITH HIS SECOND FOUR BAGGER OF THE GAME AND THE SPARTANS WINNING STREAK WAS STALLED COMPLETELY. ONLY IN THE 2ND INNING DID THE TEAM TRY TO MAKE A COMEBACK WHEN KELLOGG WAS BELTED FOR THREE RUNS. HOWEVER, THE SPARTANS FAILED TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THIS SCORING CHANCE.

Incoming Freshmen Say MSU Is Easy

Dr. David Gottlieb, assistant professor of sociology, told members of the freshman Off-Campus students that few students come to MSU thinking it is an easy school.

In paper Michigan State University, the Bulletin of the President's Office, 85 percent of the faculty have Ph.D.s and 90 percent of the tenured freshmen were in the top third or higher in their high school class, he said.

"However, only 13 percent of the entering freshmen rated themselves higher than the other schools they had applied to," he said.

Gottlieb, who has done a study on search for high school students, said that his study showed the students who had applied were from varying areas where students are trying for social recognition amongst their peers.

"He said that there seemed to be an agreement that recognition could not be improved through efforts on the part of the individual to be obtained through such things as grades, attendance, and being good looking.

"This is a very serious situation. If they come out of high school like this, will they want to go to college?" Gottlieb asked.

"Students at MSU complain about not being able to drink or live where they want to. I don't think the students at MSU have pressures that are as great as the pressures they have taken away. Have you ever seen the social scene on campus after the weekend?" he said.

"Why don't students complain about here not being enough places to turn in the books that are here, especially for the faculty and the bad restructors we have here?"

--College is for the transmission of knowledge. At State there is too much emphasis on social life," he said.

He said that State is ranking in the standards but there are two groups who don't realize this, the students and the instructors.

"The many still look at MSU as a college," he said.

"If you want students to get the instruction they need, you must begin recognition of academic achievement. Only partly pictures of scholars are the papers. Articles are the ones who win the recognition, not the outstanding students." In response to a question, asked him on the honors col-lcy system, Gottlieb answered that he felt there was room for improvement of the present system.

"Many of the college students should be given the chance for research with the faculty. They should be able to travel outside the college and take courses at other institutions, and they should be encouraged to have these papers published," Gottlieb said.

Gottlieb said that there was the big drawback, as it is in so many other areas of the university.
