Blame on U.S.Lag

WASHINGTON— A high-ranking administration official said Monday that the United States is responsible for supporting last week's Communist attack on the United States Embassy in Laos.

This official said President Kennedy has no intention of withdrawing U.S. forces from Laos, where the United States has been supporting the government since 1959.

Reuther, who is a member of President John F. Kennedy's committee to promote the Peace Corps, said a similar corps should be founded in Laos to help the people.

The administration official said that Paris is "not interested in solving the problem of Laos." However, he said that Paris is "interested in solving the problem of the world." He added that the United States should be doing more to help the Laotians.
