with operators. It has been stalled because of:

1. The rapid dormitory housing growth and the need for improved communications should grow with the university.
2. The present system is completely inadequate to handle student communication needs.
3. The present system cannot handle emergency calls with speed and efficiency.
4. The maintenance costs for the dormitory annunciator system are mounting from year to year.
5. Coin telephones are inconvenient and inadequate to meet student needs.

The present dormitory tele-phonex system includes 37 positions of manual switchboard, serving 788 telephones. Each precinct is served by two non-dial telephones and a coin phone.

The Michigan Bell Telephone Co. will install the all new "Number 5 Crossbar" system in an off campus building to replace the existing on campus switching system.

The system will eliminate the expensive costs of on-campus switchboard systems. The switches serve 788 telephones and contains 37 positions of manual switchboard.

YOU will be dialing four types of calls:

1. On campus, no charge. Dial the last five numerals. Example 123-1254, dial 1-1254.
2. Local, no charge. Dial 9 for and outside line, then complete the 7 digit phone number.
3. Long distance in the 517 area, charge. Dial 9 on outside line, then 1, then the 7 digit phone number.
4. Long distance outside the 517 area, charge. Dial 9, then 1, then the proper area code, then the 7 digit number.

The system was designed to provide the average college presentation. If it is possible to pick an outstanding performance out of several excellent performances, the boxer must be tossed to a little East Lansing housewife, Fern Barushok. She played the poor wife of Rev. Davidson. It was not a short-stopping role. Rather it was a supporting lead.

But she played the role so convincingly she projected herself so completely that one could have sworn that she had been weaned on lemon juice.

THE AUDIENCE seemed aware of her ability and when she exited in the third act after exposing the emotional void created in her life by the 'marriage of spirit' shared with Rev. Davidson, they gave her a generous ovation.

Linda Herr again demonstrated to University Theatre patrons that she has talent. The role of Sadie Thompson gave her ample opportunity to display it. She moved easily through the role and in the second and third acts when Sadie becomes obsessed with feelings of guilt, Mrs. Herr was at her best.

TOM PATCHETT finds a performance as the tyrannical soul-saver Rev. Davidson. His was a difficult role as he was required to portray externally the violent inner struggle that Davidson underwent and which ended in his suicide.

The rest of the cast, if not as talented, was at least capable: notably Joseph Spielberg as trader Joe Herr and William Montgomery as the genial Dr. MacPhail.

The rain came during the first act and continued through the remainder of the play. This sound pervaded the mind of the audience with startling effectiveness and coupled with the dreary lighting must have simulated the precise mood Somerset Maugham intended in his short story.

"Rain," opened last night at Demonstration Hall. It was good. In fact, it was very, very good.

This presents a problem to the reviewer. It is easy to throw rocks, but how does one go about throwing kudos?

It would be a shame to take a fine production apart piece-by-piece and thus shatter the unity that gives it its quality of excellence. It must be done, however.

TO BEGIN with, then, the cast was experienced and talented, far more talented than the average college presentation.

The new phone system will enable each dorm student to call any one of 45 million numbers in the United States and Canada.

Students using these phones must know the number they are dialing or they will be penalized.

The minute you pick up the phone to make a long distance call the call is automatically timed and registered, by passing the need of an operator. The dime is credited for and outside line, then complete the 7 digit phone number.

Shaw Drowns Attempting To Rescue Young Girl

Bradford Shaw, head of MSU's labor-industrial relations center, library, dressed in a sordid in Livermore Falls, Maine yesterday while attempting to save a 12-year-old girl.

Shaw was 39 years old and lived at 424 W. Columbia St. in Mason. He is survived by his wife and five children.

Shaw came to MSU in November of 1936 from the University of Florida. He attended Colby College in Maine and received his bachelor of library science degree from Pratt Institute in Brooklyn.

Services will be held in Livermore Falls and burial will be in Bethlehem, Conn.

School Bill Going..Going

The much-publicized federal school-aid bill—now tri-rected and almost emasculated—will come to vote within a matter of days.

When the plan was first proposed, it was represented as part of the education race with Russia—the race which was joined in the scare that was the aftermath of the Sputnik I launching. In the meantime, an American astronaut made a sortie into space, an American experimental aircraft exceeded 3,600 miles an hour, and an American rocket hoisted a nuclear-powered satellite into orbit.

How have these achievements affected the education race and the school-aid bill? Is it impossible to establish a direct correlation, but it is a deplorable fact that the discussion of the school bill is now centering around questions of internal politics.

Witness the debate between U.S. Rep. Gerald R. Ford (R-Grand Rapids) and U.S. Rep. James G. O'Hara (D-Utica) which appeared in the Detroit Free Press July 2. The two congressmen will give the federal government control of the schools! Can the government afford the bill? How great is the need for aid? Will the distribution of funds be equitable? What does Michigan stand to lose?

Granted, these are important considerations. But there was not a word about arming students with greater knowledge to defeat the increasing Communist threat. What happened to the education race?

It is relatively easy to understand why proposed aid to private and parochial schools is cause for petty political warfare. But the objections to aid for public schools are no less queer. The argument most often advanced is that the more prosperous states—Michigan among them—would get less than they would give. And these richer states, by dint of population, are the powers in the House.

What it comes down to is this: Is the United States waging fifty battles with communism, or one? "E Pluribus Unum" is still on our coins.

One of the basic doctrines of the John Birch Society is that the few must sacrifice for the good of the many? What it comes down to is this: Is the United States going to defeat the increasing Communist threat. What happened to the education race?

Mail subscriptions payable in advance for one term, $4; for two terms, $8; for three terms, $15.

Students pay pro-rated fees.

Editorial and discussion of the school bill is now centering around questions of internal politics.

Talent Honors Given To ‘Miss Lansing’

Lansing and Buchanan beauties captured the opening round of the Miss Michigan contest Wednesday at Muskegon’s first annual Seaway festival.

June Ann Brougham, Miss Lansing, won the talent division with her piano playing. Lucille Helms, Miss Buchanan, took the swimsuit division.

The 32 Miss Michigan entrants competed Thursday and Friday, with Miss Michigan of 1961 to be named Friday evening.

Miss Brougham, 22, was graduated from Michigan State University in June with a degree in music. She stands 5 feet 4, weighs 120 pounds and measures 36-24-36.

Miss Helms, 18, weighs 115 pounds, stands 5 feet 4 and measures 34-23-34.

The two winners were presented with 150 scholarships and trophies by Nancy Anne Fleming of Montague, the preceding Miss America, and Donna Jean Shepherd of Dowagiac, the current Miss Michigan.

Miss Brougham played the prelude in C-sharp minor for piano by Rachmaninoff for her talent victory. Miss Helms paraded to victory in a white bathing suit.

The winner of the Miss Michigan contest will compete for the Miss Michigan title in Atlantic City later this summer.

Course in Asian Languages Taught

Students interested in the culture and languages of the orient have been invited by Dr. Stanley Townsend head of the Department of Foreign Languages to visit classes in Science and Arts 410.

SA 410 is formally entitled “Professional Seminar and Introduction to Oriental Languages.” Within five weeks students are exposed to the fundamentals of Chinese, Korean, Japanese, and Hindi.

Students interested in teaching are:

Chinese - Joanne Handall

Japanese - Okidumi Kamezu;

Korean - Jeung Rhee;

Hindi - Narmal Singh.

WHILE students are not expected to master the languages within the brief span of time, SA 410 is beneficial in reflecting modes of oriental thought.

Townsend disclosed:

“A survey of the four languages gives one keen insight in understanding the complexities of the Asian mind.

“The course,” he added, “is recommended for aspiring Peace Corps members.”

String Congress Plays Classical

The music of Tchaikovsky is part of the program to be played by the String Congress at their concert. Monday at 8:15 p.m. in Fairchild Auditorium. The String Congress consists of 90 students from the U.S., Canada, Puerto Rico, and Hawaii who are participating in eight weeks of concentrated study at MSU under the direction of the country's eminent musicians. The Congress is sponsored by the American Federation of Musicians. The group has been divided into two sections alphabetically. The first section will be heard in Handel's "Concerto Grosso for Strings Opus 6 No. 3." The second section will be heard in Vaughan William's "Con Grosso for Strings." The third movement will be heard in Handel's "Concerto Grosso Opus 6 No. 2." The first movement in the form of a sonata, the second, a waltz, the third an elegy and the finale, Andante, Allegro Con Spirito.

This premier performance of the String Congress will be followed by another program on July 15th. An overture for Strings will be played at this time.

The full orchestra, under the direction of Thor Johnson will play Tchaikovsky's Serenade in C Major for Strings Opus 48. The first movement in the form of a sonata, the second, a waltz, the third an elegy and the finale, Andante, Allegro Con Spirito.

The growth of Michigan State University is seen in the construction of six new buildings this year. Classroom, research, and living facilities will be provided by the buildings now in various stages of completion.

All of the buildings will be ready for use by fall term of 1962, according to Adam Hulanek, planning engineer for the department of buildings and utilities.

Bessey Hall, located across from the Auditorium, will be completed by the opening of fall term and will be used for classes in business service, personnel and production administration. Lecture halls with built-in seating arrangements are a feature of the building.

Case Hall, one of the new dormitories, is partially finished and is due to be open by the winter term of 1962.

Case is on Shaw Lane next to Anthony Hall. Also under construction is a new dairy cattle research building on College Road. This building will contain all of the dairy research facilities and the dairy barns on south campus will be removed.

Chapin indicated that Saturday evening was chosen to be cut because that is the time they have the least amount of students utilizing the facilities.

Also in effect now is a limitation on checking out books from the Education division. Books may only be checked out for one week and on a no-renewal basis. "WE HAVE A GREATLY diminished the services of the Education division during the summer session," said Dr. Chapin. "Since the session is only five weeks, if we let each student check a book out for two weeks, then only two students can make use of a particular book during that time."

"But by limiting students to one week, as many as four or five students can use the same book."

Library Goes to Summer Hours
By DAN WHITE
State News Staff Writer
Summer hours for the campus library are now in effect. The new hours are from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Friday; 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, and 2 p.m. to 11 p.m. Sunday.

The only day actually affected by the new schedule is Saturday. The library will be closed Saturday evenings instead of staying open until 11 p.m.

When questioned as to the reasons for this change, Mr. Richard Chapin, Director of Libraries, gave the following reasons:

I HE SAID that under the present budget, a cut in hours was the most effective way to utilize the personnel under his direction.

Campus Groundsmen Real Cutups
Lawnmowers play an important part in the grounds maintenance of the MSU campus.

The annual area of grass cut on campus, including that of dormitories, buildings and gardens, is 100 acres, according to Bert Perris, grounds maintenance head. This does not include the golf course or the stadium athletic field.

Last year 12,000 hours were spent cutting university grass. The university owns 1400 worth of mowing equipment, ranging from small hand mowers to large multi-blade mowers.

The campus is divided into numerous small areas, with a gardener in charge of each area. It is the job of each gardener to cut the grass, plant and replace plants, and keep the area beautiful.

Recognizing that cutting equipment is in keep-sub maintenance centers located in each area. These centers contain all necessary materials to maintain each area.

Each year 350 hours are devoted to study, teaching, and research on turf grasses and plants requires 600 hours annually.

Good Jazz and no riots characterized the Newport J a z z Fes t i v a l this year.

The annual event which lost the sponsorship of P. Lorillard Co. last year after riots that bordered on anarchy, was held this year by a private group called Music at Newport Inc.

THE FESTIVAL, which had been cancelled was held on the condition that the sponsors provide adequate police protection to prevent recurrence of last year's events which saw many streets of Newport littered in places a foot deep in beer cans and bottles, public displays of sex, fighting out of control, invasion of private homes, and destruction of property which eventually closed the State Police and then the National Guard to be called in to bring about order.

Radio station WADK in Newport summed up the festival's success in its commentary which said, "Once again people associate Newport with jazz instead of riots."

The festival was not a terrific financial gain for its sponsors. Last Monday, the last day of the festival, it was announced that at least 10,000 persons would have to attend the final night in order for the festival to break even. Up to that time 37,000 people had attended the previous three nights performances with a record set Saturday night of over 14,500 people.

AND WHAT WAS the reason for the crowds? Probably one of the best lineups of names in jazz was present. Friday night saw such guests as Cannonball Adderley, George Shearing, Sarah Vaughan, Norman Granz, Carmen McRae, John Coltrane, Horace Silver, Willie Bobo, and Miles Davis.

Any beverage in any sort of container was the presence of persons sleeping in every place conceivable. They slept on the beach, on stone walls, on park benches, and hotel lobbies and hallways in this quaint resort town of narrow streets and old homes. The main street in Newport was closed to vehicular traffic.

Fox Crafty for Detroit

There have been no great headlines proclaiming the pitching efficiency of Terry Fox of the Detroit Tigers.

"Probably the biggest reason for this is that Fox has not worked quite as much as some of the other Tiger relievers. But Fox's pitching cannot possibly go unnoticed much longer, especially if he continues the work he showed Thursday afternoon as the Tigers blanked the Boston Red Sox 2-0."

Fox is part of the trade which brought Billy Bruton and Dick Brown from Milwaukee in exchange for Frank Bollweg. Manager Bob Scheffing is happy with it, needless to say.

The Tigers picked up eight hits also, but the bulk coming off lower Galen Cisco (1-5), former Ohio State football player. Regan now owns an 8-4 record.

The league-leading return home tonight from their eastern trip to meet the Los Angeles Angels under the lights.

E.R.A. 0.79!

Fox pitched to only one man, Sea second baseman Chuck Schilling, and forced him to pop out to Norm Cash at first.

But consider the circumstances. It was the last of the ninth, two men were out, and the Red Sox had men on first and second. Schilling represented the potential tying run.

A hit here could have put the Bengals on the ropes, and might have led to a tumble out of the American League. This is pressure pitching at its best, and it is something Fox has been doing all season.

HE had worked 34 innings before Thursday's performance and allowed just—count 'em—three earned runs. His earned run average? A microscopic 0.79.

Fox was part of the trade which brought Billy Bruton and Dick Brown from Milwaukee in exchange for Frank Bollweg. Manager Bob Scheffing is happy with it, needless to say.

The Tigers took two of three from Boston with the win and assure their slim grip on first place. Phil Regan picked up the victory by throwing an eight-hit shutout until forced to exit in the eighth.

DETROIT jumped to a 1-0 lead early in the game when Bruton singled, went to third on a forceout and Al Kaline's single, and scored on a sacrifice fly.

Regan and Bruton put together back-to-back doubles to bump the count to 5-0 and Kaline and Cash singled successively in the ninth, Kaline scoring on Steve Bors' force-out.

Football Players Awaiting Resumption of Practice

By TOM DEWITT

While most of the vacating MSU students are just getting accustomed to the warm carefree summer days, a certain group is already looking forward to returning fall term. To be precise, they are football players returning for the opening day of practice Sept 1.

During the summer, most of these men work as a wide variety of jobs ranging from white collar to blue collar.

For instance: Ed Budde, Detroit junior, Jim Bochat, Buchanan junior, and Jim Kancik, Bay City junior, are all working on construction.

Jim Bridges, Canton, Ohio senior, is working with an engineering firm and Doug Miller, East Lansing sophomore, is in sales work.

Besides working, these fellows started training July 1. This consists of a 20-minute workout three days a week. Starting Aug. 1, this becomes a five-day chore. The routine consists of push-ups, sprints, set-ups and squat jumps.

THERE RETURN in the fall will herald the start of one of the toughest schedules in years.

There are seven Big Ten teams and two outsiders. The first game is with Wisconsin at Madison on Sept 30. The other team is Stanford, Michigan, Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana, Notre Dame, Purdue and Northwestern.

Vince Carrillo, assistant backfield coach, had this to say about the returning squad.

"We feel this is a fine squad, and they should go places—but you never can tell until you get out on the field. It's up to them," he said.

HE ALSO gave some hints on the coveted quarterback position, which Head Coach Duffy Daugherty has held a secret in recent years.

"Pete Smith is the boy to vest out for quarterback," he aid, "he looked great in spring practice. But don't overlook the talents of Don Stewart either."

He said that they expect the offensive and defensive lines to average at least 250 pounds. "I think that the big ends will be Michigan and Minnesota with Wisconsin as a strong dark horse," he said.

Summer Circle Presents Wilder's "By the Skin of Our Teeth"

The best actor and best supporting actress of the 1960-61 theatrical year at MSU will be joined by eight Lanning area dramatic aspirants in the Summer Circle's presentation of Thornton Wilder's "The Skin of Our Teeth."

Bob Winters, MSU graduate student, and Lois Martin, Dearborn junior, will take the leads in this humorous history of humanity.

The play will open Thursday July 12 for a four-day run. It traces the trials of mankind through the ice age, war and female rivalry in a modern idiom by concentrating on the George Antrobus family of Excelsior, New Jersey.

McKinley Goes to England

Chuck McKinley will become the youngest player to win the Wimbledon tennis championship in 30 years today if he holds defeat favorite Rolf Laver of Australia.

McKinley, a 20-year-old St. Louisan, would also become the first American to win the title since Tony Trabert took it in 1955. But to do it he will have to upset Laver, who is a 3-1 favorite.

McKinley made up for his lack of height (5' 8") with tenacity and the speed of his chunky legs to eliminate Britain's Mike Sangster, 6-4, 6-4, 8-6. 4-6, 6-4.

Laver ousted Ramana- than Krishnan, of India, 6-2, 8-6.

The British crowd began pulling for Sangster to become the first Great Britain player to reach the finals since 1958—but settled for applauding McKinley's overpowering play.

McKinley, a sophomore at Trinity (Tex.) university, had more difficulty winning than Laver but was never in any serious trouble.

Union Exhibits
Hindu Paintings

Lovers embracing, an angry husband beating his wife, and scenes of Hindu gods and goddesses are subjects included in the exhibit of Indian paintings—some originally owned by Rudyard Kipling—on exhibit now through July 10 in the Art Room of the Union.

The exhibit, part of the program of Summer Institute on Asia, is in loan from the collections of the Victoria and Albert Museum, London, and the Wadsworth Atheneum, Hartford, Conn.

The twelve paintings from the Wadsworth Atheneum are the gift of Henry Schanakenberg. The others were donated by Rudyard Kipling to the Victoria and Albert Museum in 1917.

BOLD, VIBRANT coloring characterize the 40 small paintings. They are mainly of one or two figures, such as Rama, Krishna, and Kali, (Hindu gods and goddesses), or contemporary Indians. Backgrounds are plain, so that the vigorous blues, greens, maroon and yellows blaze forth.

The school of painting (Kali-ghat), to which these paintings belong, began around 1800 in Calcutta, and flourished for a century. The paintings were originally recognized as art of the 40 small paintings. They were originally recognized as traditional religious subjects, but also their fellow Indians, with all their idiosyncracies.

The paintings have a quality of simplification which was originally recognized as an outstanding merit, for this simplification tends to imbue figures with a new dignity and grandeur lacking previously.

One critic said of the paintings: "There is an exquisite freshness and spontaneity of conception and execution in these old brush drawings... The drawing is made with one long sweep of the brush in which there is no faintest suspicion of even a momentary indecision, not the slightest tremor can be detected."

"Often," he said, "the line takes in the whole figure in such a way that it defies you to say where the artist's brush first touched the paper or where it finished its work."

"Ikiru" Starts Tonight

"Ikiru," the Japanese film about a man who knows he is going to die, will be shown about 7:30 p.m. tonight and Saturday at Fairchild. It is part of the summer foreign film series at MSU.

Old Bus Becomes New WMSB Remote Studio

By LOWELL KINNEY
State News Staff Writer

From football team carrier to a television on wheels—that’s the story of an MSU bus. Earlier this year station WMSB-TV purchased a 1961 flexible bus from the university. The 18-year-old bus was window-lined, seat-filled and rusted. It was typical onlooker carrier, complete with luggage racks and storage compartments, hardly ready for remote television broadcasting.

With the advent of the warm spring weather Ray Dion, studio supervisor, began the conversion process. With the assistance of a studio crew, the bus was completely gutted, including all windows except the windshield.

FOLLOWING a preliminary interior design by Dion, reconstruction began. One of the major problems was to provide a ventilation system to rid the bus of the extreme heat from the electronic equipment. Fan sizes and ducts needed for ventilation were calculated by a member of the Physics department. It was also necessary to rework frame members to install the system.

Fans were installed, a camera platform atop the bus and soundproofing was installed. Much of the work was done on weekends, after regular working hours and over the Memorial Day holiday by station volunteers following Dion’s lead. The MSU paint shop applied the green and white surface to the finished product.

BY COMMENCEMENT the unit was ready. The address by General Douglas MacArthur to the 1961 graduates was the initial program to be televised through the new facility.

The new self-propelled broadcast unit gives WMSB the ability to telescript from farther away than was previously possible. The station plans to record segments for one of its programs from Greenfield Village this summer for use in a fall series.

The ducts (and almost every thing else in the unit) were custom made from scrap metal from the university salvage yard.

The UNIVERSITY tin shop fashioned new metal body panels to replace the rusted portions of the bus. Supports and tracks for production and engineering equipment were installed. Dion, using his own welding equipment, and his crew gradually reshaped the old bus.

WMSB engineers, meanwhile, removed the technical equipment from the old remote unit, staged a slow-moving trailer, reinstallation of equipment and Plans also had been made to videotape some Spartan football, basketball and hockey games. The recent budget cut has thus far eliminated the possibility of videotaping any football games.

LATER THIS year WMSB will add a small delivery-type truck to be integrated with the remote unit to carry the mobile videotape machine. This will make it possible for the station to set up and record a TV program without having to spend extra hours setting up a microwave relay from the remote location to the station studios.

The remote unit, completed at a cost of less than $1,000, will make it possible for WMSB to produce additional contract programs. The bus, videotape machine and van to transport it were purchased with funds gained through contract programming.
