Fall Enrollment Reaches Highest Figure in History

But Budget Cuts Down Fall Flood

Enrollment this fall will reach a total of 23,846, the highest figure in the university's history, Registrar Norman Smith announced Thursday at the close of the registration period.

This figure is 7 percent above last year's comparable total of 22,084. However the East Lansing campus is down 2,500 students to which the Board of Trustees directed the above last year's comparable figure in the university.

There is also no guarantee that a student will receive every dollar, as the paper is not put in past years. He said he be-

New Bus Service Boomng

Business on the campus bus service is, literally, 'picking up a ton' a day.

The general manager of the Michigan State University bus service, Harry Marks, said Thursday that 90 students, 60 of whom have been riding on a ton a day a month ago, are now traveling on the service.

The service has been so successful that the university has decided to increase the service to five runs a day.

The committee has already selected a location for the new stop, which will be located about 150 feet from the main entrance of the campus.

The new service is scheduled to start running next week.
Reuther Sets Strike Deadline

DETROIT—United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther today set a 3:30 P.M. Tuesday strike deadline against Ford and announced plans to break a deadlock in national contract negotiations over non-economic issues.

Reuther announced the strike deadline at a news conference shortly after he returned to the bargaining talks. His statement was in the form of a letter to Ford Motor Co. President Donald D. Frey.

A strike at Ford would take more than 20,000 hourly workers and halt 1962 model production.

The UAW Leader said Ford has requested a strike deadline "as an essential part of the need for setting a strike deadline." He did not elaborate.

Reuther's statement said:

"The early part of this week the UAW advised Ford Motor Co. of its desire to reach agreement on both the national and local issues in the talks so that the public might be actively bargaining and without the need for setting a strike deadline.

"In reply, Ford Motor Co. stated that a strike deadline "would be a denial of collective bargain­ ing." He believes that a strike deadline expressed in behalf of the company is both unil­ ntaracy and states:

"The company's failure dur­ ing the previous bargaining sessions to meet the requirement of a satisfactory national contract, both as to eco­ nomic and non-economic issues is evidence of its renec­ tance to bargain to a conclu­ sion of a strike deadline.

"Under the circumstances, the UAW feels it has no choice but to set a strike deadline in the hope that this will stimulate the company to recognize that it is necessary for the UAW and Ford to consummate a national contract."

Ford and the UAW have been working on a day-to-day ex­ tension of their old agreement. The extension in subject to an agreement by the UAW as late as 4 hours notice.

Episcopal Approve Artificial Birth Ban

"It is the first time the Epis­ copal-member denominations has officially sanctioned artificial birth. While the action has been some­ what surprising, it has been anticipated in recent years that the American Church will view the problem with more leniency.

"It is certainly a primary obstacle to the church, children be born within the means framework of personal care and family concerns. NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY
Spartans Go Hunting for Badgers

By GARY ROYNER

Daily News Sports Writer

The quality a football team looks for in a quarterback is a matter of taste. To one metropolitan newspaper, the answer was an 800-yard passer. He was a senior in high school, but was being considered for the All-State honor. To another, the choice was a daring runner who averaged 8 yards a carry and scored 14 touchdowns. The student who picked the former was the Michigan State coach, Duffy Daugherty. The one who chose the latter was Phil Kick, Lincoln’s football manager. Both had good reasons for their choices. But had they spoken to one another, they would have agreed there was another type of quarterback needed — the one with the right personality for the team, the one who is a leader on the field and a leader off it.

Peter Smith, Lincoln senior who will direct Michigan State’s passing offense against Wisconsin this Saturday, has the right kind of personality. He is quiet, but never too quiet; he is daring, but never reckless; he is a leader on the field, but never too dominating.

Peter is a second-year quarterback. He has taken over the team’s signal-caller duties because of the injury of Herman Johnson, last year’s starter. Peter learned the responsibilities of the quarterback position last spring when he had to fill in for a fellow who was injured in practice.

Johnson has missed the last six games because of an injured leg. His absence has been felt. Without his strong arm and his experience, the Spartans have been running the ball more than usual. It has been a factor in their three-game losing streak.

With Johnson out, Michigan State has run the ball 145 times and passed 111 times. In the first three games of the season, Johnson had run 90 times and thrown 93.

Peter has had his ups and downs as a quarterback. But he has also had his moments of brilliance. In the game against Indiana, he completed 12 of 17 passes in the first half. That was his best game as a quarterback.

Peter, who is 5’11” and 176 pounds, is a fine athlete. He has a 4.0 grade point average at Lincoln and is interested in engineering. He is also a good athlete. He is a fine runner and a good ball handler.

Peter has been working on his passing this week. He has been working with Michigan State’s band director, Bob Stowell. The two have built a two-year relationship at halfback, under serious consideration for the quarterback’s position.

Peter is a leader on the field. He is quiet, but he is a leader. He has the confidence to call the signals, to direct the team. He has the confidence to throw the ball, to run the ball.

Peter is a fine passer. He has a strong arm and a good touch. He has a good feel for the football. He knows when to throw the ball, when to run it. He knows when to take the risk, when to play it safe.

Peter is a fine leader off the field. He is quiet, but he is a leader. He has the confidence to lead. He has the confidence to direct. He has the confidence to make a decision.

Peter is a fine athlete. He is a fine ball handler. He is a fine student. He is a fine leader. He is a fine quarterback. He is a fine man. He is a fine representative of Lincoln High School.

If you want a quarterback, you want Peter Smith.
Young and 8 Sophs
Top Harrier Team

by RENIE BOONE

The future looks bright for the Lansing Harriers this fall as they begin their second day in the 1961 season.

Those who remember the terrific 1959 Michigan AAA meet will recall the many touches of excitement and scenes of great interest which were re-enacted in a rather typical manner.

The team will be weakened by the loss of the Bob Garland, former Ohio State star twice winner of the 880-meter hurdles.

On the other hand, the team will be strengthened by the addition of a number of promising freshmen, including a record of one of the top men on last year's septet.

Young, team captain and alumni of the Big Ten championship, will be the one in the line-up this year.

A young Ukrainian* poem deploring the failure of Russia* to erect a monument to Jews massacred by the Germans at Kiev was denounced by the newspaper Literature and Life recently in an attack against the concept of Jews as a separate race or nation.

The organ of the Russian Federated Republic's writers also criticized the editorial board of the Literary Gazette, its elder feothar, for printing the poem, by Began (Yevtushenko)

Kiev war held by German troops from 1941 to 1943. More than 50,000 Jews are reported to have been slain there.

In suggesting a memorial, the poet wrote that "The Union of the Russian people" was one of the most savage persecutors of the Jews.

Literature and Life asked why does the editorial board of the All-Union Writers Newspaper (the Literary Gazette) permit Yevtushenko to invoke the triumph of the Leninist policy of nationalities by such 'collections' which can only be considered a provocation?"

The newspaper said the new program of the Soviet Communist Party resolutely opposes "any display of chauvinism and nationalism" — implying that this covered building a monument to the slaughtered Jews.

"Our banner is the red banner of revolution, our emblem is the hammer and sickle—the emblem of labor—and our red five-pointed star fades on the helmets of our soldiers. We thrust aside both chauvinism and nationalism," the paper said.

Literature and Life said that when the poet stood at the site of the mass graves "he could only think of the fact that those who were killed were Jews. He considered this the most important, most vital idea!"
