For Open Meets

Hannah Hits At Secrecy

By JUDY MARUCCO

President John A. Hannah said yesterday that he is still opposed to the idea of making the final decision on student conscription even though he approved such a move at the State Board of Control meeting Monday night. He said that the idea of the delegates having the right to decide on the matter was considered during deliberations, and that he intended to hold closed meetings to consider the possible changes in the constitution.

Hannah said that the idea is still "entrenched" in the minds of many students, and that he intends to hold closed meetings to consider the possible changes in the constitution.

"I feel that the idea is still acceptable," he said. "There is a need for a decision, and I believe that this idea is the best way to make a decision in this case."
Central Circulation Improves Library

Students are making more use and better use of the new Central Circulation Room which was recently opened in the library. The move was made in an effort to refine the library operation, said Ernest Chapin, librarian and director, and it began last December after the library was closed for several weeks.

The Central Circulation Room, Chapin explained, is to the Central Library what a convenient checkout center is to a bank. Customers can get in and out of the room fast and easily, and make transfers from one checkout location to another as they please. The library staff does not have to be involved any longer, except in the case of broken books or books returned past the due date. The new system, he said, will speed up the return of books, increase the circulation of books, and make the library more attractive to students.

Of the 730,000 books in the Central Library, 600,000 will be handled through the new checkout system. The remaining 130,000 books will stay in the present Central Library.

counselor's most important function. He conducts the Personal Laboratory of Professor Johnson at the central counseling center.

Chapin said that he and other members of the library staff believe that many books are not being used because the students are not being shown how to use them. The staff is very interested in helping students to get the most out of the books in the library.

Even if we do lack a national counterpart for the beauty queen, Chapin said, we do have a University of Michigan counterpart. And we have adopted the student, he said. Chapin said that more students and professors are using the new Central Circulation Room and that the library is being used more by students who are not registered in the University of Michigan.

The new Central Circulation Room is also being used by faculty members and researchers who are not registered at the University of Michigan.

Dr. Lawrence ‘Reborn’; Gets New Korean Name

By KEEN YEON
Of the State News Staff

Dr. Edward P. Lawrence, professor of English, recently gave a "new" Korean name also available in Chinese characters—on his 61st birthday. The new name is Lee Yoon (Lee, Yoon), which is pronounced exactly the same way as the gen-gal (Korean alphabet), contains one Chinese main character. The name was carefully selected among several choices and presented by Dr. Rhee Hyoung-ho, who received Ph.D. in education last summer.

The 61st birthday is the most insignificant occasion in human life. When a man reaches the age of 61, he is considered to have been old. Life ends at 61. When Dr. Lawrence reached his 61st birthday this year, he decided to receive a new name, which is the first part of the family name. The second part of the family name is Lee. Lee was the first name of the ancient Korean man, so called because he was the first to live in his second portion of life.

This strange custom is inherited from the Chinese tradition, and it is a symbol of weighty national and spiritual quality of Korean life.

State News Still Printing Letters

State News policy has not changed for some time. The editor is still printing letters submitted by the students. For four years Dr. Keun Yoon was the only person who wrote letters to the editor. He was the first name of the ancient Korean man, so called because he was the first to live in his second portion of life.
