No Strikes Asked For Vital Shops

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Labor Arthur A. Goldberg said Monday that he has not yet decided whether he may seek to order a reduction of work time, a work slowdown or other strike-breaking measures for the vital shops.

Goldberg announced a summary of the report of President Kennedy that although work time in the shops has been vastly reduced in the four months since he called a partial moratorium on strikes, the number of full work hours is still high.

"It is in high view of the critical importance of the nation's industrial posture, the labor situation, and the contributions of the labor movement to the nation's welfare to ensure that the number of work hours in the steel shops is as low as possible."

"It is now the time to consider the reduction of work hours in the steel shops to the extent necessary to carry out the purpose of President Kennedy's partial moratorium on strikes."

Second Talk on Automation

"Faunee to Speak at Kiva"

More information and resources will be crucial to meet the growing problems of automation at Kiva University.

Daniel K. Faunce, associate professor of mechanical engineering, will speak on this topic at Kiva University, October 19th.

"We want to alert our students to the fact that there are many opportunities for them in the field of automation, but it will be difficult for them to find work if they don't have the appropriate training," Faunce said.

"Kiva is in a great position to provide this training and we hope to attract more students to our program."

"The Congress will be the last opportunity for us to demonstrate our power."

"We will also be able to show the world that we are prepared to use this technology in the event of a nuclear war."

Campus UN Too Valuable To Become Rhetoric Contest

The Michigan State University began its third year Oct. 6. At 8 p.m. the gavel sounded order and the students from many countries rallied their chances to participate in the world body of peace. The Campus UN is launched after the United Nations in New York. Except that there is no security council and the veto power was written out of the constitution. A total of sixty-nine countries are represented.

The organization has grown and is making a name for itself throughout this country and in foreign lands. The United Nations itself has had over two million members in many wars. Delegates in New York have visited campus UN on their tours of foreign lands. The United Nations held their first annual conference. The second issue, the one Mr. Ribicoff primarily talked about, is quality. It includes, for example, legislation can be made to hold. The loss of talent on such proposals as college scholarships, aid for higher education and improvement of the Mississippi is paid less than the lowest paid by a clear announcement that he intended to raise it within three years. The Campus UN is vital and we should do our part to support it.

Delay Saturn Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - The biggest test of the Saturn V monster is due later today when the mighty rocket will zoom down the launch pad and send three tiny breathing devices into the flight of the fateful launch.

The maiden flight of the $250 million new machine is set for no later than Oct. 27, 1962, but NASA officials seemed to be taking the test seriously last week when they announced that the test would be pushed back by two days. The reason was that the first Saturn II test in the Cape's Launch Bay two months ago was a failure.

Possible Cancer Cure in Puffballs...A research team at the Biology Research Center is working on hundreds of other promising sub- stantial amounts of small molecules that will produce a single process. Automation is the key to efficient production of large quantities of these small molecules. A puffball extract, called a potential cancer therapy, has been shown to have some effects on cancer cells. The team is working with a variety of puffball extracts to identify the active compounds.

Scientific International...The national Aeronautics and Space Administration has awarded a grant to a research team at the University of California, Berkeley, to develop a new type of spacecraft heat shield. The team is working on a material that will prevent the heat from the atmosphere from reaching the spacecraft and causing damage. The material is made of a ceramic and carbon fiber composite and has been tested in simulations. The team expects the material to be ready for use within the next few years.

Bagwell's Papers Given to Museum...The personal papers of Paul D. Bagwell, historian, geologist, and botanist, have been donated to the university museum. Bagwell's papers are one of the most significant collections of ephemera in the field of science. The donation includes Bagwell's correspondence, notes, and other materials. In addition, Bagwell's papers are now available for research at the university museum.

Automation Defined...Automation is the process of replacing humans with machines. Although these processes are more expensive and time-consuming, they can be used to increase efficiency and reduce costs. Automation is the key to efficient production of large quantities of small molecules. By using automation, the team can produce large quantities of active compounds, which can then be used to treat cancer.
