Wayne State U. Offers State Plan To Raise Student Fees

Legislators Greet Idea Warmly

BY THE ANNOUNCED PRESS

Officials of Wayne State University, pleading poverty for their school, offered Tuesday to increase student fees to help increase enrolment.

This proposal is part of a report to the University Board of Governors by President George Eaton, who on Monday presented the report to the Board of Trustees.

The proposal, which was received favorably by the Board, will be submitted to the Board of Regents for consideration at its next meeting, scheduled for February.

The proposal, which would raise fees for undergraduate students by $5 per semester, or $10 for the year, would be implemented immediately, and would take effect with the fall semester.

The increase would bring the total cost of tuition for an undergraduate student to $90 per semester, or $180 for the year, making it the highest in the state.

The increase would also affect graduate students, who would pay an additional $10 per semester, or $20 for the year.

The increase would be used to help offset the increasing costs of operation and maintenance, as well as to help offset the decreasing state aid.

The proposal was presented to the Board by President Eaton, who said that the university was in a financial crisis and that action was needed to ensure its future.

The Board of Regents, which is responsible for setting tuition rates, will consider the proposal at its next meeting.

The increase would also affect graduate students, who would pay an additional $10 per semester, or $20 for the year.

The increase would be used to help offset the increasing costs of operation and maintenance, as well as to help offset the decreasing state aid.

Ohio Plant May Cause Shutdown of Ford Lines

DETROIT — Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers union here are on the brink of a strike, as the company prepared for the return of its trainees from the Peace Corps, who are seeking a job placement agreement with the company.

Ford has asked for a one-year extension of the existing contract, which expires this week. The UAW has rejected the proposal, saying that it is time to work on a new contract.

The trainees, who have been volunteering in different countries as part of the Peace Corps, are concerned about their future employment. They want to ensure that they have a consistent source of employment and that their time and efforts are recognized.

Ford, on the other hand, is concerned about the cost of hiring and training new employees. The company wants to ensure that it can continue to provide high-quality vehicles to its customers.

The situation is complicated by the fact that the company has also laid off some workers in recent months due to economic pressures. This has added to the pressure on Ford to find a way to address the concerns of the Peace Corps trainees.

A strike could be detrimental to both parties. Ford would lose the valuable skills and experience of the Peace Corps trainees, while the trainees would lose their jobs and their ability to contribute to society.

The situation is a reminder of the importance of finding a balance between the needs of employees and the needs of businesses in times of economic uncertainty.

CASE HALL RESIDENTS find elevators a valuable advantage over other residences on campus. Another advantage is the adjoining halls, making each two rooms into a suite. —State News Photo.

Case Hall Offers Modern Living

Is it a hotel or a residence hall? Case might sound like either when you see the new Case Hall on north campus.

The hall houses 380 students and offers one of the finest apartment-type living accommodations on the campus.

The rooms are spacious and have many comforts of home, including air conditioning in summer and heating in winter. Every room has a four-piece bathroom, a closet, study and dressing area. The rooms are well insulated and have excellent lighting.

In the basement, there are recreational amenities such as a swimming pool, a fitness center, a tennis court, and a small gymnasium.

The hall is also equipped with a 24-hour desk and mail service, making it easy to stay connected and informed.

Girl Weeps
As She Leaves Nigeria

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—Her eyes red and tears streaming down her cheeks, Margery Michelmore left by air for Puerto Rico Wednesday night after an emotional farewell to the Peace Corps where she had been assigned to teach English to a postcard that went astray.

Margery, a 20-year-old American girl weeps as she is taken from her apartment by airport police and led to a waiting car. She has been assigned to teach English to Peace Corps volunteers in Nigeria where she had been assigned to teach English.

Before going to the airport, the Peace Corps official escorted Miss Michelmore to a postcard that went astray in Lagos.

Miller's play 'The Crucible' was adapted for the screen by Arthur Miller himself. The story, based on fact, is a vivid recreation of the Salem witch trials of 1692, with stars Simone Signoret and Arthur Miller. The movie, which has a running time of 2 hours and 45 minutes, is to be shown at the University Auditorium on Oct. 23, at 7:30 p.m. It is a powerful impact which comes from the drawing power. The accused must confess or be put to death. Naturally those who yield confess as a form of survival of the fittest. The movie has been released in the direction of Raymond Reu. The movie has been released in Switzerland, France, and England. The movie is to be shown in New York City and throughout the United States.

Duffy’s Disgusted

Some psychology in reverse is helping to get the Spartans’ allowance. Joe had already been informed of the situation before Friday’s game with Notre Dame.

"Coach Duffy Daugherty said that the Spartans have been fighting a war for the past year and that the mental picture was important," Joe said. "The Spartans have been playing well in the last few games and that’s why we’re fighting the mental picture."

Joe also mentioned that the Spartans have been working on their mental picture for the last few games and that it has helped them to improve their performance.

U.N. to Probe Dag's Air Crash

UNITED NATIONS, Nov. 8—A meeting to examine a recent report

The United Nations security council on Wednesday vital issues had started.

The Soviet government announced on Wednesday that a committee had been appointed to investigate the crash of a United Nations plane in which Dag Hammarskjöld, the United Nations secretary-general, was killed. The committee, which is to be headed by a Norwegian, is expected to make its report within a few weeks.

The United Nations secretary-general, who was killed in a plane crash near Ndola, Zambia, last week, has been a key figure in the United Nations for over two decades. He was a respected figure in the international community and his death has caused a great deal of shock and sadness.

The meeting on Wednesday was expected to discuss the investigation of the crash and the role of Dag Hammarskjöld in the United Nations.

E. Lansing High Gets Speech Lab

Students studying foreign languages in E. Lansing High school will now have a speech lab, which is a significant step towards enhancing their learning experience.

The school has acquired a speech lab, which is expected to improve the learning environment for students studying foreign languages. The lab will be equipped with the latest technology, providing students with a more interactive and engaging learning experience.

The lab is part of the school's efforts to provide a conducive learning environment for all students. The school has been working towards improving its facilities and resources to support the educational needs of its students.

The speech lab will be available to students studying languages such as French, Spanish, and German. The lab will be open to students during and after school hours, providing them with ample opportunities to practice and improve their language skills.

Many extra-curricular activities are being planned for the students to participate in, such as language clubs and workshops. The school is also planning to organize regular language competitions to encourage students to showcase their language skills.

The school administration is confident that the speech lab will contribute to the overall improvement of the students' language proficiency and their overall academic performance.

Tapes Aid Study

Elkhart Memorial High school has acquired a new tape recorder for its speech lab, which will be used by students to record their speeches and improve their public speaking skills.

The tape recorder was acquired through a generous donation, which was made by a local business owner. The school is thankful for the support and looks forward to using the new equipment to enhance its speech lab program.

The school administration is committed to providing its students with the best possible resources to facilitate their learning and personal growth. The school is looking forward to seeing the students make the most of this new resource.
