SAD HOMECOMING—Spartan football enthusiasts returning from Saturday's 15-6 loss to Minnesota were mobbed by some 1,000 fans who gathered for a spontaneous "come home" celebration. The episode had been started, it was later revealed, by those present among the gameday throngs who had observed the huddle on the sideline. It just wasn't the Spartans' day. PROFESSOR MILLER: Genuine Scholar

The provost is the chief academic officer of the University, a position responsible for the entire educational operation. His work includes planning the curriculum, working with deans and making academic decisions such as faculty tenure, employment and promotions. Miller's work has resulted in his progressive ideas and emphasis on liberalization.

Miller's greatest contribution to the University has been his emphasis on the need for developing a community of scholars. Miller said that one of his major objectives is to liberalize MSU's offerings.

Weather

Partly cloudy and cooler today with temperatures in the 60's. Forecast for Tuesday is fair and warmer.

POETIC SPEAKER—George Spranger, St. Paul, read his work before the audience for the Journal Day program.

Feature Speakers—George Spranger, St. Paul, and Fred S. Kerber read an old appointment for the Journal Day program.

BIOGRAPHICAL DATA—Dennis Berli, Franklin High School student-photographer took a part in the special interest in the photo equipment display which was set up in the lobby for the Journal Day program.

Mathews Named President Of West Virginia U.

Plans To Remain Until February

Prof. Paul A. Miller was named president of West Virginia University on Saturday, Feb. 3, 1962, although he will not move MSU to until February when the "Winter Point Four," project begins but spring will be near completion.

A native of West Virginia and a graduate of West Virginia University, Miller has been at MSU for 10 years. He has been vice president since 1956.

As a rule, a West Virginia native, Miller spent much of his life in rural areas and in other responsible positions he has held at the university.

Letters to the Editor

Fan Wants Soccer Promoted

To the Editor:

What does Michigan State University have against soccer? Are they afraid that our team may scandalize them? No, they have no reason to denounce us. Everyone loves a good match, and there is no better sport than soccer. Our team is composed of some of the most important students on campus, and our fans are proud of us. Let's give the team a chance to shine!

Gary Allen, Lyla, 3 East State

Move Block "S"

To the Editor:

Isn't Block "S" surging this year? I'd like to see more active participation from the student body. I want to see the fans line the sidelines, cheering for our team. Let's make Block "S" a place to be proud of!

Wee Willie, 2 East State

Prayer Needed

To the Editor:

Here are a few words in relation to a letter in the previous issue. I was extremely disappointed to see the comments about prayer in the letters section. It is a personal matter, and I do not see why others should impose their beliefs on me. I believe in the separation of church and state, and I do not want to see prayer in the letters section.

Cultural Tilt

Edward M. Murrow recently told a radio station in New York City about his column, "We the People." He said that he believed the column was "not only a statement of identity, but also a statement of values." He added, "It is the job of the media to reflect these values and to help people understand their responsibilities as citizens of the United States." Murrow's column is one of many that help to build a sense of community and to promote a shared understanding of what it means to be American.

Housing Policy Full Of Inconsistencies

The University's housing policy is full of inconsistencies that make it difficult for students to live on campus. The lack of clear guidelines and the inconsistencies in the policy have led to confusion and frustration among students. For example, the policy states that students must be 25 years old to live in approved apartments. However, the policy also allows single undergraduates to live in approved apartments. This inconsistency makes it difficult for students to understand the rules and regulations. Additionally, the policy states that students must be approved by the college press. However, this requirement is not enforced, which creates an unfair system. It seems that the University is struggling to create a fair and consistent housing policy that meets the needs of its students.

Legislature: Aid to Oddis On Aid to Children

By Robert Ginter

The legislature will be considering a bill to provide aid to children in need. The bill is designed to help children who are at risk of abuse or neglect. The legislation would provide funds to support programs that provide a safe and stable environment for children. It is hoped that this legislation will help to reduce the number of children who are in need of assistance.

Faculty and Staff Insurance Initiated

A major medical insurance program for the University of Michigan will provide coverage for medical expenses, including hospitalization and surgery, according to Harry W. T. Smith, Jr., of the University's health service.

Enrollment of eligible faculty and staff members is now in progress and is being handled through the University's personnel department.

The plan, to be carried by the University of Michigan Health and Casualty Insurance Co., will pay for major expenses of hospital and medical care which exceed the basic coverage provided by the University program. The basic plan, as outlined by Mr. Smith, will be in effect July 1, 1962.

No details have been released, as the plan is under discussion with the University's personnel department.

This edition of "Learn to Know

French," a self-instruction book,

was written by Gwendolyn Miller and was published by Prentice Hall.

Of course, not to be overlooked

is the fact that the book is written in American English. . . .

Miller

serves as chairman of the Joint

Columbia-U.S. Commission on

Higher Education in Society.

"This is the first time this nation has ever formally entertained an African artist as a full-fledged guest of the school system," Fagg said.

He added that the opening of the road to the world for African art is a step toward the cultural unity of the world. "This is the time to be showing African art in America," Fagg added.

Miller also said that he has worked toward eliminating stereotyping of people in the University. "There are many black students here who are not aware of the University or the black students as an entity," he said. "We must make him realize that he is part of the University as a whole.

It is this kind of thinking that we must prepare him to be a part of.

Miller said that he has had speeches as far away as Canada

and that he has been working on his next book, "The World of Africa," which will be published next spring.
