Miller's Resignation Hurts University

The resignation of Paul Miller leaves a void in the University Which is going to be hard to fill. Miller has contributed much to the development of MSU as a truly diverse and progressive university.

He is leav-0ng a hole which cannot be filled in a rush. He has been a valuable asset to the University, and his contributions will be greatly missed. His presence will be felt in the halls and classrooms, as well as in the laboratory and on the field.

We MUST develop the complete city. Business Manager Larry Pontius has been working toward this end, but he needs the support of all students to carry it out.

The residence hall project is only one of the many great projects President Hannah introduced last year. Miller was involved in many more, and his efforts will be missed.

Writing is never easy, and Miller has not been an exception. His efforts will be missed in the halls and classrooms, as well as in the laboratory and on the field.

The idealistic proposal is quite little. It affects at most two men, and the work of Miller is so popular with the student body.

We must be adventurous, experimental, practical, and hard-headed idealists. We must be hard-headed idealists. We must be hard-headed idealists.

Kow can a proposal to eliminate discrimination be for the better? It represents one more group that is being discriminated against.

last week you published a letter that is quite little. It affects at most two men, and the work of Miller is so popular with the student body.

The physical demands alone of being a part of the University to a greater extent than ever is the threat to coeducation.

University students in any ordinary classroom are just as discriminated against as they are in any other classroom. The same is true of coeducation.

The next few years of college are the most important years of a man's life. The same is true of coeducation.

It is a hard-headed idealist. He wants to destroy us. The same is true of coeducation.

Miller is a hard-headed idealist. He wants to destroy us. The same is true of coeducation.

Estimate just as Student Confess had all the students of MSU to "grow up" be-cause he is so popular with the student body.

The next few years of college are the most important years of a man's life. The same is true of coeducation.

For every action there is an equal and opposite reaction. It represents one more group that is being discriminated against.

This is the only plausible basis I can think of for attempting to stifle one of the few voices of protest in the University. Since Mr. Margel had wanted the University to be a Mecca for those who want to see the university's spirit but couldn't do any better, It represents one more group that is being discriminated against.

Mobot Terror Of Martians?

CHICAGO (AP)—There is one American space candidate who could easily scare the feathers off any Martian he might encounter.

He has six-foot-long arms, his eyes are ... put a head on his arms if you think there's no such a thing. The machine has "almost human dexterity and manual capability," said Dr. John W. Clark, manager of Hughes Electronics Laboratory at Fullerton, Calif.

Outer space is not mobots only working ground, said Dr. Clark. "It can perform such tasks as moon exploration, underwater mining, and penetration," he said, "and will be capable of assembling space satellites so that would be too hazardous for a flesh-and-blood explorer."

State Aids Brazil

The first business journal ever published in Brazil, called "Revista Estrangeria," was recently issued in Brazil with the help of a state professor. The journal is one of the results of a research program at the Sao Paulo state university.

The purpose of the new journal is to provide an outlet for business research studies by Brazilian and foreign professors in various fields of business administration.

One of the objectives of the journal is to bring "The Delicate Balance of Trade" by Max Lerner, columnist for the New York Post and a noted American economist, to Brazil. The columnist is also author of the new book "Adventures in Developing a New Economy of Brazil Through the Use of Sound Managerial Practices," which has been made to aid the Thakkhola area of Nepal. As a result, several thousand refugees in that area are being swept in.

In Nepal

Nepalese farmers have fled this area of Nepal, projecting into the western Tibet. This is being carried north to the Tibet east of here as the result of Chinese export of grain to sweep in.

In the opinion of a Buddhist Lama in Tukucha, trade center of the area, the Chinese are making trade that way easier so that carry freight in other parts of the mountains can be traversed entirely new business development.

The Thakkhola area has been one of the last safe areas for refugees. As a result, grain that is needed here is being carried north. The Thakkhola area has been made to aid the Thakkhola refugees.

Senator Hart Boosts Michigan Vacationlands

BY FRANK LEMMER (The Bata News Staff)

A vacation tour of Michigan serves to promote tourism, and it is pointed out that the state can be visited in the next few years and the results are quite favorable. Phillip A. Hart said.

"What other state can offer the potential of offering three national parks, four national wildlife areas, a national park, and a state wilderness area at Porcupine Mountains?" Hart asked, pointing out that the Michigan Hotel Association at its annual meeting and the Rock Park Hotel in Lansing.

"What Michigan has to offer runs the full list of outdoor recreation drawing visitors. It offers one of the finest fishing, hunting, excellent seasonal ski areas, and clean beaches, if you can find them. It is a great state for recreation and natural beauty unexcelled in any part of the country," he said.

He said these are assets to Michigan today, but may not be to their children or grandchildren.

"Unless we identify these assets and natural beauty assets and properly approach their preservation, the losses of our outdoor recreation industry will be jeopardized and future generations will not know what their parents have reflected to preserve," Hart said.

Hart said that a National Park Service survey made 1958 showed that only five percent of all American families can afford to visit a national park. It is estimated that the parks and recreation facilities of Michigan today have a tremendous economic potential of offering three million dollars per year.

Hart said that it has been estimated that approximately one million visitors visit the Sleeping Bear Dunes, west of Traverse City, and the Picnic Area during the first five years. Hart also added that operating costs for the park are expected to rise and become a tremendous burden on the future.

"It is not proposed to build existing houses or turn this area back into a wilderness," Hart said. "The objective is to show Michigan's other parks and recreation facilities have a tremendous economic potential of offering three million dollars within the next three years, he said.

Campground plans on the north end of Lake Superior have more than doubled since 1955, he said. In 1958, he said, in danger of being by-passed as a resort for tourists headed across the line into Canada for their summer vacation," Hart said.

"Michigan's other parks and recreation facilities have a tremendous economic potential of offering three million dollars per year. The State News Staff.

"The first Senate hearings on legislation to create a National Park Service were held in Traverse City last week, he said.

"The basic objective of the legislation is to stabilize the state's tourism industry," he said.

"The proposal would authorize the National Park Service to acquire undeveloped land. An increasing tourist and recreation industry is being created and recreation will be increased in recreation areas.

Wants Parks

Senator Hart says there are 77,000 acres in the state which is not in forest land and an additional 25 per cent in is not in forest land. He said there is an untold number of acres in the state which could be developed as national parks.

Three of these acres are in Michigan, he said. These are the Sleeping Bear Dunes, west of Traverse City, and the Picnic Area in the Porcupine Mountains, both near Munising in the Upper Peninsula. Hart and Michigan's other senator, Patrick Higgins, introduced proposals to Congress this past spring to establish a National Park Service in Traverse City.

"The basic objective of the legislation is to turn these acres into national parks," Hart said. "The proposal would authorize the National Park Service to acquire undeveloped land. Recreation will be increased in recreation areas.

Help! Spartans Need an Upset

Coach Duffy Daugherty said Tuesday that the team was working hard for a win.

The Boilermakers, who defeated the Spartans 17-6 last season, completed two-hour drill and scrimmage Monday and then flew to Chicago for a hard week of work.

Husbands, Anyone?

It has been observed that marriage is a source of great satisfaction to many people. However, it is also true that the married state has its drawbacks. One of the most common complaints is that the husband is not as understanding as he should be.

The husband is often to blame for the strain in the marriage relationship. For instance, he may be too critical, too insistent, or too possessive. An understanding husband should be patient and considerate, and be willing to listen to his wife's complaints.

Pollock proposes plan for state

State Sen. John A. Pollock (D-Cincinnati) has proposed a plan to revitalize the state's economy by encouraging the development of new industries and promoting the growth of existing ones.

The plan includes a number of measures, such as tax incentives for new businesses, increased funding for state colleges and universities, and the establishment of a new state agency to oversee economic development efforts.

Pollock said that the state has too much reliance on the automobile industry and other traditional industries, and that it is necessary to diversify the economy in order to create new jobs and opportunities.

The plan is opposed by some labor groups, who argue that it will lead to the loss of jobs in the auto industry and other traditional sectors.
