13 Nations Back Hard Resolution

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay—The United Nations General Assembly today voted down the resolution to send a large peacekeeping force to Cuba.

The resolution, which was introduced by Cuba, was defeated by a vote of 13 nations in favor to 23 against.

The defeated resolution called for the United Nations to establish a peacekeeping force of 30,000 troops to be stationed in Cuba to oversee the withdrawal of U.S. forces.

The resolution was introduced by Cuba in response to the U.S. invasion of the Caribbean island in January. The U.S. invasion was condemned by the United Nations Security Council, but the resolution was rejected by the Security Council.

The U.S. had pointed out that the resolution violated the Charter of the United Nations by imposing military action on a sovereign nation.

President Kennedy had indicated that he would veto the resolution if it became law.

Olin's Problems Stem From Lack of Funds

By JOSEF KARNOFSKY

Olin's efforts in the past have been adequate, but the university is unable to attract enough students to generate sufficient income.

"The reason for this is the lack of funds," said President John D. Feurig. "We have a limited amount of money to work with, and we are not able to attract enough students to generate the funds needed to support the university."

Feurig said the university is also facing the problem of a lack of funds on a continued basis.
