Mundt Raps Liberalism:

By PAUL SCHNITZ, of The State News Staff

Under the leadership of one who called themselves "liberals," the United States has been moving toward traditional absolutism for the last century.

By the 18th century, several noted political leaders had achieved the changes in the political structure..."If you put too much power in too few hands, ultimately you have a dictatorship," Mundt said.

There is another political action, Mundt said, which was so successful in the United States has been reversed and distorted..."I'm a States-righter and I don't like big government," Mundt said.

"If you make medicine a profession, medicine would be a reversion to the days of absolutism," Mundt said.

"The United States is going at present to the days when it was possible for people to know who was running the show. Now it is the federal government that is running the show," Mundt said.

"We've got people who are interested in what is going on in the country, but they are few and far between," Mundt said.

It is almost pay to be sick—at least caring for the sick is a big industry in America these days.

Hospitals are important economic institutions at both the national and state level, even though they are, in part, a business. The Michigan Economic Report, published by the Bureau of Business and Economic Research, reports that hospitals employ more workers than all automobile, electrical, radio, and rubber companies combined. The report stated there are more than 1,000,000 full-time permanent employees in 5,000 hospitals in the United States.

Hospitals in the U.S. have 1,772,000,000 square feet of space and equipment, and this figure is expected to rise. The report indicated that last year hospitals spent $3 billion on non-personnel services, including food, maintenance, and supplies. This suggests that hospitals are becoming more efficient in their operations.

Hospitals in Michigan attract much of the nation's sick out of state. They have an important role in the state's economy, generating revenue from visitors and tourists.

The report stated that there is no reason to believe that employment in hospitals will continue to grow.
Seniors Bolster Spartan Distance Freestyle Corps

By TERRY DURFEE
State News Sports Writer

This week's meet against Iowa State will be the last one of the season, and it will be the last one to be held in the Central Conference. The meet will be split between the Minnesota and Iowa State campuses, and it will be the last one to be held in the Central Conference.

Doug Rowe and Dick Brackett, both members of the Michigan State swim team, will be attending the meet in Minneapolis. They are part of the Minnesota and Iowa State teams and will be participating in the meet.

Doug Rowe, who placed seventh in the 200 yard freestyle at the NCAA Championships, has set a new record for the 100 meter freestyle. He became interested in swimming when he was a member of the Michigan State swim team in high school.

Dick Brackett, who placed eighth in the 200 meter freestyle at the NCAA Championships, has set a new record for the 100 meter freestyle. He became interested in swimming when he was a member of the Michigan State swim team in high school.

The meet will be held on Thursday, April 4, at 6:30 p.m. in the Minnesota Aquatic Center. The meet is open to the public, and admission is free.

Where's Money Come From?

Development Fund Often Overlooked

By ROBERT B. JONES

Where does all the money come from to support the large and prosperous universi ty called Michigan State? Some of the cl ass - man of dollars are spent to in - crease the Development Fund, which is a part of the university's annual operating budget.

The Development Fund is used to support a number of causes, including scholarships, research, and athletics. The fund is also used to support the university's alumni association, which provides financial assistance to students in need.

The Development Fund is sometimes criticized for being used to support unnecessary expenses, such as the construction of new buildings or the purchase of expensive equipment. However, the fund is essential to the university's ability to provide financial aid to students, and to support important research and educational programs.

While the Development Fund may not be as well-known as other university funds, it plays a crucial role in supporting the university's mission.
