18-Nation Summit Meeting Proposed by N. Khrushchev

To JFK, Others In Letter

WASHINGTON — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was reported Sunday to have proposed an巨头 summit meeting to open the March 14 disarmament conference at Geneva. The proposal is understood to have been made in a letter to President Kennedy and to heads of the other nations involved.

Khrushchev sent the letter in response to a proposal made to him last Wednesday by Kennedy and by British Prime Minister Harold MacMbaa for foreign ministers to open the disarmament conference. Khrushchev is safe to have objected that the Isaacs involved is trying to end the nuclear arms race are too serious to turn over to tawd crats — by which he made dear he meant the foreign ministers.

The known attitude of the Kennedy administration, as well as of the previous Eisenhower government, has been to oppose full-scale summit meetings unless advance negotiations give some assurance of success when the heads of government get together.

One reason often advanced for this opposition is that failure at the summit an any of the great war and peace issues, such as disarmament, would inevitably create grave new tensions and perhaps increase instead of lessen the danger of war. Nevertheless, the logic of the U.S. position would leave the way clear for a later summit conference on disarmament if the “first stages of negotiations at Geneva opened up a serious possibility of agreement between East and West. Peace Seekers Urge Ban-on-Love

LONDON — A leader of the British Peace Movement in Britain has called for a bill to ban all forms of war in the country.

The bill is in favor of those who favor disarmament, said the leader. We have a lot of talking to do in this country. We have a lot of people who are not convinced of the need for disarmament. We have a lot of people who are not convinced of the need for peace.

Needed But Slow to Come

Congress has finally taken the step which could mean a significant break in its attitude against federal aid to education.

Senate approval Tuesday of a $207 million college scholarship and construction bill marks a significant lowering of President Kennedy's entire education program.

Although the House and Senate still have to reach agreement on several points, the fact that the Senate passed the controversial scholarship aid bill is significant. The measure, opposed by a federal aid to education bill with provisions only for classroom construction, the House will probably chop a considerable amount off the scholarships provision in the Senate bill but at least an initial move has been made.

Education's disastrous defeat in Congress last year made the bill's success this year doubly important. The bill is about to face the budget crisis of '69 in colleges. They have already precipitated an all-out mini-revolution in the secondary school level and next year will begin at the college level.

An increasingly large number of the nation's youth in this age group are college dropouts. This crisis creates a multitude of problems but the major ones are finance. These students and giving them a figure to go to school.

In 1958, spending on educational scholarships and financial aid programs reached a record of $120 million, but the number of students benefiting from such programs has remained relatively constant. The Senate bill, if it is finally passed, will increase this figure greatly.

Colleges all over the nation are suffering, and Tuition is rising at public schools, forcing more students to go into non-academic activities. The state universities haven't the funds to provide enough scholarships to keep pace.

The Senate bill is intended to solve this problem. The high expenses for students, the lack of classroom space and the need for junior colleges to take the load off universities, is the bill's purpose to begin with. The Senate bill is supposed to be a step toward an educational revolution, a major step in a small direction.

The bill is bound to lose some of its House members but it will still be a step toward recognizing the need for assistance to America's colleges and universities.

In 1968, the House and Senate bills provided for a $150 million increase in aid to higher education. The Senate bill, if it is finally passed, will increase this figure greatly.

Unfortunately, some schools within the state are receiving more than $100,000 for scholarships and for any school to receive more than this amount is a sign of how desperate it is.

A student living in a dormitory costs more than $2,000 a year, and it irritates and frustrates students and teachers. It is impossible to re-educate the black races. He

The American educator and author, calls the average teacher; it is to call attention to possible deficiencies—deficiencies which can perhaps change the content of a course for the better.\n
Teachers—good teachers— can perhaps give students a breakpoint in their studies. But in spite of this, you probably scrawled out quite a stack of class notes.

South Africa

To the Editor: The "Letters from the Editor" column with Dr. J. E. Shaw, Director of the Institute for African Affairs, is read by many students interested in South Africa. Although many articles do not offer an opportunity for the students to write letters, I believe that it is important to give students a chance to express their opinions.

Dr. J. E. Shaw, Director of the Institute for African Affairs, discussed the subject of unemployment in South Africa. He stated that the unemployment problem is a serious one and that the government is doing its best to alleviate it.

In response, I would like to ask Dr. Shaw to consider the problem of education in South Africa. The government's efforts to improve the educational system are being undermined by the fact that many students are refusing to attend school.

Dr. Shaw, in his column, mentions the "Brother-Sister Program". This program is designed to help students who are handicapped with different language and different educational systems. However, this program has not been successful.

Several students have written to me expressing their dissatisfaction with the Brother-Sister Program. They feel that the program is not meeting their needs and they are not receiving adequate assistance.

I would like to hear from Dr. Shaw about the Brother-Sister Program and how it can be improved to better meet the needs of students in South Africa.
