Stan Kenton Workshop Begins Fourth 'Session'

Nearly 250 jazz enthusiasts from the United States and Canada are participating in the Stan Kenton Jazz Workshop at Shaw Hall this week.

Kenton and his band arrived in East Lansing Sunday, sponsored by National Band Camps, the Kenton workshop has visited MSU each summer since 1959.

According to Eugene Hall of the MSU Music Department, the workshop is being held at Shaw Hall so that it will not conflict with other music programs. The High School Youth Music Program and A, F, M, of M, Congress of Strings are also being held at MSU this summer.

"We are fortunate in that we have facilities to carry on several music programs at once," said Hall.

Anyone over 14 is eligible to participate in the workshop. "A large percentage of the students are ages 16-20," said Hall. "However, there is a complement of adult ages 25-

Final Ice Show is Wednesday

The 7th annual MSU Summer Ice Show will present its 1st annual show of the season Wednesday at 9 p.m. in the Ice Arena.

Miss Noyes, of the Skating Club of Boston, is coached by Montgomery Wilton, Miss Unvermube, of the Skating Club of New York, is coached by Pierre Brunet.

Other highlights will be performances by Lee Larplee of the Cleveland Skating Club, 1962 Mid-Western Junior Runner-up and Gary Vieras of the Detroit Skating Club.

Several local champions will perform in the show. Janet and Nic Burbank, a brother-sister dance team, will be featured.

"We try to achieve a balance between those who are top jazz performers and those who understand jazz education," said Hall.

According to Hall, most of the instructors at the workshop are from New York City and Los Angeles. Among the 17 saxophone instructors are Charles Mariana, well-known tenor with the Kenton band, and John LaPorta of the Beverly School of Music, Boston.

Another jazz authority attending the workshop is Eddie Federman, who plays with Skip Henderson's band. Sadzinski is head contractor for NBC. He instructs bass students at the workshop.

Two trumpeters teaching at the Kenton workshop are Donald Bird and Dalton Smith, head trumpeter with the Kenton band.

The workshop boasts several unusual classes, including one in jazz piano for people who are classically trained.

A forum for students on all aspects of jazz in held each 7 p.m. A panel of experts led by Kenton is open to questions in any area.

Following the discussion, various bands play till 10. According to Hall, Kenton's band will play occasionally. These sessions are open only to workshop students.

A public concert of all student bands will be held Friday at 7:30 on the lawn in back of Shaw Hall. In case of rain, the concert will be moved inside Shaw Hall.

New Chapel Here For Lutherans

The board of directors of the Martin Luther Chapel, Missouri Synod, in East Lansing has announced plans for a new student chapel and recreation center.

"The new facilities will be considerably larger than our present ones," said the Reverend Marian Lindquist. "Flies call for a chapel to seat 300 and a basement recreation area."

Groundbreaking at the corner of Abbott and Elizabeth roads is slated for next spring.

Pastor Theodore Redden will direct the center.

Grosse-Potsi Farmington conventionalcandidate, Raymond M. Leyman, former Republican U.S. representative from Michigan's Ninth Congressional district, won run-off for the U.S. Congress-at-large seat.

Committee: Don Ihlenberg, Robert F. Franklin, and Don Hayworth, U.S. representative from the Sixth Congressional district at-large seat. Hayworth is a speech professor at Michigan State.

FOUR IN SENATE RACE

These Republicans — Ted Smith, Oklahoma attorney general, Paul Cline, East Lansing Republican, and Pasty Lauer, Flinton and Larry V. McHurtz, business man will compete against incumbent Paul C. Younger, Lansing, for the Sixth Senate seat. McHurtz is a former City Councilman who was defeated by Younger in 1980. They are opposed by William J. Mahoney, retired Oldsmobile executive and George H. Proctor, Democrat candidate.

Mrs. Wagner was elected to the House in 1980 and has served the district since 1984.

Bruce B. King, Lansing attorney, and Fred Williford, former director of the state commission on aging are unemployed in the Democratic primary for the Third Legislative district seat.

Incumbents Republicans Leo A. Farhat, Lansing, prosecuting attorney; James D. Enders, Lansing, and C. Paul Cline, East Lansing, will run for re-election.

The new finance and taxation article is highlighted as much by what it prohibits as what it permits. It would prohibit a graduated income tax by the state or any governmental subdivision; prohibit raising the sales tax above its current four per cent level; prohibit after Jan. 1, 1980, an assessment of real and personal property at more than 50 per cent of its assessed value.

At times debate on various sections of the article cut sharply across party lines, but a division of 33 democratic coalition of 35 Democratic co-sponsors lost the last-minute bid to rewrite this and a series of other controversial articles on the Republicans' positions to agree on separate limits which could total as much as $18 million. The higher limit, however, would be subject to voter veto.

It was provided additionally that the limitation "should not apply to taxes imposed for the payment of principal and interest on bonds or other evidence of indebtedness.

The general limitation would be ineffective, either, in counties or townships where tax limits are fixed by charter.

For Taiwan

Merle L. James, professor of agricultural engineering, has left on a two-year assignment to head MSU's technical assistance project on the Chinese Nationalist island of Taiwan.

For the past two years, Michigan State has been assisting and advising schools on Taiwan in strengthening their agricultural, research and extension programs.

The project is supported by a grant from the International Cooperation Administration, now known as the Agency for International Development.

The two institutions with which MSU advisers are cooperating are the National University in Taipei and Chiang Ping University, the Provincial College of Agriculture at Taichung.

As chief of staff, James heads a team of five MSU advisers representing the state departments of agricultural education, entomology and education.

He succeeds Howard F. McClelland, another agricultural engineer who will be returning to the East Lansing campus property after taking a leave due to his current hospital stay.

James's assignment began from Aug. 4 of this year to Sept. 15, 1964, as a full-time employee and not as an extension adviser.

Anti-Litter Campaign Started

In addition to the highway department, the conservation department is also involved in the mounting battle to keep city sidewalks, streets, stream, and lakes free from litter, according to state highway public relations director Gray. The new drive opened by Gov. John B. Swainson is an organized effort to alert the public to participate in a nationwide Keep America Beautiful campaign.

"There is no budget or paid personnel for the movement," Murray said. "Let the newspapers, radios, and televisions be used to cooperate in bringing the problem into focus at home." Murray said that solving the litter problem will be a long-term battle and will involve influencing public opinion to keep the highways as clean as possible.

Gray pointed out that beaches and river banks are not always littered by summer time. Much of it is done in the winter when ice fishing is going on.

"Adagio and Fugue K546" by Mozart will open the program following intermission. Other numbers for the second half of the concert include "Introduction and Allegro Op. 47 for Quartet and String Orchestra" by Béla Bartók; "Prelude and Fugue" by Vittorio Giannini; Bach; and Giannini and Eiger are American composers.

Keep Michigan Beautiful! This is a new drive which is receiving enthusiastic statewide support. According to state highway publicity director, John C. Mackle, it is an estimated $32,000,000 was spent by the state highway department in 1964 to clean the debris scattered along public highways. This is almost $1,000 a day and does not include clean-up costs of counties, cities, and villages.

Each citizen could save scarce tax dollars by not discarding his refuse along the highways. "Michigan's new freeway system," Mackle said, "will attract thousands of persons who will visit the state for the first time. Many of them will decide whether or not to come back next year."

"Their decision, I am sure, will be greatly influenced by whether or not our highways and roadside parks are kept free of trash and other debris," Mackle encouraged motorists to cooperate in Swainson's Keep Michigan Beautiful program by not throwing rubbish out of their own cars.

"It will make our job easier and make Michigan more attractive," he said. Mackle pointed out that in addition to the clean-up cost, litter on highways causes accidents when drivers swerve to avoid striking or rummaging over it. The national death toll caused by these accidents is estimated to be from 750 to 1,000 people a year.

Ice Glaciers Caused Lakes

Just a few years ago, geologically speaking, a glacier passed this way, and that’s why the Midwest has the Great Lakes.

Glaciers scraped and sculptured the land. The ice carried its load from the higher to the lower elevations, gouging out valleys, scraping out basins, and changing the face of the land. These glaciers shaped the landscape and left behind a legacy of features that we can still see today.

The glaciers left behind a variety of formations that we can still see today. These include:

- GLACIAL ICE
  - 10,000 YEARS AGO: BURIED MORAINIC SYSTEM
  - 2,000 YEARS AGO: FIRE AND ALGONQUIN STAGE

- GLACIAL SAND AND Silty clay
  - 300 YEARS AGO: LAKE GRAND RAPIDS

- GLACIAL STONE
  - 500 YEARS AGO: LAKE WINDERMERE

- GLACIAL LOW WATER INTERVAL
  - 2,000 YEARS AGO: LAKE MICHIGAN

- GLACIAL ICE FRONT
  - 6,000 YEARS AGO: CALIFORNIA

The glaciers that shaped the face of Michigan and gouged out the Great Lakes basins had their beginning about one million years ago. Climatic changes caused winters to lengthen in the northern part of the continent, and snowfall to increase but not melt in the short, cool summers. Four times, great masses of ice accumulated in the Hudson Bay region to form continental glaciers similar to the two-mile thick ice caps of Greenland and Antarctica.

The last glacier, the so-called Wisconsin, approached the Great Lakes carrying an increasing enormous volume of rock debris, it moved into the old river valleys, and divided into major lobes or ice tongues. The advancing lobes deepened and broadened these valleys into basins.

The ice pushed over all of Michigan—the only state completely covered—and pressed southward into the watershed of the old Mississippi River system. Ice advance was finally halted short of the present Ohio River, when new climatic changes made cold give way to warmth.

Then started a grand retreat that gave rise to the most complex succession of lakes known to geologists. The retreat was not continuous, but was marked with many halts and occasional re-advances.

As the ice lobes withdrew into the basins they had carved during their advance, tremendous volumes of meltwater were ponded between the glacier front and the northerly sides of an earlier moraine. These were the first ancestors of the Great Lakes—Lake Chicago and Lake Maumee.

After the ice had withdrawn completely from the lower peninsulas, waters in the Michigan and Huron basins rose to form Lake Algonquin which discharged at Chicago and Port Huron.

Prepsters Studying Languages

By SUSAN JACOBY
Of The State News Staff

Lansing-area high school students participated in a unique opportunity to talk and live another language for six weeks at MSU's High School Foreign Language Honor Institute this summer.

In its fourth year, the Institute was originally financed by an anonymous foundation in Lansing. It is now supported entirely by school systems in Lansing, East Lansing and Okemos. Students are selected partially on the basis of recommendations from their high school language teachers. Their reason for attending the Institute is also expanded.

Director Donald Yates said that some students study at the Institute with an eye to majoring in foreign languages. Hoping to travel in foreign lands, other high school students seek a working knowledge of languages.

Yates added that some teenagers simply wish to "broaden their perspective" and "feel their languages are a basic part of any education."

Classes are conducted from 9 to 11 a.m. entirely in Spanish or French. The morning's work begins after the 6:30 a.m. Bullfighting Language points of bullfighting with Donald Yates. The girls attended a High School Foreign Language Honor Institute here in Spanish, some of the finer.

MSU Benefactress Dies

Mrs. Grace L. Wonders, wife of a long-time MSU benefactor, Wallace Wonders, died July 25, in Detroit. A new dormitory being erected in the Case-Wilson group is named for the late Mrs. Wonders and her husband. The dormitory is scheduled to open in the fall of 1963.

A letter from Mrs. Wonders concerning the new Wonders Hall was read to Mrs. Wonders shortly before she died.

Wonders graduated from MSU in June, 1927.

"Wallace Wonders has been an extremely generous patron of the University for many years," said V.P. President Philip May.

Donations to MSU from the couple include a summer home at Port Sanilac, located near Port Huron.

Mrs. Wonders was buried Saturday, July 28 at Elmwood Cemetery in Detroit.

The Herald Tribune Free Air children, whose amounts would be donated in the fund to the alumni association, were accompanied by a $25 check.

The Herald Tribune Free Air fund was established in 1937. It was open.

Focus on Sales, Income Taxes

Next comes the prohibition against a sales tax of more than four per cent. Some Democratic legislators tried unsuccessfully to exempt drugs and food altogether from this tax, which now applies to them as well as other items sold at retail.

And after that comes what appeared for a time might be eliminated — earmarking of revenues for specific purposes.

The convention decided to continue dedication of fuel (gasoline) taxes and auto license fees for highway purposes.

It continued earmarking but changed the apportionment of the sales tax, providing that one eighth (instead of one half cent) should go to cities, villages and townships for a population basis. It also provided that one half of the total sales tax shall go "exclusively for the support of public education and school employees' retirement systems" and that "payments from this fund shall be made in full on a scheduled basis, as provided by law."

The Constitution suggests: "the State, shall continue to hold back division now and then, provides approximately the same on a four cents per dollar tax..."

It specifies that "one-half cent (which amounts to one-eighth of four percent) shall be returned to local governments and that two cents (instead of one-half) shall be set aside for education.

The earmarking for highways, figured on current revenues, amounts to $200 million; that for schools to $100 million, and for cities, villages and townships $55 million.

Reversing its field, after earmarking in three areas, the convention then voted to do away with the so-called primary school interest fund.

Under the present Constitution taxes such as the inheritance tax, ad valorem taxes on railroads, telephone and telegraph companies and taxes on foreign insurance companies went into this fund, but the Legislature had been required to supplement it annually to meet additional needs in excess of earmarked money.

Despite abridgment of the fund, the taxes would continue. They yield an estimated $60 million a year.

A $250,000,000 suit jacket on state borrowing powers is unsupervised by the proposed new Constitution.

The new limit is "15 per cent of undedicated revenues received by the State during the preceding fiscal year," but whatever debt is incurred must be repaid within the same fiscal year the money is borrowed.

This short-term money could be borrowed by the Legislature for general operating purposes without a vote of the people, but for the State to issue bonds for specific purposes the Legislature first must get approval by a two-thirds vote of each house and then a majority of the people must approve in an election.

State football stars seemingly have changed and are heading in different directions after events last week.

Dean Look, All-America quarterback, appears to be heading for better things with his trade from the Buffalo Bills to the New York Titans of the American Football League.

"Look will be a great asset to the Titans," predicted club president Harry Wagner.

Meanwhile Bob Bercich, MIU's first and probably best defensive specialist, hurt a knee while practicing last week with the Dallas Cowboys at their Northern Michigan College camp.

Early reports said Bercich, who has been a regular with the National Football League team, may have sustained a slight injury. He was sent back to Dallas for examination and possible operation on the knee.

If the injury is as serious as it appears, it could end his football career.

Early this summer Look quit baseball in the White Sox chain and joined the Bills as a defensive back. Thence came the trade to the Titans Tuesday.

UFL Team Boasts Spartans

Fred Boylen, who lettered for three years at MSU, signed his contract July 28 with the Grand Rapids Blazers of the United Football League. Boylen led the Blazers to the top position in the UFL defensive statistics last season. He was also named to the all-UFL team.

The middle guard joined the Grand Rapids squad last year after being cut by the New York Titans of the American Football League. He was drafted by the Titans after he graduated from MSU.

Other ex-Spartans who now play on the Blazers’ squad are Bob Ricucci, Donald Cutler, Ike Grimsley, and Jim Myers.

Ricucci, who last played for the Spartans in 1959, was selected as the Old Timers’ most valuable player in last spring’s Alumni game.

Since his fine showing against the varsity last May, he has requested that the Blazers try him at the offensive halfback position instead of his regular defensive slot.

Grimsley, who plays a defensive back position for the Blazers, graduated from MSU in 1960 with Boylen.

Cutler lettered in 1952 as a sophomore and Myers was out for the team but failed to receive a letter.

Practice started for the Blazers July 30.

Foreign Classes

The best thing about the Institute is the fact that all classes are conducted in Spanish.

"I think the main idea is to become more familiar with the practical uses of another language. Before I attended the Institute, I could hardly put together a sentence in actual conversation. I am a great deal more sure of myself now, and I think this is due to the fact that we spoke Spanish all the time."

Miss Pleachers feels that she learned nearly a year of Spanish in the six-weeks period, the hopes to skip Spanish II at East Lansing high school and begin in Spanish III. Her one criticism of the Institute program is the fact that no formal credit transferable to high school courses is given.

"You learn so much during the course that it is waste to return to a regular class in the fall. For this reason, I think some credit should be offered," she argued.

Miss Rutherford also agreed that "six weeks is nearly equal to one year."

A former Institute student for two summers, Bob Buchanan of Okemos said that the "best result of the Institute was the encouragement to study."

Ohio State has compiled a 17-7 won-lost mark in post season NCAA basketball tournament play.
