Hannah To Visit Nigeria
Trip To Include Stop In Europe

President John F. Kennedy will host Follow for Nigeria to discuss future development of the University of Nigeria at Nsukka, with its university allies and governmental officials. Hannah has arranged a series of meetings during her 10-day stay in the new nation. The U.S. government is looking closely after Nigeria received its independence in 1960, as it is not being developed by the Nigerian government, in the cooperation of NAFTA. U.S. aid in the form of technical assistance, commercial assistance, and other forms of economic assistance is being considered. A member of the Judiciary will be among the group of leaders to meet the new government. Following the conference in Nsukka, Hannah will visit France and the United States before flying back to New York.

200 Iraqi Students
On Hunger Strike

The next day, the students in Baghdad began a hunger strike. The students demanded the release of the four students who were arrested during the protest on the previous day. The government refused to meet the demands of the students, and the strike continues to this day.

Campus Chest Receives
$700 Boost From Case

The Case Hall held its annual Poetry Reading Room completed. Poetry Reading Room was re-opened last week and is now open to all students. The Poetry Reading Room is located in the English department's second-floor hallway of Morrill Hall. Faculty located in the Poetry Reading Room are interested in poetry and are available to assist students in their work.

French Seek Role Of Arbiter

More than 1,000 French soldiers were deployed in the region, providing a buffer between France and the Soviet Union. The French government has been试探in the role of arbiter in the conflict, offering to mediate between the two sides.

England's Three Squares

Herbert Margret recently starred in the play "Three Squares." The play was directed by Mr. Woodard, and the cast included many prominent actors from the British stage. The play was performed at the Grand Rapids Civic Center, and the audience was thrilled by the performance.
Hypnotism--The Answer
For Future Problems?

A Kent State University professor has been so impressed by hypnosis that he plans to use it to improve student study habits.

About 10 per cent of all college students are unable to use their study habits, according to Professor Stanley Krippner, a research psychologist who completed a five-year hypnotism study.

Krippner said hypnotism also helped students on exams and strengthened their desire to study.
The professor said that some light trances could be induced for improvement to take place.

He said one example where a student was told while hypnotized
that he could ignore pressure from students and other pressures and give the telephone, radio and record player.

Within three weeks the student was spending several consecutive hours each night studying without the interruptions that had interfered with his homework in the past.

Krippner's findings could revolutionize future plans for Misgam students.

Can you picture a student hypnotized to improve his study habits? Or a student who doesn't notice temperature changes, so we can't use that as an excuse
when the power plant fails?

Other students of the future could be taught to think, or be strengthened mentally to outsmart their opponents.

For example, overly self-confident.
Regardless of what he is told, he will come along in years. As a young Cassius has carried out.

The 20-year-old boxer is the most interesting professional athlete along in years. As a 20-year-old boxer he has won all of his fights.

Impressive, indeed. But that's only part of the story.

What's even more amazing is that the Kentucky makes it a habit of predicting publicly the exact round in which he will knock out his opponent.

Young Cassius has carried out
his predictions 13 times in 14
fights including the fourth round knockout of Archie Moore.

He did it again two weeks ago when he told the press the day before the fight that he would put out Charles Fraley Powell in the third round.

Sure enough, along came the third round. Before the round ended, the referee was counting him out. It was on his back counting sheep.

Panama looking to see Clay.
They boo him because of his cockiness. But he doesn't break counting sheep.

If it is possible to save boxing,
Cassius Clay may do it.

Wolverines Nip Çagers In Frenzied Finale, 72-71

By JOHN VAN GEKON
Of The State News

Michigan and Michigan State have had more than a week exciting game in their long basketball season, the Wolverines outlasting the Demon Deacons in the last few minutes of action to win in the close-up, 72-71.

The game was played in the Palace of Auburn Hills with the Wolverines coming from the Civic Center in Livonia, to battle the Demon Deacons in the last few minutes of action to win in the close-up, 72-71.

The game was played in the Palace of Auburn Hills with the Wolverines coming from the Civic Center in Livonia, to battle the Demon Deacons for the championship of the state. The Demon Deacons, playing without two of their starters, were outmatched by the Wolverines in the first half, but rallied in the second half to make the game close.

In the last few minutes of action, the Wolverines took control of the game, scoring 12 points in the last two minutes to seal the victory. The Demon Deacons were able to score only four points in the last two minutes, but it was not enough to overcome the Wolverines' lead.

Doug Harner, the Demon Deacons' head coach, was not pleased with the game's outcome. "We had a great game, but we just couldn't close out the game," he said. "We were definitely the better team, but we just couldn't close out the game."

When

You

Talk?

It is not uncommon to hear people say things like: "There is no way he could have said that." Or "I know he didn't mean it that way." But what do we mean when we say this? Are we simply expressing our opinion about the person who said something, or are we making a statement about the way people talk? One possible explanation is that when we hear someone say something that we believe to be false, we may feel a sense of shock or surprise. This can lead us to make assumptions about the person's motives or character, even if those assumptions are not based on evidence. For example, if we hear someone say that they didn't mean it when they said something offensive, we may assume that they didn't really mean it at all. However, this is not always the case. People may say things that are offensive without intending to do so, or they may fail to understand the context in which those words were used. In either case, it is important to remember that our own feelings and reactions to what we hear do not provide conclusive evidence about the truth of what was said. Instead, we need to consider other factors such as the person's actions, their history of behavior, and the evidence available to us in order to form an accurate judgment about the situation.
