Reorganization Motion
Wins AUSG Support

Lengthy Debate Precedes
Crucial Congress Action

By CHARLES WELLS
Of The State News

A proposal to reorganization the Student Government Association (SGA) was introduced late yesterday afternoon, meeting the sharply increased opposition of several AUSG members. In his introduction, William R. Laflin '70, Director of Student Life and a member of the AUSG, announced that the proposal is backed by five members of the Radcliffe Government Association (RGAs) and would benefit the college by providing for more efficient handling of student problems. He added that the RGAs has already received the proposal and has agreed to support it.

The proposed motion would create a new SGA organization with a larger number of elected officers. The motion, however, has met with strong opposition from several members of the AUSG who claim that it would result in a loss of power for the college. They argue that the current SGA system is effective and that the proposed changes are unnecessary.

The motion was introduced by Robert F. Ross '72, who stated that the current system is cumbersome and that the new organization would improve efficiency. He added that the proposal was not presented to the AUSG before it was introduced to Congress.

The motion was referred to the Committee on Rules, which will be tasked with considering the proposal. The meeting adjourned before a decision was reached.

U.N. Confab Starts Today

4 Issues Await Delegates

Four major issues are expected to be discussed at the United Nations (UN) conference, which begins today. They are: (1) the issue of disarmament, (2) the issue of world peace, (3) the issue of Third World development, and (4) the issue of human rights.

At a meeting of the U.N. delegation yesterday, secretary of state Dean Rusk '36 announced that the conference would begin with a discussion of disarmament. He added that the United States expects to play a leading role in the conference.

As the conference opens, students from around the world are expected to arrive in New York to participate in the conference. They will be housed in a large hostel, which was provided by the United Nations.

No Excess Flu Cases Reported On Campus

Temporary flu cases reported at Harvard and Radcliffe have subsided, according to the Harvard and Radcliffe health services.

At Harvard, the health service has reported no new cases of flu for the past week. At Radcliffe, the health service has reported no new cases of flu since the beginning of the semester.

Students are advised to continue to wear masks and to avoid large gatherings.

New History Collection
At Museum

The Museum of Fine Arts has received a large collection of American paintings, including works by Winslow Homer and John Singer Sargent.

The collection, which includes over 100 works, was donated by the estate of a wealthy collector. It includes works by some of the most important American artists of the 19th and 20th centuries.

The Museum has planned a series of exhibitions to feature the new collection, beginning with a show of works by Winslow Homer.

Sydney Wants Single Room

Sydney, a student at Harvard, has requested a single room for the fall semester.

Sydney wrote to the dean of admissions, expressing her desire for a single room. She explained that she feels uncomfortable sharing a room with another student and that she prefers privacy.

The dean responded that the request would be discussed, but that there may be a wait before a decision is made.

Weather

The weather is expected to be cold and windy this weekend, with temperatures in the low 30s. Students are advised to dress warmly and to avoid prolonged exposure to the cold.

Students are also advised to be cautious of the changing weather patterns.

Happy Washington's Birthday

The nation celebrates the birthday of the first president of the United States on Thursday. Events are planned across the country to commemorate the occasion.

Washington's Birthday was established as a federal holiday in 1879.

Student Congress has given the go-ahead signal on a plan to for a Student Senate will be put before students March 7.

We're pleased that Congress approved the measure in one meeting. It was a long, hot session, but the proposal passed 43 to 6, without amendments.

We feel that the re-evaluation committee did an excellent job.
Jim Manske, AUSG President, initiated the committee last fall. It was the second commission of the three years charged with the task of reorganizing Student Congress, and the first one to come up with a concrete proposal. With the help of Tom Rae

Suggest Subsidies For Doctoral Candidates

University and doctoral candidates were suggested as a method of support. Although the number of candidates in any university is small, they usually are the ones that are sponsored.

The cost of maintaining a Ph.D. student is very high. Many universities are now turning to other methods of support, such as assistantships, teaching, and research fellowships.

"More funds needed to support doctoral work."

There are about 100 candidates in the University and about 200 candidates in the Engineering college. Each candidate needs about $2,000 per year to support his work. Some candidates are supported by fellowships and other grants, but the number is not sufficient for all.

The need is urgent, and funds must be secured to support the candidates adequately.

Last Friday more than three thousand fans crowded into the Big Ten Stadium for Michigan's game against the University of Illinois. The Illini, who had been the Big Ten champions in 1962, were defeated by Michigan, 34-7. This victory solidified Michigan's position at the top of the Big Ten Conference.

Basketball

Saturday's game between Michigan and Notre Dame was a close contest. The Spartans, however, came out on top with a 78-73 victory. This game was the first of the Big Ten tournament, which Michigan won, defeating Notre Dame in the final game.

Basketball (continued from page 4)

Michigan's Tom Dyer scored 20 points, leading the team to victory. The Spartans' John Schott also contributed significantly with 18 points. The game was a exciting one, with both teams playing at their best.

Schweitzer Probes Mind Of Christ

The period of a major prophet in the twentieth century is best described as his attempt to understand the essence of the spirit of Jesus.

Albert Schweitzer discovered that the essential nature of the spirit of Jesus is not found in the written words of the Bible. Instead, he found it in the inner, personal experience of Jesus himself. Schweitzer believed that the spirit of Jesus is not a set of rules or a series of dogmas, but a way of life that can be understood only through a direct experience of the divine. Schweitzer argued that the true message of Jesus is not found in the external events of his life, but in the inner, spiritual experience that he shared with his disciples.

Voice of the Prophet

In his book "The dogmatics of Jesus," Schweitzer examined the nature of the spirit of Jesus and the nature of the prophetic mission. He concluded that the essence of the spirit of Jesus is expressed in the moral and ethical teachings of Jesus, which are universal and timeless. Schweitzer argued that the message of Jesus is not limited to the historical circumstances of his life, but is relevant to all people and all times.
