Stay off the ice! was the warning given by University police after investigating ice conditions on the Red Cedar River Tuesday.

Two coeds have already gone through the ice near the Plum Lane bridge. The two students both broke through the ice near the Plum Lane bridge. "Now that the spring thaws are beginning, the ice is breaking up. Stay off the ice. Keep your pets always be seen," Bernitt said.

The water is quite deep above the dam, near the rear of Bessey Hall, and a person breaking through the ice could easily drown, he said.

Laurels For Math Team

Our mathematics team placed tenth in the nation in this year's Putnam Mathematical Competition.

This is the third year in a row the school has been in the top 10. Last year they gained the number one spot and the year before that the team placed fourth.

Squad members this year included: Bob Bartholomew, Grand Rapids senior; Robert E. Steven, Knoxville, Tenn., junior; and Stephen E. Matic Jr., Livonia freshman.

Coach Louis M. Keir was aided by Dr. Peet Merz of the math department.

The top 10 schools are among the highest quality institutions in the nation.

The math team and its coach deserve congratulations and praise from the Mat community.

Tomorrow in Warsaw, Poland began all the copy of a new edition of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," as a cultural gesture. However, when the copy was delivered, it was discovered that it didn't have anything to do with the play.

Library Boasts 15,000 Rare, Ancient Books

Over 15,000 very rare and ancient books are contained in the special book section of human science and history.

They say that books do come in bulk. Here are a few of the books that are available:

- "The Life of Shakespeare," by Francis Bacon
- "The Poems of Shakespeare," by Edward Colley

In addition to these books, there are many others available in the special section. It is recommended that you visit the library and take a look at the books available.

Pro's And Cons On Senate Plan

The plan for reorganization of Student Congress has been proposed by the students. They say that the present system is flawed, and that a new system is needed.

This new system would do away with the present system of electing senators, and would instead elect a new system of representatives.

The new system is to be made up of at least third-term freshmen with experience in living quarters, and dormitories would have only one representative should live in the dormitory.

The question of Student Congress reform has become a major issue for the student government. The student body is divided on the issue, and there is no clear consensus.

On Congress Reform

Barney Urges 'Yes' Vote

Editor's Note: All University Student Government Presidents were invited to write a letter to the editor on the subject of possible changes to the Senate. The following is a letter from Barney, the President of the State News in the two weeks following the passage of Bill 393.

I strongly affirm the reorganization plan. Those who are questioning the plan must realize that it is a logical step in the evolution of student government. The plan was passed in the Senate by a vote of 120 to 30, and it was passed again by the reduction of delegates.

The reason for this vote was that it isolated the students who were voting against the plan. It was passed by a vote of one person out of 100, than 15 per district, could enter the Senate due to a lack of delegates.

A smaller number of delegates, let us, the proponents of the plan, be the first to admit that the plan would destroy any semblance of representative government by making the representation a mere sham of democracy.

Wants 'No' Vote

To the Editor:

I disagree with the bill calling for the Senate to be reorganized. I urge a strong "no" vote.

This reorganization plan is extremely radical in that it is based upon the principle of efficient democracy that the way small groups represent the people is to have one person out of 100, than 15 per district, could enter the Senate due to a lack of delegates.

Furthermore, the student body has a right to expect the student government to function in a manner that is not only efficient, but also democratic.

We should be asking ourselves if this plan will do anything to improve the effectiveness of the student government.

Certainly this plan does not have all the answers — that is why we need a debate. The present system of electing senators is flawed, and there is no clear consensus.

Center Doyle Leaves Big Pair Of Skates

By GARY EDNERG

Y ou h ave, you can't help it, a couple pairs hanging on a sirk.

Securing the pair at the top of the jingle, theêd. Zephyr's coat, sitting on the floor, was a neat, precise shape. The pair hung on the wall of his room, the wall above the bed. They were the most important pairs he had, and he had been taking care of them for years. He never thought of them as merely a pair of skates; they were a part of his identity, a part of his story.

"They're not just skates," he said, sitting on the floor, looking at the pair. "They're a part of my life, a part of my history." He reached down and picked up a pair of skates, the one he had worn when he first learned to skate. "These are the ones I wore when I was a kid," he said, holding the pair in his hands. "They've been through a lot with me." He looked at the pair, remembering the places he had been with them, the memories they held.

The pair of skates was a symbol of his past, a reminder of the person he had been. He had worn them through the good times and the bad, and he had learned a lot from them. They had taught him perseverance, determination, and the importance of hard work.

"They're a part of who I am," he said, looking at the pair. "I'll always hold onto them, always keep them close by." He reached down and placed the pair back on the shelf, then stood up and walked out of the room, leaving the pair behind him. He knew they were safe, knew they were being taken care of. He knew they would always be there for him, always be a part of his story.

Neurosis May Lead To Success

"Somebody on the college campus and public notice may not be aware that personality may play a major role in that business world," said Dr. Stanley Hollander.

Dr. Hollander is professor of marketing at Michigan State University and chairman of the Psychology Department.

"If the manager does not know his employees, he cannot know his business," said Dr. Hollander.

"If a person has some kind of neurosis, then he is not in a mental state of being able to put his mind to work," Dr. Hollander said.

"There is no easy way to overcome neurosis," Dr. Hollander added.

"The only way to overcome neurosis is to take a long vacation," Dr. Hollander said.

"It is very important that you have a vacation," Dr. Hollander said.

"A vacation will give you the opportunity to relax and think about other things," Dr. Hollander said.

"The vacation will also give you the chance to see things from a different perspective," Dr. Hollander said.

"You will be able to see things differently when you are not in the same environment," Dr. Hollander said.

"You will be able to think about the problems you are having in your business when you are not in the same environment," Dr. Hollander said.
