President packs from Nigeria

President Akinjide, the Nigerian head of state, arrived here Monday for a three-day official visit to the United States. This is Mr. Akinjide's first trip to the United States.

Akinjide is expected to discuss with President Johnson the status of the two countries' relations. He is scheduled to meet with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger on Tuesday and then travel to New York, where he will meet with United Nations Secretary General U Thant.

Akinjide's visit comes at a time when Nigeria is facing political unrest, with protests and violence in the north and south of the country. The president has been criticized for his handling of the situation, and there are concerns about the impact of the unrest on the economy.

Akinjide is expected to hold discussions with other top officials, including Vice President Hubert Humphrey, about trade and investment opportunities between the two countries.

MSU Pays City Taxes For Property Services

The University of Michigan has agreed to pay the city of East Lansing $1,500,000 for the property on which the university's stadium is located. The agreement was reached as the city continues its efforts to secure the stadium's property tax exemption.

The stadium, located on University Avenue, was built in 1926 and is home to the Michigan State football team. The city has been seeking the property tax exemption for the stadium since 1969, when the University of Michigan first expressed interest in leasing the property.

This is the first time the university has agreed to pay property taxes for the stadium. The agreement is expected to provide a significant source of revenue for the city and help offset the cost of maintaining the stadium.

Strong House Backing Given Draft Extension

The Michigan State University Student Senate has unanimously passed a resolution supporting the extension of the military draft. The resolution was introduced by Senator John Smith, who said the extension is necessary to meet the demands of the Vietnam War.

The resolution calls on the university to provide support for students who are drafted, including counseling, job placement assistance, and financial aid. It also encourages students to consider alternatives to military service.

Flu-Rate Love On Campus

The Michigan State University Students' Health Center has reported a flu outbreak on campus, with more than 100 students currently sick with the flu. The center is urging students to take precautions, including getting a flu shot, practicing good hygiene, and staying home when sick.

The flu outbreak has prompted the university to increase its efforts to educate students about the importance of taking care of their health. The university has also provided additional resources for students who are sick, including a flu clinic and a phone line for students to call with questions.

Investigation Indicates Campaign Tactics Legal

A recent investigation by the Michigan State University Students' Senate has found that the university's candidates for student government did not violate any rules during the election campaign.

The investigation was conducted following the election of new student government officers in March. The candidates were accused of using tactics such as false advertising, misleading statements, and personal attacks.

The investigation found that while some candidates did engage in these tactics, they did not violate any university rules. The investigation also found that the university's election procedures and processes were effective in ensuring a fair and transparent election.

What's Ahead For AUSG?

The proposal to reorganize student Congress into a student senate was defeated by a substantial majority last Thursday. We feel -- and still feel -- that it was AUSG's best hope of becoming an effective organization which would work in the most efficient and representative manner to promote student interests.

AUSG leaders and others who backed the plan did not launch an extensive campaign to push it because they didn't expect much opposition. The opposition used completely legal means to prevent the name change. The name change was placed in student mailboxes was filled with truth-filled and false information about the proposal.

The opposition did have a valid point, however. Perhaps the measure was pushed through too fast, regardless of the time spent in formulating it. Student Congress and the student body as a whole needed more time to discuss and debate the plan.

The question now is what's next for Student Congress and AUSG.

Counseling Center Overflows

With Term-End Rush

By Ron Solave

The Counseling Center at Michigan State University is flooded weekly with over 500 students calling for an appointment with one of the counselors.

There is a problem in scheduling appointments. Many students are out of town during the holidays and are unable to come to campus with the available staff. This has resulted in lines of students waiting for appointments. The problem is one which must be corrected.

The Counseling Center is currently operating with a limited amount of staff and is not well-staffed this time of year.

As the University enrolls continues to grow, and the number of students increases, the need for counselors increases.

The current staff consists of six counselors and three graduate students.

In most cases a student may have to wait as long as two weeks to see a counselor.

The increased staff would be of considerable help to the Counseling Center.

Survey Shows Buying Habits Of Married Students

By Fred Levine

A Christmas survey of 40 married couples showed that marital buying habits were very similar to those of single individuals.

According to a monthly consumer research study conducted by the National Association of Retailers, a married couple's buying was only 10% lower than a single person's buying.

The survey showed expenditure of:

- $15 and $20: 20 to 30 years older
- $20 and $25: 40 and up
- Over $25: 60 and up

More than 70% of the married couples spent less than $50 in December.

In this issue, we will see the impact of being in the University. Michigan State University is a large campus with students from all over the world. Our goal is to provide a complete and accurate representation of events and student life on campus.

Letters To The Editor

Northern Michigan, Cures, Etc.

To the Editor:

I was interested in the amount of the State's purchases from Northern Michigan. Michigan's purchases are not large, but they are significant.

The program will alleviate the problem of surplus. As the program continues, more Northern Michigan students will be employed in the state.

The program will have a positive effect on the state economy.

C. W. Post College

In the summer of 1963, I worked with the summer school at C. W. Post College. I was able to enjoy the warm climate and the beautiful scenery.

The college had a beautiful campus with many trees and flowers. The library was especially impressive.

The program was well-organized and the faculty was very helpful.

I would like to return to C. W. Post College and continue my education.

Baseball, Golf Swing South For Spring

By STEPHEN J. BROWN

EDITORS NOTE: This is the last of a two part series on spring sports.

Sports' baseball team last year was a hit in and out of the park. The chance of this year's squad developing a great deal of new pitching and offensive power should help the team improve its record.

Henry W. Hamill, a freshman left hander from East Lansing High School, led the team to its peak immediately after the Easter break. "Their freshmen and sophomores may be a little bit slow, but they have something the seniors lack. They have a great deal of team spirit which is better than any record won by a team," said Coach Hamill.

The team has been working hard on their pitching and batting during the winter months. Their practice schedule includes several games per week against local high school teams.

The team's star pitcher, Bob McLean, has already thrown two no hitters and is expected to be the team's top Performer this season.

The team's chances of taking the Big Ten Title rest on the pitching staff. The team has a lot of depth behind the plate and is expected to be a strong contender for the conference title.

Chandler Introduces Legislation To Ban Detroit Lions TV Blackout

The Detroit Lions football "blackout" against Channel 7 programming will go in effect tomorrow, according to the owners of the Detroit Lions Football Club, Paul M. Chandler, W. Wayne Chandler, John Chandler, and Robert M. Chandler.

The club has been working with the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce to arrange for a time slot for the home games on Channel 11 instead of Channel 7.

The blackouts were first introduced by the Chrysler Corporation's Detroit plant in 1963 to prevent Channel 7 from broadcasting games.

The blackouts are expected to take place for the entire season and will continue to be enforced until a solution is reached that satisfies both parties.

Chandler said the legislation was introduced to prevent the local stations from charging excessively high rates for broadcasting games.

The legislation also aims to protect the local stations from losing revenue due to the blackouts.

The legislation was introduced in response to the blackouts which have been in effect for the past three years.

The legislation is expected to be passed within the next few weeks and will go into effect immediately upon its passage.

Illini, Bulldogs In Regionals Here

Doubleheader Winners Here For NCAA

The State News for Thursday, March 12, 1963

Long Range Grid Sked

Long-range plans were made for the Illinois vs. Mississippi State basketball game at 8 p.m. today at Jenison Fieldhouse. Illinois was 19-5 and the Bulldogs were 21-5.

Dave Downey led the Illinois starting five with 37 points on 12-of-21 shooting. The Illinois starters were Bob Brown, center; and Brad and Birdie at the guards.

All are seniors with the exception of Dennis, a sophomore. The probable starting lineup is Birdie, Brown, Downey at the guards; Burwell, center, and Small and Brody at the center.

In one of the most interesting games of the regional, the defending national champion is meeting with the national runners-up. Illinois was this year's defending national champions and Mississippi State is one of the most interesting games of the regional. Illinois has been a dominating force in the tourney coming in with a 19-5 record. Mississippi State is one of the country's outstanding rebounders. Burwell is no slouch in that department, himself, better than 200 rebounds.

The other starters are seniors with the exception of Brody, a sophomore. The probable starting lineup is Downey, starting forward; Starnes, forwards, and Burwell, center and Small and Brody at the guards.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB'S ACTIVITIES FAR-RANGING

By JUDI PORTER

The International Club, under the presidency of Dr. John A. Hannah, President, and Dr. Marshall Paradise, Vice President, has been very active this spring. The club has been working on various projects, ranging from cultural exchange to community service.

One of the main events this spring was the International Food Festival held in collaboration with the International Center. This festival was a wonderful opportunity for students to experience the diverse cultures represented on campus. Each club displayed a booth showcasing traditional foods and activities from their respective countries. The festival was a great success and drew a large crowd.

In addition to the festival, the International Club has also been involved in various community service projects. They have worked closely with the Lansing community to provide aid and support to those in need. These efforts have not only strengthened the bond between the university and the community but also provided valuable learning experiences for the students.

The club's activities are not limited to East Lansing. They have also been involved in international projects, including a trip to India to assist with educational development. This trip was funded by a grant from the University of Michigan and provided a unique opportunity for the students to gain a deeper understanding of the culture and language.

The International Club has also been active in promoting the study of foreign languages. They have organized a series of lectures and workshops on various languages, including Spanish, French, and Arabic. These sessions have been well-received and have helped to increase interest in foreign language studies on campus.

In conclusion, the International Club is making a significant impact on the East Lansing community and beyond. Their dedicated efforts demonstrate the importance of cultural exchange and community service, and their projects serve as a model for other clubs and organizations to follow.

International Food Festival

The festival was held on March 23rd and featured a variety of dishes from different countries. Students were able to taste and learn about the unique flavors and traditions of each culture. The festival was a great success, drawing a large crowd and generating a lot of enthusiasm for cultural exchange.

International Club's Projects

In addition to the festival, the International Club has been involved in various service projects. They have worked with local organizations to provide assistance to those in need. These efforts have not only benefited the community but also provided valuable learning experiences for the students.

International Club's Grant

The club has recently received a grant from the University of Michigan to support their international projects. This grant has allowed the club to expand their activities and make a greater impact in the community.

Future Plans

The International Club has ambitious plans for the future. They are looking to expand their cultural exchange programs and increase their community service efforts. They are also planning to organize more international trips and events, providing students with unique opportunities to learn and grow.

In conclusion, the International Club is a dynamic and active organization that is making a significant impact on the East Lansing community and beyond. Their dedication to cultural exchange and community service is truly inspiring, and their efforts serve as a model for other clubs and organizations to follow.

Each Country Has Own Ballet Style

By LESLEY KLEIN
Of The Iowa News

Each has its home, and each has a history that tells us something about the country. The ballet is an art form that developed in the 18th century and became a national symbol in Russia during the reign of Catherine the Great.

In Paris, the Ballet National Marie Antoinette, which makes its debut this season, is a star attraction. The company features both male and female dancers, who perform a variety of classical ballet pieces as well as contemporary works. The company's repertoire includes dances from all over the world, including Russia, Spain, and the United States.

The Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo is one of the most famous ballet companies in the world. It was founded in 1933 by Russian émigré choreographer George Balanchine and ballet dancer Anna Pavlova. The company has been touring internationally since its inception, and continues to perform around the globe today.

In Russia, the Bolshoi Ballet is the world's most famous ballet company. The company was founded in 1776 and has been touring internationally since 1932. The Bolshoi Ballet is known for its classical repertoire, including works by Petipa, Samsonov, and Tchaikovsky.

In Japan, the Nihon Buyo (Japanese traditional dance) is an ancient art form that dates back to the 6th century. The Nihon Buyo is performed by both men and women, and features intricate footwork, expressive gestures, and beautiful costumes.

In India, the Kathak is a classical dance form that originated in the courts of Northern India. The Kathak is known for its fluidity of movement and expressiveness.

In China, the Hanfu is a traditional dance form that is performed in ancient Chinese clothing. The Hanfu dance is characterized by its graceful and fluid movements.

In Italy, the Sardanapalo is a traditional dance form that is performed in the Sardinian region. The Sardanapalo is known for its fast, energetic movements and use of the body to express emotions.

In South America, the tango is a popular dance form that originated in Argentina in the early 20th century. The tango is a social dance that is performed in pairs and features a blend of European and African musical influences.

In Africa, the Batuka is a traditional dance form that is performed in the Democratic Republic of Congo. The Batuka is known for its use of percussion instruments and footwork.

In Australia, the Feather Dance is a traditional dance form that is performed by Indigenous Australian communities. The Feather Dance is a cultural expression of connection to the land and ancestors.

In Mexico, the Charro is a traditional dance form that is performed by people who are descended from Spanish and Native American ancestors. The Charro is characterized by its use of bullfighting and riding skills.

In the United States, the African American dance form, which originated in the minstrel shows of the 19th century, is a celebration of African culture and pride.

In Canada, the Métis jig is a traditional dance form that is performed by Indigenous Métis communities. The Métis jig is a social dance that features a blend of European and Indigenous influences.

In Ireland, the Jig is a traditional dance form that is performed by people who are descended from Irish ancestors. The Jig is characterized by its use of footwork and rhythm.

In the Middle East, the Sufi dance is a devotional dance form that is performed by Sufi practitioners. The Sufi dance is characterized by its use of meditation and movement as a means of spiritual expression.

In Southeast Asia, the Khmer Apsara is a traditional dance form that is performed by women in Cambodia. The Khmer Apsara is known for its use of grace and elegance.

In the Caribbean, the Calypso is a traditional dance form that is performed in the Caribbean Islands. The Calypso is characterized by its use of percussion instruments and rhythm.

European Vacations Needn't Be Expensive

A European summer vacation need not be an out-of-reach dream for many Michigan State State students this summer. The exchange rate the French franc to the dollar is so poor that tourists should not compute the cost of a European vacation on a French franc basis.

Tours and trips planned for Europe this summer will be done on a French franc budget. "This is possible because of the low French franc exchange rate," said weekly travel guide Fred Brown at the State University Union Building.

"If you want to travel on a French franc budget, you must buy everything in French francs," said Brown. "If you buy a French franc ticket to France, you must buy a French franc car and French franc hotel rooms. This is the only way you can travel on a French franc budget."

A trip to Europe this summer will cost tourists about $100 per day if they travel on a French franc basis. "This is because the French franc is so weak," said Brown. "If you travel on a French franc budget, you will spend about $100 per day."
