Gridders Impressive In 31-0 Victory

Unbridled Performers Show Much Poise

Over 60,000 watched MSU open its 1963 football season at Spartan Stadium Saturday. All but a few dozen went home thinking it had been a very pleasant afternoon.

The Spartans' 31-0 victory wasavored by everyone but the North Carolina Tar Heels who had expected helplessly while coach Duffy Daugherty's squad picked apart their defense piece by piece and never gave the offense a chance to operate inside the MSU 28-yard-line.

Their long, lonely ride from the sunny South to the chilly, overcast confines of Spartan Stadium merely resulted in a tepidly cold reception by the MSU fans who witnessed a 28-0 defeat.

The Spartans were, however, highly pleased with the performance of their young backfield.

Motel Dwellers Move In

Students begins moving into their new accommodations during the weekend, after unexpected stays at East Lansing home brought the occupancy to the limit of the rentals.

Two rooms were reported to be occupied by students who had been working for their new rooms to be completed at the River's Edge and Cedar Village were able to move in Saturday and Sunday.

"We expect that the rest of them can have it between Wednesday and Friday," said. "At the beginning of the term, both Housing and Student Affairs Department were prepared to house as many as 312 people."
Rights Commission Threatened

The future of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission is in jeopardy unless legislation is passed extending its life.

The six-year-old commission, of which President John F. Kennedy is chairman, expires today. However, there is a one-year period provided for the group to complete its affairs.

The commission was established by Congress in 1957 and extended for one year in 1961. It has continued to operate on a temporary basis.

There is a possibility that the commission's life will be extended, but Congress has not acted.

The commission has been involved in a number of high-profile civil rights cases, including the desegregation of schools and the voting rights of African Americans.

Attorney General Robert Kennedy, the president's brother, has indicated that the commission's work is important and that it should be continued.

However, some members of Congress have expressed concern that the commission is not doing enough to combat discrimination.

The commission's effectiveness has been questioned in recent months, and some members have called for its abolition.

The fate of the commission will be decided in the next few days, but it appears unlikely that legislation will be passed in time for the commission to continue its work.

Senate Aligns for Peace

The United States Senate is supporting ratification of the limited test-ban treaty, aligned itself with the international majority.

But the Senate was not the only body in which there was a sense of urgency.

The House of Representatives, which had been divided on the issue, was also considering the treaty.

The treaty was expected to be voted on later in the day.

The limited test-ban treaty is designed to limit further nuclear testing and is seen as an important step in the search for a nuclear freeze.

The treaty was signed by 58 states, including the United States, and is expected to be ratified by the Senate today.

The treaty is a significant development in the search for a nuclear freeze and is seen as an important step in the disarmament process.

Sparks Aim for California

It's "California Here We Come!" for the Illinois State News and for a change the thought is not of "froze!" but simply of wining.

Saturday's victory was a big one for Coach Daugherty and the team, despite the loss of three All-Americans, showed a lot of improvement in some important areas.

A day at quarterback, Lopes at fullback, and Boleen at outside left, were main kick, showed the kind of strength in the "middle" that it takes to win in close ball games.

Friday the Spartans are going to need much the same thing, in abundance, Southern California is a powerhouse and will be coming from a hard fought loss to Ohio State.

The immediate effect of the treaty will be to limit further testing, and is seen as an important step in the search for a nuclear freeze.

The treaty was signed by 58 states, including the United States, and is expected to be ratified by the Senate today.

The treaty is a significant development in the search for a nuclear freeze and is seen as an important step in the disarmament process.

For California Lohama, they will be looking forward to the spring break, as they load their team onto their number one rating in college football.

Between their dream and the reality of the Western football team, what say the Spartans are going to have on the court depends on what kind of an effort they put out.

It goes this way: we don't show them a lot more than a lackluster attitude. Beloved by All-Americans ratings and by headliners, we put on a show that gives that "Duffy" his biggest thrill of the year.

This gives us a score to settle and the "fighting fourteen" will be looking for a springboard back to their number one rating in college football.

Politics and Poker

AUSG Loyalty or Cooperation

By Jack Shee

The political situation in the United States is such that the American University Student Government (AUSG) is in a difficult position.

The government is calling for increased allegiance to the United States, and the students are being asked to support the government's policies.

This situation has led to a controversy within AUSG, with some members calling for loyalty to the United States, while others are calling for cooperation with the government.

Student Visits East Berlin

By Jackie Korma

Time News, Stett Writer

Historic scenes and the stirrings behind the invisible Berlin Wall helped make a European summer vacation memorable.

The visit to East Berlin was a highlight of the trip for many students.

Letters to The Editor

On AUSG

In another article in the Student Union, the Editors asked students to consider the political implications of joining AUSG.

"The AUSG is an organization that is not only political but also social. It is a place where students can come together to discuss important issues and take action."

The Editors wanted students to consider the political implications of joining AUSG, and to think about the role of AUSG in the political landscape.

According to the Editors, AUSG is an important organization that has a significant impact on the university community.

Rally Wins Opener

Booters Nip Earlham

Richardson, Ind.—Rallying in a windswept finish, Indiana State's football team rallied late in the fourth quarter of Saturday's opener to beat Earlham College, 3-1.

With only two minutes remaining in the game, the Bobcats finally tied the score. Earlham had already responded to a missed extra point attempt by Rally.

But Rally came back to win the game on a touchdown pass in the fourth quarter.

The Dean You May Be Your Own

Colleges are complicated and bewildering places. With the complexities of the academic world and the personal demands of life, it can be hard to navigate the waters of higher education. But one thing is certain: the dean of students is there to help.

The dean of students is the person who oversees the academic and personal well-being of students. They are responsible for ensuring that students have the resources they need to succeed and that they are treated with respect and dignity.

The dean of students is also responsible for ensuring that the academic community is a safe and welcoming place for all students.

But what does a dean of students actually do? What does it take to be a dean of students? And how can you become a dean of students yourself?

In this article, we'll explore the role of the dean of students and what it takes to be successful in this position. We'll also discuss the challenges faced by deans of students and how they are working to overcome them.

We'll start by examining the day-to-day responsibilities of a dean of students. We'll look at the various tasks that a dean of students must perform and how they work to make the college environment a safe and welcoming place for all students.

We'll then discuss the challenges faced by deans of students. We'll look at the various obstacles that deans of students must overcome to do their jobs effectively and how they are working to overcome them.

Finally, we'll explore the future of the dean of students role. We'll look at how this role is changing and how deans of students are adapting to meet the needs of today's students.

We hope you enjoy this article and learn more about the role of the dean of students. If you have any questions or comments, please feel free to reach out to us.

Elephant Carcass Creates Problem

By JOHN VAN GIESON

The State News Staff Writer

No, that's not the latest elephant joke. It's the plight of the department of veterinary pathology found itself in Friday.

The elephant, a mere baby, in truth it weighed at 2,000 pounds, was the inner of Lansing's 'Great Elephant Hunt.' Thursday night after it wandered a shallow corner of the city's north side leaving behind evidence of damage and destruction.

Friday finally convinced the beast killed by 'tawny three dozen shots fire.'

But, for the problem became one of what to do with the huge corpse. University authorities at hand to dispose elephant's skeleton, was called in for advice. Lansing's 'Great Elephant Hunt.'

The men of veterinary pathology found itself in Friday.

The corpse. Surely a university as large and diverse as MSU must have big, flat feet?

The Museum, noted in recent months for something elephant's skeleton, was called in for advice. Lansing's 'Great Elephant Hunt.'

What would we do with such a beast?

But that turned out the elephant was wanted by some. Phils of veterinary pathology was excited by some, the Department of Veterinary Pathology.

"This is an unexpected opportunity for our people, and we're glad to take advantage of it," said Kenneth Keating, director of the museum. "This is one of those rare opportunities for us, to do something that's not easy to do, something that's not easy to do, something that's not easy to do."
Student counselors at the Counseling Center have drawn up appointments to avoid the rush which some students may face during the counseling process. The Counseling Center, located in the Engineering Building, is staffed by 17 counselors. Students who need help in planning their course load or discussing career plans are encouraged to make appointments with the counselors. The Counseling Center is open from Monday to Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
