AUSG: Winter Of Discontent?

In the wake of Rather Hall's withdrawal from all University Student Government, an appraisal should be forthcoming from President Bob Kerr. But apparently this is not to be the case.

The present administration's reaction to Rather's pull-out is simple and straight to the point, and that's the problem. It's too simple and to the wrong point. If they think that the withdrawal of one representative is going to solve their dilemma, they underestimate the discontent that brews in a number of their congressmen. It has been aptly summed up by the President of Bryan Hall: "...students are dissatisfied and concerned enough to reach a resolution of action." Kerr and the B.A.P.'s private organization of AUSG, the same sentiment is expressed by the representative from Rather Hall: "...members of the old B.A.P. are not interested in another mass of demands to be a number of their congressmen."

Bob Kerr needs to conduct an internal reevaluation of his administration. The best time for this is not the time of the abandonment of AUSG, as evidenced by letters of resignation from the halls of Rather and Bryan Halls. But unless well-intentioned representatives feel they can make that their government student is more than just a B.A.P. It was during this period when I was a member of the B.A.P. The B.A.P. was the original successor to the C.A.P. students and they have been working to reduce the demands of the students to a minimum. The present administration's decision to fulfill the demands of the students is more than just a B.A.P. It requires more than just a B.A.P. It requires a careful evaluation of their own version of the winter of discontent.

Letters to the Editor

The move, initiated by President John A. Harner and joined by Athletic Director Clarence Fuzak, Hall: "...students are dissatisfied and concerned enough to reach a resolution of action." Atmosphere Of Home Makes Grill Popular

This is the first in a three-part series on the Union Grill.

By LINDA MILLER
State News Staff Writer

With the end of a long winter and the arrival of spring, Michigan State University's Union Grill has become the hub of campus social life. The popular grill is not only a place to eat, but also a place to meet and unwind. The casual atmosphere and friendly staff make it a favorite among students.

The grill is open from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Sundays. During the week, the grill is usually packed with students, faculty, and staff enjoying a meal or a quick snack.

One student, who wished to remain anonymous, said, "I come here almost every day. It's a great place to study and catch up with friends." Another student, who also wished to remain anonymous, said, "I love the grilled cheese sandwich. It's the best!"

The grill offers a variety of menu items, including sandwiches, burgers, fries, and salads. They also have a selection of drinks, including coffee, soda, and milk shakes.

The atmosphere at the grill is relaxed and casual. The staff is friendly and helpful, and the clientele is diverse. Whether you're a student, faculty member, or visitor, you're sure to feel at home at the Union Grill.

Sandy Johnson, a server at the grill, said, "I love seeing all the familiar faces. It's a great way to stay connected to the community.

Although the grill is a popular spot, it's important to remember that it's a shared space. We all need to respect the rules and be considerate of others. For example, the no smoking policy is important to ensure a clean and pleasant environment for everyone.

One recent change at the grill is the addition of new seating options. The grill has recently added some comfortable chairs and couches, making it an even more inviting place to relax.

Overall, the Union Grill is a great spot for a quick meal or a casual catch-up. Its welcoming atmosphere and friendly staff make it a staple of campus life.
