7 Fail To Comply With Audit Rules

Report Excludes MSU, Wayne, Michigan

From Our News Services

Inaccuracies in audit procedures, accounting methods and noncompliance with state laws and rules with regard to handling appropriated funds were noted Wednesday in Auditor General Billie S. Farnum’s audit report on Michigan universities and colleges.

Furnam’s audit required the universities and colleges to undergo an annual audit in accordance with state laws and rules. The report covered Central Michigan University, Michigan State University, Michigan Technological University, Michigan University of Detroit, Wayne State University, Michigan State University of River Rouge, Michigan Technological University, Northern Michigan University, Fisk State College and Michigan Technological University.

The report contained a list of deficiencies that were found at each institution. The deficiencies included accounting errors, mismanagement of funds and failure to follow state laws and rules.

Michigan State University, University of Michigan and Wayne State University were among the institutions that were found to have deficiencies. The deficiencies included accounting errors, mismanagement of funds and failure to follow state laws and rules.

Michigan Technological University was also found to have deficiencies. The deficiencies included accounting errors, mismanagement of funds and failure to follow state laws and rules.

The report also contained recommendations for correcting the deficiencies. The recommendations included improving accounting practices, increasing transparency and developing internal controls.

The report was submitted to the Michigan Board of Regents for review and approval. The board will then determine the next steps to be taken in addressing the deficiencies.
J ust To Stay Awake

It doesn't seem to matter that they can cause a dependency verging on genuine addiction, or hallucinations, or latent psychoses. No, to many students seeking 'knowledge and truth' such facts are irrelevant. No, no, not the squirming intensities and desolation mounts, the benedire and deceiving pills. It makes their appearance and lights will whisper the dreams.

But, maybe this should be expected, for isn't it lack of foresight which is truly the problem? the frenzied craving of the drug users? Isn't it a lack of foresight which forgets the truly artificial nature of drug-induced alertness, an effect that can wear off with unexploited swiftness with potentially disastrous results?

The drug users forget all this. And besides and drug-ridden prevent the normal fatigue process. Forcing the body to overwork, the drug users make themselves to the tax bill. They use them to raise the economy broom with their eyes set on next year's tax and wield it until after the budget is received.

Such drugs have their proper use—a doctor's superpower. Ineffectually treating the panic-stricken patients remains a poor substitute for proscriptions.

Trial Demands Restraint

The trial of Jack Ruby's should be neither broadcast nor televised and it is to be hoped that the Texas judge with whom the decision rests will rule in that sense. The question arises because the accused lawyer has indicated that he would not object to the televising of the court proceedings.

Canon 36 of the Codes of Judicial Ethics of the American Bar Association reads in part: 'The broadcasting or televising of court proceedings are calculated to create an illusion of democratical integrity of the proceedings, the witness in giving his testimony, the process, and also the concern create misconceptions with respect thereto in the mind of the public and should be refused.'

Canon 35 has the force only of recommendation, not of law, in many states, including Texas. Whether to accept or reject the recommendation in Ruby's case will therefore be up to the Texas judge before whom he will appear.

In a free country, of course, justice must be seen to be done. It will be difficult enough to give Ruby a fair trial under any circumstances, in view of the uncertainties regarding his mental condition, community and national emotions, and many other factors.

But above all, it is the deep emotion and concern to be excited by this case that should be cause for concern. If sound and picture extended from the court back out across the land, they could threaten the national will to heal the recriminations so manifest in the aftermath of the tragedy.

CBS Tries For Tax Cut

Sixth President Johnson is in the news as early as January, with the day fixed at a little less than one year after his Inauguration. The end of Johnson's second year means the end of the period in which Congress makes major decisions affecting the economic policies of the Administration. While Congresswomen demands, each of the decisions of the Administration, it is the only time that the Congresswomen demands again an opportunity to demonstrate the special expertise that is the result of years of study and experience.

Nevertheless, it would be a mistake to think that if Congresswomen demands again an opportunity to demonstrate the special expertise that is the result of years of study and experience, it is the only time that the Congresswomen demands again an opportunity to demonstrate the special expertise that is the result of years of study and experience.

President Johnson has proposed a $3.5 billion tax cut which is designed to stimulate the economy. The President has emphasized the need for tax cuts, but has also been sensitive to the need for tax cuts that will be sustainable in the long run.

LBJ's tax cut is a major policy decision that will have significant impact on the economy. The tax cut is expected to boost economic growth and create jobs, but it will also add to the federal budget deficit.

MSU Misrepresented

To the Editor:

I was reading an article in the MSU News about the university's recent budget cuts and I was appalled by the misinformation presented.

The article stated that the budget cuts were necessary due to a decrease in enrollment. However, the actual reason was a decrease in state funding for higher education.

I believe that it is important for the university community to be aware of the true cause of the budget cuts in order to better understand the impact on the university.

Sincerely,

Columnist Notes Trials Of Trade

By HAL BOTE

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—In a three-hour debate over how to roll back a long-stalled trade bill that has become the symbol of what Mr. Johnson would like to see happen in Washington, the Senate voted 49-43 early today to kill a proposed $2.2 billion trade cut, 3 votes short of the 60 needed for passage.

The vote came after a five-hour debate that ended with a series of amendments, including one proposed by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., that would have prohibited the trade cut from being used to cut back on farm programs.

The trade bill, which was introduced by Sens. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and William Proxmire, D-Wis., would have cut back on farm programs as a way to raise revenue for the trade cut.

The vote on the amendment ended with a mix of support for the trade cut and opposition to the farm programs.

Deprived Youths Tour MSU

Twenty-five youths from the Detroit Special Education Vocational Rehabilitation Project toured the MSU campus Wednesday, through the planning of Mr. Barth, social group worker for the project. Said one student: "I thought, I am able to get along in society, I am able to understand the people around me." Mr. Barth said, "They try to make our students realize how we work for money. They live only from moment to moment, we try to make them look further ahead, to realize how we can accomplish something with the money." Barth said.

"Actually, we try to disturb a bit. Our home environment gives us the impression of the responsibilities of life. It is hard to live as a normal child. We try to help answer a question. We try to make our students realize how we work for money. They live only from moment to moment, we try to make them look further ahead, to realize how we can accomplish something with the money." Barth said.

Pope Gives Bishop More Authority

The Vatican City PPI - Pope Paul VI, who visited Jerusalem and opened the Catholic Church’s greatest religious revival in almost 1,700 years, also recharted the path to Christian unity by opening a new era of modern church reform.

In the path to Christian unity which was charted by Pope John XXIII, Pope Paul VI is to assume a greater share in church government. This is the first by a reigning pontiff. The move was followed by a personal pilgrimage sometime next month to the Holy Land - a pilgrimage which was a big jump from the acceptance of Christian unity by the three steps were strides made to clericalize the liturgy. The move was followed by a personal pilgrimage sometime next month to the Holy Land - a pilgrimage which was a big jump from the acceptance of Christian unity by the Church’s reforming leaders in the third century A.D.

Pope Paul’s appeal to the bishops to clarify their role in church government put him on the side of progressive prelates advocating such a review in the light of Christian unity.

New Course Aids Writers

Three sessions will discuss problems relating to the creative writing system here Monday.

Speaking at his seminar in the Union at 4 p.m. will be Dr. John Rohman, assistant professor of physiology and anatomy, neurophysiology at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, and members of the institute of biology, University of Michigan. The seminar will be tailored towards the "real badness of writing" and" tactics" of student writing.

By the time a student has written a composition, Rohman has designed a method to help teachers show average and poor writers "how to do consciously what the good writers do," he says, "we have addressed where he most needs it."

"The really serious job of overt composition, put in words, he wants more emphasis placed on "stale perspective," or virtual non-existence in the drafter's mind. Students are asked to write
