Editors Note: Mental health and the university student is a relatively unpublicized area. According to the recent survey of 600 colleges, about 15 per cent of their students are seeking counseling of some kind for mental disturbances and that about 30 per cent ought to seek such mental treatment. The search for personal identity, the struggle for some standards, and the great change wrought by the competition is stiff. There is no cure for the problems of the university student who is troubled. The problem is usually a matter of a psychological nature: the desire to escape and the feeling from all the pressure out of registering and the strong drive to be graduated. But Friday and Saturday nights may turn into a nightmare. The competition is stiff. Few feel that they can let a weekend slip by without cracking a book. Therefore, Saturday and Sunday become no more than a two days of rest. The only hope the administration's policies can say is "bravo."

Michigan Democrats Oppose Fee Increase

The Democratic party in Michigan has gone on record as opposed to any new fees that might be imposed on the state's educational institutions. This move was made by the party's executive committee, which has a substantial following in the state legislature and among the Democratic electorate.

The move is seen as a response to the recent push for increased tuition fees at Michigan State University, where the administration has proposed a $400 million bond issue to finance construction projects. The party has expressed concern that this could lead to higher costs for students and has called for a more equitable distribution of the financial burden.

The party's statement reads, "Michigan Democrats are opposed to any fee increases that would place an undue financial burden on students and their families. We believe that higher education should be accessible to all who are willing and able to attend, and that the cost of education should be borne by the state and our taxpayers, not just by the students themselves."
Placements Bureau Reports

Grads To Enjoy Salary Rise

Shingleton, director of the Placement Bureau, said that graduates will command the greatest increases in starting salaries, with employers needing about 15 per cent more new employees this year than last year. The average starting salary for a mechanical engineer will be about $600, a chemical engineer will make $564 instead of $544 last year, and an electrical engineer will make $630 instead of $613. The average 1964 MSU graduate will have had starting salaries of $524 last year, with an expected 6 to 7 per cent increase this year, according to the Placement Bureau.

Science and arts graduates, per cent, will earn a starting salary 2 to 3 per cent higher than their counterparts, according to the report. "No Love for Johnnie," a British political drama, will be shown Friday at 7 and 9 p.m. as part of The Foreign Film Series.

Political Drama On At Fairchild

"Political Drama On At Fairchild" are the words of director William H. Brown of the Episcopal Students' Union Post Office, which stages them every year. The current play is about a charming young Parliament member who died in a New Year's Day fire, Lansing police report. Donald K. Bowerman, 58 year-old electrical lineman, was killed when his clothing apparently caught fire from the burner of a gas stove, investigators said. He was found in a room of the "license plate procrastinators" are at it again.

Governor Romney's recommendation that the effect of traffic congestion on the area is of the Federal Highway Administration has been accepted by the Republican National Committee. The Democratic National Committee has already made this recommendation. The Northern Illinois University also has made this recommendation.

In dollars and cents, the percentage increase means $15-$20 on his first job. Thus, the overall increase in salaries will benefit graduates in technical areas. Starting salaries for graduates in the College of Business will increase $10-$20, while those in the College of Communications arts and letters will increase about two percent.

Hoopsters 7-4; Even In League Play

By DUANE LAMBERT
State News Sports Writer
At one of the hottest starts in recent years, the Michigan State basketball team took a 7-4 league record into its next Big Ten game last Sunday night in East Lansing. The Spartans toppled the University of Michigan, 98-75, to capture a consolation hon­ors. With the win, Michigan State moved to the top twenty are: Kansas State, Purdue, Cincinnati, Duke and Villanova. An­other Big Ten team, Michigan in 1959.

The Spartans took the lead at halftime with 50-44 on the strength of a great defensive effort by the Michigan State hockey team. The ice men won 3-1 and 5-3 over the weekend, meeting Minnesota and Michigan. Taking place at the Jen­sen Field House.

One-half hour per team has been set aside for this coming week. Call the Office at 6-3900 for reservations. League entries for all basketball leagues. Of­fering the best teams in college hockey.

The Michigan State hockey team completed a 6-0 record during the winter season, the last of the top ten teams. Michigan State topped the nation.
Bodies, State should have a bumper crop of women competing on the intercollegiate level running, diving and skating all over the IM buildings this term. There are seven teams and 11 individual events listed by the Men’s IM department for the winter term, plus a pair of team events and a quartet of all-university individual championships on the female side. Eleven basketball courts spread over six gyms give the fraternities an opportunity to compete. Runners, divers and dancers all over the IM events listed by the Men’s IM department for the winter term, plus a pair of team events, but over 2600 are expected to turn out. This term, his “why MSU is great” trophy case. A highly developed intramural program is one of those intangible trophies that Athletic Director “Biggie” Munn likes to include in his “why MSU is great” trophy case. Munn, Intramural Chairman Frank Beaman and Women’s IM Chairman Carol Harding have established a program that probably isn’t equal anywhere. But this trio, and all those working on the “IM” setup, aren’t satisfied. They’d like to have more participants and more sports, although play space is short as plentiful as parking spaces during a football weekend. Such dissatisfaction probably built up the IM program to where it is today. In intramural competition, unlike varsity sports, there is always room for one more. Too few students realize the scope of the program. That may be hard to believe when “Intramural News” appears daily in this paper, but when you waste your time reading this column there just isn’t time for the rest of the page. So put down that cup of Union Grill coffee. Take a walk over to one of the IM buildings—preferably the one where you can use the locker room without too much embarrassment—and build up your mind, as well as your body.

There’s a rumor that intramurals may even help your grades. And after last term’s marks we’re one of those who’ll try anything this time.

Michigan Likely Site For Space Center

Michigan has a good chance of getting a new space research center located to be built by the National Space Agency (NASA). George E. Romney, Michigan's governor, said Thursday that Michigan's university-industrial complex and the university's technical expertise make the state a strong contender for the space center.

"Michigan is on the shortlist," Romney said. "But we have a long way to go."

Romney added that Michigan's university-industrial complex, consisting of Michigan State University, Michigan Technological University, and the University of Michigan, "can produce people who can make contributions to the space program." He noted that Michigan has a number of scientists and engineers who have worked on NASA projects.

Romney also mentioned that Michigan has a strong industrial base, with over 100,000 manufacturing jobs, and a large number of technical professionals.

"Michigan has a long history of space exploration," Romney said. "We have been involved in the space program since the beginning, and we have a strong track record of success."

U.S. No. 1 Michigan, Crispy Fresh, Hand Picked
Chairman Warren M. Huff, Plymouth, is a member of the Citizens' Committee on Higher Education mailed to the campus. The committee reiterates its support for the new academic year.

An account was given of the new academic year's requirements, including an increase of $48 million for the next academic year was made Tuesday, in a report of the Committee for Public Higher Education, points to a "tidal wave of new students that calls for at least $48 million in construction each year for the next several years."

Huff, speaking for the committee, said that the costs of higher education are increasing at an alarming rate, due to inflation and rising costs of living. The committee is concerned about the impact of these costs on students and their families and is urging the state to increase funding for higher education.

The increase, which would bring the total cost of higher education to $198 million, is proposed to cover the costs of construction and renovation of existing facilities, as well as the additional costs of providing new facilities for the growing student population. The committee noted that the state's share of the costs has decreased over the years, while the costs of higher education have increased significantly.

The committee has recommended that the state increase its funding for higher education to $48 million per year, in order to meet the needs of the growing student population and to maintain the quality of education. The committee noted that the state's funding for higher education has decreased from 25% to 15% over the past decade, while the costs of higher education have increased by 50% in the same period.

Professor's Wife Dies

Mrs. Mary D. Bartlett, 70, wife of J. Murray Bartlett, president of Michigan State, died Sunday in a local hospital.

She had lived in East Lansing since 1924, coming here from transportation, education, and other programs to upgrade the working skills of American manpower. The poverty package, however, was the Kennedy program. He is backed by the income tax, the War on Poverty, the Food for Peace, the Peace Corps, education, and related programs in agriculture, home ownership, employment, and manpower.

"Modernization" of manpower programs, primarily, by relaxing benefits extending the duration of jobless pay.

"Explosive increase in the, financed by every worker and his employer under social security contributory wages, but all rental assistance," he said, "he said that this is not merely an economic, social, political or issue but a moral issue that must be met by passage of the civil rights bill in the House, and Johnson got around to the House chamber to carry out these programs.
