Anti-Smoking Campaign Seen As Report Aftermath

WASHINGTON—A national anti-smoking program aimed at college students and newspapers who honestly report the facts—the first federal effort following a science-based public information campaign—will be launched in the fall.

A fleet of 120 students responsible for forty general newspapers, several daily non-dailies, and a local staff will make up the campaign's educational program aimed at educating smokers and the public about the dangers of smoking.

The program will also include public service announcements on the radio and television, sponsored by local legacies and烟控组织.

The campaign, which will take place in all states, will be coordinated by the National Health Service, and the American Lung Association, the American Cancer Society, and the American Heart Association.

BIO CASE Investigated

The off-campus housing is a serious problem in the administration and it is important that all students, faculty, and staff work together to prevent it from becoming a major concern.

Recent studies have indicated that off-campus housing is becoming increasingly difficult to control and that efforts must be made to prevent further problems.

A number of factors have contributed to this situation, including the high cost of living in off-campus housing, the lack of facilities and services, and the increasing number of students seeking off-campus living.

These factors, along with the need for better planning and coordination, make it essential that we work together to address this issue.

Bans Racial Tags

Informed sources said the FTC was aware of the removal of the racial tags and that the removal is a step forward in the fight against discrimination.

A spokesperson for the FTC said, "We are pleased to see the removal of the racial tags and that this is a step forward in the fight against discrimination."

The FTC has been working with the Department of Justice to address this issue and has been successful in removing the racial tags from some housing listings.

Property Tax Follows Ann Arbor Proposal

When last Lane County As- sis ­tant County Auditor Charles R. Johnson asked the question of what the future holds for property taxes in the county, he received a response that was not exactly what he had expected.

"I don’t think the future looks too bright," Johnson said. "We are in the middle of a revenue crisis and property tax is one of the main sources of revenue."

Johnson went on to explain that property tax is a major source of revenue for the county and that the current revenue crisis is making it difficult for the county to fund its operations.

"We are working with the legislature to find a solution and I am hopeful that we can come up with a plan that will allow us to fund our operations," Johnson said.

The future of property tax in Lane County remains uncertain as the county continues to grapple with the revenue crisis.

Cigarette Report

Cigarette tax revenues are increasing as the popularity of cigarettes continues to grow. The increase in revenues is due to a number of factors, including the increase in cigarette sales and the increase in the cigarette tax.

Property tax revenues are also increasing as the property market continues to recover. This increase is due to the increase in property values and the increase in property sales.

"The increase in property tax revenues is good news for the county," Johnson said. "It allows us to fund our operations and it is a positive sign for the economy as a whole."

The future of property tax remains uncertain as the county continues to grapple with the revenue crisis.

It is easy to agree with Maxie Gordon, president of the campus chapter of the NAACP that "too many students talk too much about housing discrimination in the University community but don't do anything about it."

Records compiled during the past term make Gordon's case clear. There was only one reported case of discrimination, he said.

It is against the background of this statement that Pat Smith, director of off-campus housing, is investigating a student complaint concerning alleged racial discrimination in an off-campus residence on the approved housing list. If investigations show that discrimination has been practiced on the basis of race, color, creed or national origin, the student will be taken off the approved housing list.

Of course it is important for the University to be free from any evidence of discrimination in this particular case. But this is only the tip of the iceberg. What about the fair way the community that aren't reported to the housing office?

The University recognizes that it has a job to do. But it cannot do the job alone. Each student living in an off-campus housing unit has a part to play in the quiet war against housing bias.

Each student should play his part by discussing the University's cause with other students in which he has been involved. And in reporting racial bias, he should do so with little fear of repercussions.

The University is prompt to begin investigation when informed of alleged discrimination. The next move is now up to you.

BMC's Role

Lieve, the Big Man on Campus, described last over wearing a raccoon coat and waving an MSU banner. You will find it at least momentarily evident in the role of the student who is a serious student. BMC, in the words of the world, is the student at a large university who devotes himself to his work, lives in the dormitories, has his head in books and is a leading member of the student body. Few students can exactly be called BMCs, but many can be reunited in the future.

The likely result in 1964 is an even more sweeping in to Michigan's college students. BMC's role will be that of reunification of the student body. BMCs will be on the approved list.

"It is quite likely that the Khrushchev regime is too preoccupied with other problems to notice what we are doing," said Lee. "The dispute may take on new forms in 1964, it may take on a nuclear renegade. France, the United States will make a deal with Russia over their heads will continue, but he points out that peace agreement will continue, but he points out that peace agreement will be a sadly lagging third five-year plan for economic development. It's only our mental picture of the BMOC which has disappeared."

We ought to leave him lost and stick to the kind we have in 1964. A great deal to his education. If all he seeks is prestige, he'll gain little of value from participating."

String Concert Draws Emotion

String instruments are capable of producing an almost limitless variety of sounds. It is the intention, therefore, to give the greatest expression of the music and, in the quality of the tone.

The premiere of the Draw String Quartet performance Sunday in the Music Auditorium is expected to give the greatest expression of the music and, in the quality of the tone. The quartet, famed for its music, presents an ensemble of music, including Beethoven, Mozart, Schubert, and Haydn.

The Music Department will present a number of performances, with a series of works by composers from the late 18th century to the present day. The performances will consist of chamber music, solo piano works, and vocal music. They will be performed by a variety of ensembles, including string quartets, piano trios, and mixed chamber groups.

The concerts, varied in style and genre, will offer a wide range of opportunities for students to perform and gain valuable experience in a variety of musical settings. The concerts will be held in the Music Auditorium and the Recital Hall, and will be open to the public.

The Music Department is committed to providing performance opportunities for students at all levels of experience, from beginner to advanced. The concerts are an integral part of the Music Department’s curriculum, offering students the chance to perform in solo and ensemble settings, and to gain valuable experience in a variety of musical settings.

Included in the total is a pre-draw of emotion. String Quartet performance Sunday attests to the great expression of music students and faculty, which had been done just as clear and correctly. Each piece had been done just as and evenness.

R. Kennedy To Visit Sukarno

WASHINGTON - President Johnson is sending a personal message to Sukarno, the Indonesian president, today (Monday).

It is reported that President Johnson is scheduled to meet with Sukarno at the White House tomorrow afternoon. Their meeting will be the first time by the evening college of the University of Michigan. President Johnson also noted that his meeting with Sukarno would have been scheduled.

President Johnson, who had been suggested for the office of President of Indonesia, was received by President Sukarno in the White House yesterday afternoon.

The meeting was reportedly as a result of President Johnson's meeting with President Sukarno last week at the White House. President Johnson's visit to Indonesia is scheduled for the first time by the evening college of the University of Michigan. President Johnson also noted that his meeting with Sukarno would have been scheduled.

There is only so much that the Counseling Center can do for you.

For some, it's tough enough to just show up, never mind come back for further help. People could be turned away or referred to counseling services by their schools or employers. Counseling is often expensive and can be a time-consuming process. It requires an investment of both time and money that may not be feasible for everyone.

The counselor's goal is to help the student to become a more insightful and self-directing person. Providing pat answers fails it, in their college years.

It must be ascertained that the Center has no time for phonys.

There are too many who really need and deserve treatment. Students may have to wait their turn for help, but now is the best time to seek it. Two weeks before should be no time to panic.

The number of students the Counseling Center sees per day is limited. The number of students who can be seen by a counselor or psychologist is also limited. It's important to ask for help as soon as possible, especially if you feel overwhelmed or like you're losing control of your life.

The answer posed at the beginning of this series was where the course as now taught childish to expect a counselor to beg students to return for further help.

The Counseling Center's mission is to provide support and guidance to students in need. They offer a variety of services, including individual and group counseling, career planning, and crisis intervention.

The Counseling Center is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Friday. They are located at 1257 University Ave, Ann Arbor, MI 48104.
