Council Approves Bogue Bridge Bid

Johnson Asks Nation To Back Peace Steps

Johnson sent Congress his first supplemental budget asking for $16 billion to continue and expand the war on poverty. The program will be expanded and will include education, job training, and the housing and medical priorities suggested by the President in his 1964 state of the union address.

Governor Asks Fund Increase

Governor George Romney, speaking at Hillsdale College Monday night, said the state's budget would have to be increased by $500 million to meet the demands of a growing state. Romney asked for a constitutional amendment to permit the state to issue bond issues to meet the demands of the state's population.

LBJ Cuts Federal Outlay With $97.9 Billion Budget

The President asked Congress to authorize an increase of $97.9 billion in federal outlays. He also asked Congress to authorize an increase of $97.9 billion in federal outlays.

Thielor To Address Groups Here

Fred L. Brown, head of Theological Seminary, will speak at the University of Michigan on Thursday night. Brown will speak on the topic of religion and society.

Weather

Increasing coldness will make outdoor activities difficult. High in the lower 50's.
Michigan State recorded another first Monday when the first traffic lights on campus went into operation at the intersection of Farm Lane South and North Shaw Lanes.

Initial reaction to the lights, despite a defective timing device that should be full-process was good. The long line of cars backed up in both directions on Farm Lane during periods of heavy traffic should now be a thing of the past. The lights should no longer have to risk life and limb trying to dash through breaks in traffic.

Lt. Allen Andrews, Jr., of the department of public safety, said that a small commission among students about the lights aimed at regulating pedestrian traffic, but this should only be a temporary situation until students learn to cross with the pedestrian lights.

We welcome this latest addition to the campus as a big step in the direction of easing traffic congestion.

Benefits of Brownies

As the term gets under full steam, the toasts pick up and get louder.

Inevitably, some students step up pressure on classmates who associate with faculty members outside of class, branding them as "Brownies."

"They're afraid those 'brownies' will get better grades than they will and will raise the class curve. And they're right—students who talk with professors after class probably will get better grades. But not because they soft-voiced their questions. These students who spend time with instructors outside of formal classes are also more concerned about their grades because they have the ambition to learn a little extra. While some students sit back complaining about instructors playing favorites, the "brownies" are asking questions and challenging the instructors, learning more than just enough to pull a C in the course.

They also learn to form and express their ideas. Through personal contact with the instructors, students develop an enthusiasm for the study of subjects that they never could shooting a question from the back of a 300-seat lecture room.

The students who cry "brownies" are cheating themselves, missing the extra time some professors are willing to give without being asked.

But worse, these students try to rob others of these benefits by ridiculing them for seeking more from the professors.

And the professors who need contact with their students to hear fresh ideas and to keep on their toes with challenges. From informal sessions, the instructors will know how to make their lectures more interesting, and students and representatives of the university colleges and departments will fewer problems and less fear of frustration.

The institution of Farm Lane and East Circle Drive is an example of such an area.

If the traffic lights at Farm Lane and East Circle prove successful, and there is even indication that they will, traffic lights will become a more popular bonnetless horses as soon as possible.

City Tax Turmoil

By OTIS RACERS

State News Staff Writer

The turmoil of the Michigan Department of Revenue that has troubled East Lansing appears to be growing less in the future, but the state's economy and the fiscal health of the state continue to worsen.

East Lansing has continued the legal battle against the Michigan State University real estate corporation, Associated Collegiate Press Association, and the Michigan State Press Association. The Michigan Revenue Commissioner Legal Advisor is to be heard on the matter of the corporation's property taxes.

The Faculty-School committee on Housing and Campus Affairs has recommended that the university adopt a policy of not paying taxes on campus property. It also has suggested that the university itself be entitled to a deduction for property taxes.

The term "tax turmoil" was coined by the university's fiscal director, who said the university's tax problems were "bigger than the state's budget problems.

Will it ever end? The 1964 Michigan State University Annual Report states the university's financial problems are "big, not bigger than the state's budget problems, but they are big.

The university has been hit hard by higher taxes. In 1963, the state's education budget was decreased by $25 million, and in 1964, the university was hit with a $25 million cut. But the university has been hit even harder by the tax problem. In 1963, the university had a deficit of $2 million, and in 1964, the deficit is expected to be $3 million.

Word For '64 Is 'Optimism'—Lanzillotti

Foresees Economic Prosperity

The governor's special commission on the economy, the Michigan Commission on the Economy, will meet Monday at 9 a.m. in the Administration Building, Room 328.

"The economy," Lanzillotti said, "is doing better than it has been for a long time. The gross national product is growing at a rate of 3% per year. The unemployment rate is down. The inflation rate is lower. The demand for goods and services is increasing.

But the economy is not growing fast enough to take care of the many problems that the state is facing. The state has a $2 billion budget deficit. The state is $2 billion in debt. The state has a $2 billion budget surplus.

"We have a lot of problems to solve," Lanzillotti said. "But we are moving in the right direction.

The solution must come from the state's leaders. They must work together to solve the problems. The state must have a budget surplus. The state must have a budget deficit.

The state must have a balanced budget. The state must have a balanced budget. The state must have a balanced budget.

"We have a long way to go," Lanzillotti said. "But we are making progress.

The state must have a balanced budget. The state must have a balanced budget. The state must have a balanced budget.

"We are doing better than we were," Lanzillotti said. "But we have a long way to go.

Army Removes British Officers

African was placed in command.

British Officers were relieved Monday morning and replaced by a Tanganyikan Army.

It was an apparently bloodless affair. But the removal was conducted under pressure as a result of two recent events.

The Tanganyikan High Command, acting in London, decided the British forces would be relieved in Tanganyika because of "foreign influences" and "political immaturity." The Tanganyikan forces were given three days to report for duty.

Douglas was commander of Tanganyika forces since his election in 1963, and the British presence was seen as a threat to Tanganyikan independence.

President Julius Nyerere de­clared the move "a disgrace to all Tan­ganyikans," and it was a blow to Douglas' hopes of remaining in power.

The Tanganyikan forces were given three days to report for duty, but they were not given a new commander. After that, the British forces were expected to leave Tanganyika.

Ruby To Undergo Mental Examination

The Duke of Devonshire, min­ister of education, was charged with murder in the shooting death of his wife. The trial began yesterday.

Ruby, an 11-year-old journalist, was charged with the murder of her mother. The trial was scheduled to begin today.

Ruby was arrested last week after her mother died in a car crash. She was charged with murder and was held without bond.

Ruby is scheduled to undergo a mental examination to determine if she is fit to stand trial. The examination will be conducted by a panel of experts.

In Vietnam

Viet War Critical

The president has called for a more vigorous approach toward the Vietnam War. He said, "It is time to do something about this." The military has been criticized for its handling of the war, and there are calls for a faster withdrawal from Vietnam.

The president's decision comes as the war continues to escalate. The number of American troops in Vietnam has increased, and there are reports of increased civilian casualties.

The president said he would work with Congress to find a solution to the war. He said, "We will not tolerate this situation."

In college, there is a constant push to avoid the continuous din produced by the track team in its starting lanes. It was in this starting lane that the track team competed.

The Spartans, 1963 Big Ten champions, are the players' moral equivalent in so many ways. So far we've been hampered into the season." Dittrich noted.

The 24-point team, which included sophs Dick and Jim Garrett in springs and broad jumps. The winners of the Regionals totaled 4005 overall, with Michigan" he said. "All year winning but losing in the players' minds except for pairings.
