Plot Is Doubted In Assassination

It was doubted that the assassins were employees of the National Communist Front. Kennedy was the name of a very large organization, said a government official. Boring said that the first move was to kill the President in the crowd of the second live event, John Kennedy of Dallas, Tex. He was one of the two targets of the attack. The assassins would be killed in a second attack.

"All indications are that there were several other attempts on the part of the other group, to kill the President in the crowd.

Aide Quits To Write of JFK

Androgynous Arthur Schlesinger Jr. has been seen by many in the Washington area as a likely candidate for the job of White House advisor effective March 1

President John F. Kennedy.

Arthur Schlesinger, Jr.'s appointment was not an unexpected move, according to insiders. He had been reported to be considered for the post for some time, and his name had been mentioned repeatedly in the press.

"Other than having a Russian background, I am not interested in running for Congress or the Senate," said Schlesinger.

Shaw Asks Change In Dress Rule

Monday, the student council passed a resolution that would allow students to wear casual dresses on weekdays.

"It was passed by a vote of 70-0 in favor and 10-0 against," said President Beverly Marriott.

"This change was made possible by the administration, who agreed to accept my request for a change in dress regulations." (continued on page 4)

France, Red China Clash
Over Two-China Concept

France, with the United States, Red China, and the rest of the world, has been at odds over the concept of two Chinese states.

"We are not interested in a two-China solution," said

French foreign minister, Charles

Denis. "We believe that there should be a single Chinese state, and we will not accept

 SEC Impresses Romney, Will Urge Similar Programs

In a surprising move, SEC commissioner, Dr. Robert F. Kennedy, announced that the SEC would be urging similar programs to those of the National Labor Relations Board.

"The SEC has been working on these issues for many months," said

Kennedy. "We believe that there should be a single system that protects both labor and management." (continued on page 4)

Report Plane Shot Down In Germany

WASHINGTON, D.C. - A U.S. military jet has been shot down in Germany. The jet was traveling over a friendly zone when it was attacked by a German missile. The jet was carrying eight crew members, all of whom are believed to be dead. The German government has refused to comment on the incident, citing national security concerns. (continued on page 4)

No Bias Accepted In Ads

The State News does not accept advertising from persons who discriminate on the basis of race, color or national origin.

Ultimately, an advertisement appeared in the 1963 Wel-come Week edition which gave the impression that the State News does permit such discrimination in its classified listings.

Clarification of how the ad appeared in the 1963 WELCOME WEEK edition and why it should be deleted. The discriminatory advertisement was taken during summer term by a new employee of the advertising department who was unfamiliar with the policy of the State News regarding such notices. The words ‘white only’ got as far as the printer before they came to the attention of the staff.

The printer was ordered to drop the advertisement from the newspaper, which after the action was published, the offensive ad appeared.

How the advertisement came out in print, we do not know. Perhaps it was dropped on the floor after being printed and never noticed by someone who thought it belonged in the newspaper.

When the case was submitted to the publication, the advertisement did not appear with the consent of the staff. The State News, under its conditions, receives advertising from persons who discriminate on the basis of race, color or national origin.

End The One China Policy

After some 15 years of solidi-ﬁcation among western nations in opposing the Chinese Communist regime, a slight crack has appeared in the armor, France, under the headstrong leadership of Charles DeGaulle, has announced formal recognition of China, breaking the Treaty of Tung's government, amid much ballyhoo over their play from the United States.

As it has in the past, the U.S. goes to the well and gets some more, is simply not the only way to do it. It is, however, a way that is not supported by the Chinese Communists. This is an unfortunate step, particularly at a time when the American refusal to face the facts of political life can not in any way help our diplomatic position. The one-China policy should be discontinued at whatever loss of face may be necessary, without any further hesita-}

Taxing Matters

A man pays a luxury tax on his billfold, an income tax on the stuff he puts into it, and a sales tax on what little he is left to take from falling on it. Telling ourselves that the Red Chinese are no real threat and don’t deserve recognition as a nation can only make the inevitable adjustments more difficult later on when they have become even stronger and more dangerous than they are now. It is too early to tell whether France’s move will lead to a wave of recognitions by other nations, but France has taken a mark that stands out in attitudes toward the Red regime.

American refusal to face the facts of political life can not in any way help our diplomatic position. The one-China policy should be discontinued at whatever loss of face may be necessary, without any further hesita-
19th Century Dentist Wielded Mean Drill

Need a rhino exorcised, some blank work done, or maybe a daily shopping list? Greg had been using his efficient mental powers to juggle the business end of the operation.

When Greg showed up at the office, the 19th Century dentist—what he thought was his rowdy fills, was actually a collection of the period's most challenging patients. The dentist's equipment included a large saw, a chisel, and a mallet. Cast-iron cabinets were in the business of the period and were made to order.

"Greg came in and asked if he could borrow the mallet," the dentist said. "Greg was very polite and respectful, but I had to ask why he needed it."

"Greg explained that he needed it for a special project," the dentist continued. "He told me it was for a school assignment."

"I gave him the mallet, but I warned him to be careful," the dentist said. "He took it and left."

But Greg never returned to the office. The dentist, who was working at his desk, heard a loud noise and turned around to see Greg lying on his back, groaning in pain. The mallet had hit him in the face.

"I immediately called an ambulance," the dentist said. "Greg was taken to the hospital and treated for a concussion. He is now fully recovered and back at home."

Foreign Students Grapple With Slang Expressions

With the influx of foreign students in the United States, the use of slang expressions in the English language has become a common occurrence. Many students find it difficult to understand the subtle nuances of slang and its impact on everyday communication.

Laurie Sherwood, a senior at the university, has been studying slang for the past two years. "Slang is a complex and ever-evolving language," she said. "It is important for students to be aware of slang and how it is used in different contexts."

Laurie is currently working on a project that explores the use of slang in the workplace. "I am interviewing people in various fields to see how they incorporate slang into their work," she said. "I am also looking at how slang is used in social media and online communication."

U.S. Faces Job Peril

The United States economy will be in serious trouble if the average worker takes a cut in the labor force, according to a new study. The report, released by the National Education and Training Commission, argues that the United States economy will face significant challenges if the labor force continues to shrink.

The study, which is based on data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics, predicts that the labor force will shrink by 10 million by 2020, resulting in a decline of 5 percent. The report warns that this decline could lead to a loss of $500 billion in GDP and 3 million jobs.

"The United States economy is at a crossroads," the report concludes. "If we do not act now to address the challenges facing the labor force, we risk putting our economic future at risk."

Rusk Upholds Red China For 'Contempt Of Peace'

In a controversial move, Secretary of State Dean Rusk has announced that the United States will continue to support Red China for "contempt of peace." The decision was made in response to the recent crisis in the Middle East, where Red China has been accused of interfering with peace efforts.

"We have a historic responsibility to support Red China in its efforts to promote peace," Rusk said. "We cannot allow the United States to become a barrier to peace and stability in the world."

The move has been met with mixed reactions. Some foreign leaders have expressed support for Rusk's decision, while others have condemned it as a violation of international law.

Rusk's decision comes as the United States faces increasing pressure to reduce its military presence in the region. Many foreign leaders have called for a reduction in the U.S. military footprint, arguing that it is not in the best interests of the United States or its allies.

The United States has a significant military presence in the Middle East, with thousands of troops stationed in various countries. The presence has been controversial, with some leaders arguing that it is a destabilizing force in the region.

Despite the criticism, Rusk remains committed to supporting Red China. "We will continue to support Red China in its efforts to promote peace," he said. "We cannot allow the United States to become a barrier to peace and stability in the world."

Lenin Created Soviet, World Communism

“Lenin’s policies were those of the revolutionary. He was not interested in a compromise. He was interested in revolution.” Paul Thompson, associate professor of economics, attributes Lenin’s interpretation of leadership to the Revolution of 1917 on which Lenin was involved. He also attributes Lenin’s policies on party organization to the Revolution of 1917. Lenin created a small group, a core group, that would be in charge of the revolution. In 1903, the second party congress took place. The party split into a Bolshevik group that supported Lenin’s policies. This group wanted Lenin’s interpretation of leadership. As early as 1901, Lenin realized the importance of the proletariat as a means of revolution. After the execution of his brother Alexei in 1918, Lenin realized that his life could ride out a revolution. Successful revolution. After the execution of his brother Alexei in 1918, Lenin realized that his life could ride out a revolution. He then realized that his life could ride out a revolution. He then realized that his life could ride out a revolution. He then realized that his life could ride out a revolution. He then realized that his life could ride out a revolution. LONDON - American and British diplomats worked hard this week to avoid an explosion of Cyprus crisis, but a U.S. official has said in London that the talks are "in the doldrums" in his words. The talks, scheduled to resume Tuesday, have been held in an atmosphere of mutual mistrust and suspicion.

In Washington, Secretary of State John F. Kennedy was reported to be looking for a way to "create a势头" in the negotiations, which have been deadlocked for months over the question of Turkish military presence on the island.

Kennedy's aides have been cautious in their public statements, and there have been no signs of progress in the talks. The situation is expected to be discussed at the next meeting of the UN Security Council, which is scheduled to convene next week.

The talks have been hampered by the refusal of both sides to make significant concessions. The Turks, who have insisted on retaining their military presence, have said they will not withdraw unless the Greeks agree to recognize Turkish sovereignty.

The Greeks, who have rejected this demand, have said they will not agree to any recognition of Turkish sovereignty until the Turks withdraw their forces. The situation is expected to remain tense in the coming weeks as the UN Security Council discusses the crisis.

Soviets Propose Destroying 'Obsolescent' Bombing Planes

ASHINGTON, April 12—A nine-point Soviet disarmament proposal that would destroy all nuclear weapons and bring about the cessation of nuclear testing is being studied by President Johnson.

The proposal was made by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at a meeting of the United Nations Security Council today. Soviet officials indicated that the proposal was intended to help bring about a nuclear test ban treaty.

Gromyko told the council that the Soviet government had long been concerned with the dangers of nuclear proliferation and had been working to promote a nuclear test ban treaty.

The proposal includes the destruction of all nuclear weapons, the elimination of nuclear testing, and the establishment of a nuclear-free zone in the Middle East.

Washington, April 12—President Johnson has urged the United Nations to adopt a comprehensive nuclear test ban treaty to prevent the proliferation of nuclear weapons.

In a statement to the United Nations Security Council today, Johnson said that the United States was committed to a nuclear test ban treaty and called on other nations to join in efforts to achieve such a treaty.

The President said that the United States was ready to begin discussions on a test ban treaty and that it would work closely with the United Nations to achieve this goal.

For Coach Fran Dittrich and the Michigan relay team, there's a matter of time, and it's the time it takes to run the 220, the 600, the mile, and on and on.

"It'd be unfair on my part to judge the team in terms of when they're running, at what time," the coach said. "It's more important to make a study of the times recorded now before improvement over the year."
