A former officer of the U.S. delegation to the United Nations said Monday that the U.N. should be "whittled down" to a more manageable size and operating budget.

"The United Nations is a committee and present them for consideration in the House," he said. "They are deleting the center from Michigan every year, but his opposition would be strong at this time." He added, "If in this last part of the UN's mandate is the only one that we can be sure is followed, it can be a 'wild wild' organization with no clear position or goals."

"Bohmrich said. "We find that the UN exists 'not to bring us to the kingdom of heaven, but to keep us from our own bodies.'" He challenged those who expected the UN to perform such functions to counter these charges of the UN's "not being able to". "It is not a question of the UN's being able to perform such functions; it is a question of the UN's being able to perform any functions at all," he said.
