COUNCIL SUGGESTS CHANGES IN GRADES

Hope Dim For Strong Ordinance

Relations Group To Meet Tonight

By SUE JACOBY

Chances seem slim for passage of a strong open housing ordinance in Lansing with the Senate’s failure to accept an amendment by its predecessor.

The amendment would have provided stronger penalties against potential customers on the basis of race, creed, color or national origin.

The commission would aid persons who wish to receive legal assistance and would give the commission power to produce and present evidence at any hearings.

The ordinance was developed by a task force of the Lansing Board of Realtors.

The legislation was contained in $2,000,000 of the capital budget, totaling $4,000,000, and would authorize the Department of Housing and Community Development to make grants to the commission for administrative purposes.

The bill was referred to the House Appropriations Committee, where it was never considered.

The Senate also restored $2,000,000 to MSU’s portion of $5,000,000 for the loan program, funds for the loan program, providing $100,000,000 for the engineering building at Oakland University, and providing $100,000,000 for the engineering building at Oakland University.

Justice Goes Blind

Justice, with a sword in one hand and a gavel in the other, has had free reign in handling students arrested at this week's County grasps. The folded symbol of its legal processes has allowed its sword to take over, and the gavel to balance itself out of the issue. Coeds arrested at the grasper for possession of liquor, were camped one weekend night for every 15 minutes they came in offering, and returned to their dorms like some girls, this means staying in every weekend until the end of the term. These girls in many instances had no control over the time they would return, and are being punished for circumstances somewhere beyond their control.

"Anyone who attended the grasps knew that he was taking a chance," John J. Fusk, dean of students said. "They know the rules of the University."

But Fusk, as assistant dean of students, said, "The disciplinary action taken against the women was fair and just within the scope of punishment for their attendance at the grasps. It is the responsibility of students to know this."

To the dormitory on time, students should not have been at the grasps, according to Fusk, and so are subject to whatever punishment they incur.

Beating A Dead Horse

Demands that Michigan col- leges and universities admit nonstate enrollees rolled east along Michigan Avenue from the Statehouse on Tuesday night.

An attempt to force a cut-back in "foreign student" enrollment failed by 46-46 percent rollm e n t fro m a c ro s s t h e p a y e rs m u s t foot the rest of the places of Michigan youths for possession of liquor have been dismissed for circumstances some- thing to the grasser knew that he was taking it. For possession of liquor was not a serious offense, according to the University.

There has been no use of the balance scale, no weighing of the many complicated factors involved, the women are suffering, Fusk said that in the case of college girls, the majority should be considered in denial of punishment. But in many cases, in a legal sense, it is a question of both account, and extraneous factors in which has been turned into a comedy of errors and absurd statements and arguments must be taken into account.

Blind examinations of half-facts will not do if true justice is to be served.

Letters To Editor

Two Departments Urge Open Housing

To the Editor:

We are the officers of the Michigan State and African-American Development, writing in the wake of the resignation of our chairman, Sam Brown, last week. We feel that this move was a positive step in the direction of open housing and the end of discrimination.

The Michigan State University is committed to equal opportunity for all students, regardless of race, religion, sex, or national origin. We support the University's policy of non-discrimination and the principles of open housing.

We believe that it is time for Michigan State University to take action and implement these policies. We urge the administration to consider the following recommendations:

1. Establish an open housing policy that prohibits discrimination based on race, religion, sex, or national origin.
2. Provide training for all faculty and staff on issues of discrimination and open housing policies.
3. Ensure that the University has a mechanism for addressing complaints of discrimination.
4. Implement a system for tracking and reporting complaints of discrimination.

We urge you to take action and implement these policies as soon as possible. We believe that these recommendations are essential for creating a truly inclusive and open community for all students.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

Op-Ed Topic: Requiring a Compostable Bag in Food Service

To the Editor:

I am writing to express my concern about the current policy of requiring a compostable bag in food service at our university. This policy has led to several issues, including increased cost, reduced variety, and decreased quality of service.

Compostable bags are not always environmentally friendly, as they require more energy and natural resources to produce than traditional plastic bags. Additionally, they can take years to break down in landfills.

Furthermore, the policy has led to an increase in the cost of food service. While the University may claim that this policy is cost-effective, the increased cost has led to a decrease in variety and quality of service. Students often have limited options for food, and the quality of the food is often not up to par.

I urge the University to reconsider this policy and explore alternative options for waste management. The University should prioritize the well-being of its students and the environment, rather than simply following a trend.

Sincerely,

Point Of View

Here's An Answer For 'Censorship'

By James Cash

James Cash, Good Roads Journal, recognized recently an ad of the Red Cedar Review, the University's student literary magazine.

"It's a shame," he declared, "that the Red Cedar Review, a publication that represents the best in student writing, has to sacrifice its integrity in order to please the administration."

"But I have to admit," he continued, "that the administration has a right to impose certain restrictions on the magazine."

The magazine, he said, has been publishing articles that are critical of the administration, and the administration has been threatening to cut off funding if the magazine continues to publish such articles.

"I think," he concluded, "that the administration should be allowed to impose certain restrictions on the magazine, but they should do so in a fair and reasonable manner."

State Capitol Reflects 85 Years Progress

Wednesday, May 6, 1964

The present Capitol is the fourth in Lansing. It was erected over 1846 to 1848. Two years from where the Capitol is today, the Roman-style building in Lansing was dedicated.

Editor's Note: This is the right two-thirds of page three.

The building in Lansing was dedicated Monday. It is built of Ohio sandstone and has a rich exterior with a center column and four stories high. The building is 150 feet above the ground floor. The building is "mature" and would be the center of an area's political and cultural centers.

Special Study Investigates University Herbarium's Role

The natural history, wildlife, and plant life of many areas will be discussed here Friday and Saturday by special symposium held on campus. The symposium is sponsored by the University's department of botany, the Natural Science and Agriculture department, and the department of forestry. The symposium will be open to the public.

The symposium will feature a number of speakers, including Dr. E. Stassen, former Minnesota Gov. Harold E. Stassen, and former football coach at the University of Wisconsin.

The symposium will also feature a number of workshops, including a workshop on the importance of the herbarium in Wisconsin. The symposium will be open to the public and will be held in the auditorium from 8 a.m. to 12 noon.
