This Week: Michigan Week

The variety and importance of many of Michigan's industries and characteristics will be highlighted this week in various Michigan Week festivities. The 11th annual celebration begins Sunday, and will continue through Saturday.

Around the state and today at the University, representatives of the state's agricultural and manufacturing industries will be showing off their products. The state's universities have sent delegations to New York, and will be presenting other special programs through the week.

U.S. Losing In Viet Nam

It is now obvious that the United States is at war in Viet Nam and is losing. The news has grown even more ominous daily.

Ho Chi Minh, president of North Viet Nam recently likened the U.S. role to that of a fox 'who has already got his two hind legs caught in a trap, and by still jumping around is doing his best to get his front legs caught as well.'

Whatever metaphor one de­votes, the situation is miserable.

Returning from his fifth visit to that beleaguered land, Secretary of Defense McNamara could only muster desperate words about stepped-up guerrilla terror attacks, sending of more U.S. troops and a general increase in both economic and military aid. It could be a "long, hard war," he said.

So, gone are the pleasant plans of recent months to withdraw most of the 15,000 U.S. personnel in Viet Nam by the end of next year.

The stories these days are not so much of progress and gains in the field as about the vile and treacherous enemy, the tragedy of once having had a Diem in power and an ambassador who finds it necessary to carry a revolver to work. Now we're hearing more of De Gaulle's plan for a neutralized Viet Nam and tales about the great French military man, General Diem Bien Phu.

That, too, was a long, hard war. It began in 1946 and France suffered as lost support of the Vietnamese people.

Now it is our turn. Viet Nam is proving a test—a test of the U.S. commitment to wage its cause around the globe, and a test of this country's ability to execute this responsibility. We ourselves are powerless to act the future lies in Washington and in the moral struggle in far-off rice paddies and swamps.

Perhaps, as adversity mounts, a new resolution will arise equiva­lent to the challenge. However, regardless of the outcome, the Viet Nam war, if nothing else, will be a lesson in reality, which is something that has been all too often absent on these shores.

Good Word From Congress

Student Congress has voted to establish a fund to provide two scholarships annually to students who have mounted the biggest amount of in-state tuition for a year. Students will be chosen by the Student Congress and perhaps all of Michigan's industries will be showing off their cultural and manufacturing in­­—t erests. Discrimination and harassment have increased and are being handled by fewer trained counselors than previously. Students have found it difficult to report and to receive redress for these violations.

The National Conference of Christians and Jews is working toward a plan of desegregation for the University. However, the lack of a desegregation plan allows the University to maintain its segregation policies.

The Spartans will make final preparations for the Big Ten tour- nee meet Monday and Tuesday, giving their normal routine a final check-up in preparation for Tuesday's meet.

Ohio State was last weekend's most dominant team, and Illinois will be most determined in its desire to prevent Ohio State from maintaining its present lead in the Big Ten competition.

For Diane, it was the first start in her second season at Michigan State. She has been learning under Coach John Brotzmann all season and will be ready to perform for the opposition.

The Spartan trio of Tom Mutchler, Herbert, and Kehoe outscored Minnesota's three medalists by a combined margin of 14.2 to beat MSU's Fred McKoy.

Leading scorer for the Green and White was Mike Morgan with 127 points.

Despite showing no signs of a breakdown in the first meet, the Spartans were able to break out of their recent slump and turn off the Michigan Wolverines, 6-3, and 4-1. No killie's record remained spotless against the Wolverines.

Jim Garrett, 76-81-157; Ken Benson, 78-75-153. Runner-up was MSU's Bob McNeal, tied for ninth place with the record 156 points. The victory in the Big Ten meet at Evanston will carry a 6-3 loop record and end the Big Ten meet.

Other Big Ten firsts were recorded by Ron Haring, 66-72; Ed Barkley, 67-72; Ron Haring, 66-72; and Pat Haring, 66-72. The match in the Big Ten meet was held Wednesday, May 14, at Michigan State College.

Golfers Suffer Loss: Play Today

Michigan State's golf team dropped a close non-conference decision Saturday to Kalamazoo College, 3-2. In contrast, last year's match at East Lansing, Michigan State won the first meet, 18 1/2-17 1/2.

The loss to last year's non-conference champions was the first since 1962 when MSU was defeated by the Chicago Track Club, 6-3.

Michigan State's team record dropped to 6-5 with the loss. The team record for the season is still 6-5.

Future tournaments include matches with the University of Michigan, Michigan State, Ohio State, and Indiana University.

The Spartans will next meet Saturday, to Northern Michigan State with an overall dual meet scheduled. The meet will be held in Traverse City, Michigan.

The Spartan trio of Tom Mutchler, Herbert, and John Brotzmann will take the team to Minneapolis next Friday and Saturday.

Coach John Brotzmann will take the team to Minneapolis next Friday and Saturday.
