A great complex of quonset huts had recently zoomed to a crowded but eager campus classroom, lab and dormitories. In fact, the Associated General Contractors union, between the plumbers union and the farmers, had threatened completion of several crop varieties, weed control and fertilizer practices would be demonstrated at the 1964 Crops-Soils Day, July 8.

Foreign Students To Spend Fourth With Thumb Families

An all-American Fourth of July is planned for foreign students who will spend their homesickness and the Fourth of July with Thumb families.

The group will depart from the University campus on July 1 and return July 4.

Crops-Soils Experts Show Advances

The latest agricultural advances in crop varieties, soil and fertilizer practices were demonstrated at the 1964 Crops-Soils Day, July 8.

In all, there will be 24 field days during the special event which will be held each year and each field day has been percolated to provide the best physiological and biological information, and mostly, percolated to provide the best physiological and biological information, and mostly...

Letter To The Editor
Grad's Gratitude Expressed

To the Editor:

June 14th, 1964 was a low holiday. To my husband and me it was an especial moment in our present lives. June 14th, 1964 was the day we received our degrees, the day we became a graduate of the university. Before the day was over, we had to prepare for the future and set our goals for the future. We want to thank all those who helped us to achieve our goals.

Spartans Aid Miss. Negroes

Several Michigan State students are reaching Mississippi Negroes with words of encouragement and legal rights to assert. The charged air of those civil rights workers in a Mississippi is evident in the sense that the MSU students are also risking their lives.

A $600 grant from All-University Student Government and Abbott Foundation was provided to the Negro Education and Voter Registration program at Michigan State University.

Among those concerned with MSU are Gerald Gray, Detroit, John P. Jones, Ypsilanti, and Warren D. Daniels, a former student who was arrested two years ago to Mississippi when he attempted to register black voters.

Several other students are planning to participate in the "Mississippi Project" this summer.

Most of the students who are interested in Mississippi, as educators, are determined. They are working in the field to improve the quality of education in Mississippi. The actual work in Mississippi is time-consuming and difficult. The students will have to work long hours in Mississippi to make a difference.

About the program which MSU students are participating in, it is a freedom voter registration drive. The drive was launched in February to register over 40,000 Negroes as voters which resembles the official election books of the state. MSU expects to have up to 500 students work on challenging state laws and the validity of federal election laws in Mississippi.

Many people are;; in April that the students are in Mississippi to educate, not to demonstrate. Yet, when one trip working for the civil rights groups, there was very little legal help in the field to improve the quality of education in Mississippi.

The civil rights workers believe that Mississippi has a special problem. One of them, Michael Schwerner, 24, of New York City, was once a student here. Schwerner was a graduate in 1958, he lived in East Lansing.

"The way it's going, I hope the whole country will be involved," he said.

The other students who are risking their lives in Mississippi are primarily Negroes. Black students have not been forgotten, however. The students are making their own contributions through their efforts.

Life Rushed-Violinist Piaastro Hastens To London Concert

East Lansing is halfway around the world from London, but music makes the trip for renowned violinist Michel Piaastro.

Piaastro, who conducted the Congress of Strings in its first performance of the calendar Monday night, today sets out for an important engagement in London, where he will meet an old friend next month with 100 other musicians on the program of the summer's events.

This is Piaastro's fourth concert on an international tour for the New York Philharmonic Society, and he will play the violin in London this week.

"My life is primarily occupied with the concert in London this week," Piaastro said, "but there is always a turning point to prepare for my next concert.

"It is amazing that 100 concerts and 200 concerts do not affect one's health," he said. "I have never been fatigued."

The concert was a sell-out, and the applause was unbroken.

"It is amazing that 100 concerts and 200 concerts do not affect one's health," he said. "I have never been fatigued."

Two Coeds Win Ryder Scholarships

Two coeds have been awarded Edward W. and Georgia B. Ryder Scholarships for the upcoming year.

Barbara J. Green of Deetjen, sophomore, will study at the University of Virginia. Bryan Blaz, a senior at New London, will study the University of Michigan, majoring in music.

The Ryder Scholarship was established by Edward W. Ryder, chairman of the Board, and Georgia B. Ryder, who died in 1948. It carries a $1,000 annual endowment.

The late Professor Ryder was dean of the College of Arts and Sciences from 1894 to 1918, and was the founder of the department of library and historical collections at the University.

Shook Not Shook By Pre-Tourney Troubles

By RICHARD SCHWARTZ

Some Michigan State fans were in for a surprise Friday when Patti Shook wasn't named to the first flight of the annual Capital City Classic, which was held Thursday and Friday.

Miss Shook has been the top golfer at Michigan State in recent years and was expected to be in the first flight.

Shook took the championship flight, 2-1, after late putts from Bobbie Werner of Tennessee, 1 up, Nicki Nordstrom of Arizona State, 3-2, and Sue Hilton of Western Ontario, 3-2.

"I said some nasty words to my putter," Miss Shook said, "but I don't think I could have handled the ball better on my final putt." Miss Shook revealed that the knee finally got to her on the final nine where her steady lead began to dwindle.

"I began to get sick to my stomach and it became increasingly difficult," Miss Shook explained, "and I don't think I could have handled the ball better on my final putt." Miss Shook putts ball. Miss Shook looks on as MSU's Joyce Kazmierski puts ball. MSU Book Store

- The Magic Number for Women's Golf: Miss Shook may have been slight, the green was what won for her. But for runner-up Joyce Kazmierski, Spencer Fredricksburg, from Detroit, it was 18—her age. The young woman, competing for the tournament for the first time, enticed a name for herself which in doubtless a name for distinction in a one-day experiment which she was determined to try and perhaps narrow the margin.

Miss Kazmierski, who seemed to gather increasing steam at the same time toward the 90-degree mark, was able to narrow the margins to 2-1 before evening out.

"I didn't expect to follow my initial seven, so you can't know if I could have handled it," Miss Shook said afterwards.

"If the weather had gone to extremes, I don't know if I could have handled it," Miss Shook revealed that the knee finally got to her on the final nine where her steady lead began to dwindle.

"I began to get sick to my stomach and it became increasingly difficult," Miss Shook explained, "and I don't think I could have handled the ball better on my final putt."

T ONIGHT, June 30

WITH DIRECTOR, C H R I S T I N N A S T R I E S

IT'S A LONG WAY DOWN. Just going up the high board at the International Pool is an accomplishment for most survivors. Now, generally the dive is nowhere close, com­pared to the pride of having had the stu­dents to the age and the ability to complete the dive without any hesitation on the last surface. Tim Redlich, actually a whirlp.

Georges Montagny, director of the theater, has announced that the "Honeymoon Hotel" will be produced here on Sept. 15.

Education Full-Year Operation

The graduate enrollment both this summer and last quarter between 1,900 and 2,000. This compares with 1,849 spring term and 1,900 Fall term.

The summer undergraduate enrollment is about 1,500, higher compared with 1,500 in 1963. This increase is not unexpected as the College has expanded its facilities and is able to provide more courses during the summer months.

The largest number of summer students enroll in teachers who are employed full-time during the summer. The average number of students is about 1,800.

The majority of these students are employed full-time. Some students are employed part-time. These students are employed in a variety of fields, including education, business, and government.

The purpose of the program is to provide courses that are relevant to the current needs of the students.

The library is open from 9:00 AM to 9:00 PM, Monday through Friday.

Library To Close Early For July

The library will close for the July 4 holiday on July 4.

Students will have the opportunity to complete their coursework before the holiday.
