New Highway
Will Skirt City
Planned Path Parallels South Campus Tracks

By Susan J. FISHER
State News Staff Writer

The State Highway Department is proposing plans for a new highway that will skirt the campus of Michigan State University this fall. The highway will be completed by the end of this year, and the department will be looking for ways to make it more attractive to the public.

The highway will run through the MSU campus along the northern edge of the campus, bypassing the center of the campus. This will provide a more direct route for students and visitors, and will also help to alleviate traffic congestion on the campus.

The highway will be built using a combination of concrete and asphalt, and will be designed to meet state standards for safety and efficiency. The department will also be looking for ways to incorporate landscaping and other aesthetic elements into the design of the highway.

The highway will be a major improvement to the campus, and will help to improve traffic flow and provide better access to the campus for students and visitors. The department is working closely with the campus to ensure that the highway is built in a way that meets the needs of both the campus and the surrounding community.

The highway will be constructed in phases, and the department is working to ensure that the construction process is as smooth as possible. The department will be closely monitoring the progress of the project, and will be working to keep the community informed about the progress of the construction.

'Boy' Suppression Hides Truth

The suppression of an educational play on race relations by an educational television station hardly seems conducive to educational enlightenment on this campus or in the State of Michigan.

Armond Hunter, director of television station WNEM, refused to show the drama, "Boy," which dealt with the existence of a Negro choo choo man by a white customer, because it used the words "nigger" and "damn." He said that an educational television station has a responsibility to show programs which are in good taste.

We agree, but we do not think that the truth is in bad taste. Let's face it, the South and the North, many whites refer to Negroes as "damn niggers." Hunter particularly objected to the frequency of offending words in "Boy," which was written by the Rev. Malcolm Boyd, Episcopalian chaplain at Wayne State University.

Unfortunately, people in our society do make frequent use of the words "nigger" and "damn." We doubt that the people of Michigan would be shocked to hear these words in a play. You just can't sweep such truths under the rug.

They are symptoms of a sickness in our society. Educational broadcasting media should take the lead in exposing that sickness.

Morality Has It Tough

Comments that traditional morality will be threatened by a spread of the "topless" style in ladies' bathing suits may have a point. Certainly, the moral values of our country, not only to the Protestant-founded United States. Witness the editorial comment in Muscota which followed the discovery of a Muscota woman gone so far as to appear in public airtight.

"We know the stories of Tarzan who hid in the depths of the forest and did not appear in public. But in the last few days Tarzan has changed his way of life. Morality has it rough all over.

Goldwater Force Waging War On 'Socialist' Press

By SUSAN J. FISON

State News Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The campaign to find the Republican nominee is on the way to the California primary on June 7.

Goldwater is leading in opinion polls and has the support of five delegates. He is expected to win 17 of the 25 states for which the nomination has been held so far.

The Goldwater campaign, which is being run by Royce, has been charging that the press is biased against the candidate.

"Our campaign is under attack," Royce said. "We are being attacked by every medium of communication."

Goldwater also charged that the press was controlled by the "liberal establishment." He said the press was "working for the New York Times and the New York Post."

"We have been told that the press is controlled by the liberal establishment," Royce said. "But we have not been able to prove that."

The Goldwater campaign has been conducting a "whites-only" campaign in many states. Royce said the campaign was "whites-only in every state."

Union Demands 'Short Sighted'

To the Editor:

It would seem to me that labor unions, especially those organized by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, are feeling threatened in their demands for "more, more and more." If one tries to stand back for a moment and look at the whole pattern of labor relations, one finds a lot of things that are happening with a lot of objectives, the same that are happening in this country in general. We have a feeling that labor is trying to dictate the rules of the game, and we are afraid that this country will not be able to function properly. We believe that labor should be more concerned with the economic and social problems that affect this country, rather than trying to get more of the same thing that they already have.

Journalism Class Forced 'Oven'

To the Editor:

As a member of the Journalism Class 1972, I would like to add my voice to the discussion about the "oven" situation. The conditions in the classroom are not conducive to learning and are detrimental to the students. The temperature is often too high, and the air is stuffy. This situation has been ongoing for several weeks, and it seems to be getting worse.

Sincerely yours,

Arabs United With Africa

To the Editor:

I was glad to see the article about the Arab-African unity. It is a step in the right direction, and I hope that this relationship will continue to grow. As a member of the Arab community, I am very pleased with the progress that has been made.

Eyes Suffer In Library

To the Editor:

I was very surprised to see the article about the eye problems that students are experiencing in the library. It is a serious issue, and it seems that something needs to be done to address it.

Cyclotron Nears Completion

By HERBERT KING

The MSU Cyclotron Laboratory continues toward full-time operation of a 60-inch magnet and the assembly of the cyclotron will be completed. It is anticipated completely for clinical trial and research purposes.

The MSU cyclotron will have two 60-inch and a significant 34-inch magnet, seven beam lines, six beam switches, and a variety of diagnostic equipment for the detection of nuclear reactions and the analysis of the products of nuclear reactions. The cyclotron will be completed. It is anticipated completely for clinical trial and research purposes.

The cyclotron will be completed. It is anticipated completely for clinical trial and research purposes.

With the addition of the cyclotron to the laboratory, we can now be able to explore the full potential of the MSU cyclotron. However, we need more resources and funding to complete the development of the cyclotron.

New Parts Speed Fall Trial

By JOE REYNOLDS

Typically, the cyclotron is used for research purposes, such as the production of radioactive isotopes for medical imaging. However, with the addition of the cyclotron to the laboratory, we can now be able to explore the full potential of the MSU cyclotron. However, we need more resources and funding to complete the development of the cyclotron.

The cyclotron is a critical component of the MSU cyclotron infrastructure. It is currently being tested and prepared for use.

The first tests were conducted with a small-scale model of the cyclotron. The results were promising, and the cyclotron is expected to perform well in practice.

The State News is the most widely read newspaper in the state of Michigan, according to the Michigan Press Association. Recent surveys showed that out of every 100 people using the state's newspapers, 20 percent use The State News. Also, 15 percent of the state's newspapers had at least one percent readership for the State News.

In the summer of 1966, a survey was conducted involving only 10 people from the state's newspapers.

Though heat waves and other natural disasters are the most common natural disasters in the United States, all natural disasters have in common the desire to help those affected.

Jerry Robert, Detroit News writer, said that in order to help those affected, one must be aware of the situation and be willing to help. The writer explained that the summer of 1966 was very hot and dry, and that the residents of Michigan were very much aware of the situation.

The writer also said that the summer of 1966 was not only hot, but also very dry, and that the residents of Michigan were very much aware of the situation.

The writer concluded that the summer of 1966 was a very hot and dry summer, and that the residents of Michigan were very much aware of the situation.
State Egg Potential Excellent

Although none of the state's farmers aren't convinced that the commercial production of eggs is a profitable venture, Carl Stewart of Lansing, University of Michigan, said many farmers who grow chickens will be interested in producing eggs for a medium market. He believes that farmers can produce eggs with a constant supply of feed. However, without careful management of the farm's feed and production of eggs, farmers may not be able to sell their eggs. The Michigan Agricultural College has established a poultry farm at Michigan State University, and the farm is open to the public. Visitors are welcome to see the farm and learn about the production of eggs.

Musicians Lay Ties Opened

Musicians have laid a tie in Muskegon, Michigan, which marks a new musical connection between the states.

African musicians from the west are not the only ones who are interested in the new connection. The musicians have been invited to the Michigan State Music Festival, which will be held in Muskegon on May 5, 6, and 7. The festival will feature performances by African and American musicians, as well as workshops and lectures on the history and culture of African music.

New Dorms Get Extensive Planning

By MURRAY LEACH

State News Writer

With the start of the academic year, the halls of Michigan State University will receive partial renovation. The union building will be re-modified to offer more comfort and convenience for the students. The renovation is part of a larger project to improve student living conditions at the university.

In the past, dormitories have been in close proximity to the union building, allowing students easy access to the facilities. However, the renovation will provide additional space for students, making the halls more comfortable and convenient.

The renovation will include the addition of extra rooms and facilities, such as study areas and lounges. These changes will enable students to engage in academic activities and social events more effectively.

The project is expected to be completed by the start of the new academic year, ensuring a comfortable living environment for the students.
