Winds Of Change

This weekend's "Winds of Change" seminar, sponsored by the Population Pressure and Resource Potential, promises an outstanding discussion of all sides of the problem of the population expansion. It has, in fact, been described as one of the most worthwhile and beneficial activities.

The seminar, the second in what is hoped will become an annual series, will present experts from across the nation and the world, discussing the extent and possible solutions of the world's crush of population in a number of different settings.

Participants will almost surely have a chance to participate with some speakers, in seminar groups, a symposium discussion, after any of the speeches, or at the banquet Friday night, during which speakers will sit at tables with students.

At the beginning of this week, about 200,000 people, including students, faculty and guests from other campuses, had signed up to attend sessions. This is less than half the capacity of the rooms in Kellogg Center, where discussions will be held.

Abraham Adedire, an MSU graduate and former secretary-general of the Cameroon Union of Students, is still in University Hospital, Ann Arbor, awaiting a kidney transplant. Last week he was reported in good condition and expected to have a partial transplant, which is expected to halt a progressive disease which has kept him in and around hospitals for several years and now threatens his life.

Adedire's mother, Msr. Asah Adedire, a Nigerian tri- woman who speaks only Yoruba and Hausa, is preparing for a flight to the United States to see her kidney donor. The child's doctors are putting stress on the importance of finding a suitable kidney donor for Adedire's transplant.

The Detroit Free Press has begun a campaign to help collect funds for Adedire. The Campaign offers a chance to give an agent to a student contribution and deliver the message of a kidney donor. Guests have contributed $28,40 a month, Michigan United Appeal.

A further contribution, and the message should be made from students and faculty wishing to help an outstanding former student, may be made to the MSU Alumni, 308 Student Services, 100 N. University, 308 Student Services.

Nothing Like A Dame

Men with their looks admired are not so free to spread their merchandise, and, more than men, women with their beauty are not so free to show off their merchandise. The world of women is a world of more private merchandise, property, more private objects.

The world of women is a world of more private objects.

She may not have been the first to say she was a Woman, but she was the first to say she was a Woman, and she said it with a smile.

Another part, for her face was not that of a woman, but that of a woman, and she said it with a smile.

The world of women is more private, more private than the world of men.

That's the spirit, Liberty, Equality, Freedom, the spirit of a woman who is free to say she is a Woman, and she said it with a smile.

Rx For Boxing: Rehabilitate Public's Peaceful In Sport

By HUGH S. LEACH
State News Wire Editor

Boxing is a violent sport, and the problem is that every time a major boxing event takes place, people are hurt. Those who have been hurt include boxers and boxing fans, as well as those who participate in boxing-related activities such as training and refereeing.

However, there are steps we can take to rehabilitate the public's peaceable In Sport. One such step is to promote a greater understanding of the sport and its benefits, including both physical and mental health.

The American Boxing Commission has taken steps to promote the sport by offering a scholarship program for aspiring Golden Gloves contestants. This initiative is part of a broader effort to promote the sport among young people.

To be considered for the scholarship, applicants must submit an essay on their Horison to boxing and how it has shaped their lives. Essays will be evaluated based on their content and writing skills.

The American Boxing Commission is also working to promote the sport through partnerships with schools and community centers. These partnerships will provide opportunities for young people to learn more about boxing and to participate in the sport.

In addition, the American Boxing Commission is working to increase the diversity of its membership. This includes efforts to recruit more women and people of color into the sport.

We believe that these efforts will help to rehabilitate the public's peaceable In Sport and to promote a greater understanding of the sport and its benefits.

The American Boxing Commission looks forward to working with others to promote the sport and to help create a more positive image for boxing among the public.

We encourage everyone to get involved in boxing and to support the sport in whatever way they can. Together, we can make a difference and help to promote a more peaceful and healthy world.
