Buddhist Ask Cease-Fire

WASHINGTON—The possibilities of escalation action by U.S. Navy ships patrolling off the Virginia coast have increased since the arrest of four South Vietnamese Navy officers last week.

The arrests, involving apparent espionage charges, were the latest in a series of incidents which have alarmed some observers of the U.S.-Vietnamese relationship.

A possible announcement was reported early Monday night by South Vietnamese officials, who aides of a U.S. official say are in Washington for discussions on the situation.

Another possibility of a new round of talks was suggested last week by South Vietnamese representatives at the United Nations, who have been in contact with the U.S. delegation.

Revolt Closes Med School in Madrid

MADRID—Spain's popular revolt against the monarchy has reached the country's educational institutions, with the announcement that the University of Madrid's Medical School is to be shut down.

The students of the Medical School, who have been demanding a change of political philosophy, have announced that they will continue their activities in a smaller facility until the situation is resolved.

The Medical School students have been joined by students from other universities in their demand for a change of government.

Muslims' Security Tightens

In Msu's Juarez Cemetery in the state of Chihuahua, Muslims have tightened their security measures in response to the recent attacks on their community.

The Muslim community has been targeted by a group of ultra-nationalist organizations, who have been carrying out attacks on mosques and Muslim-owned businesses.

A Very Important Event

Tuesday, March 9, could be one of the most important days in the history of Michigan State.

This is the day that the federal body will decide whether a new form of government, and many against it. Students will have the opportunity, through specially sched¬ uled meetings and through state News articles, to throw the issue of the question and form their own opinions.

Upon examination of both the present and the proposed forms of government, we believe the arguments for the new system far outweigh those against it.

One of the hottest debates on the proposal centers around the question of representation. The government calls for the establishment of a student board, consisting of the presidents of the Associated Press, WIC, APA, Pan-Hel, MAC, and AWS, four representatives elected at large, two persons, one male and one female, appointed by the faculty, and several non-voting members.

This board would, in effect, replace the present ASG pres¬ ident and student Congress.

In other words, the present concept of "student power" is limited to some degree, in that only the four repre¬ sentatives-at-large would be directly elected by the students. The other members would be indirectly elected by persons directly elected by the students. The proposal does not necessarily mean indirect representation in the same claim¬ ing. The committee designed the student board to provide more representation of student opinion, not less.

This is accomplished by having representatives from all areas and with diversified opinions. The charge that this would become a "tight little clique" is refuted by this very construction of the board.

Although there are those who claim the present student Congress is the only true representative body on campus, and that they do not believe in existence, there's no evidence to the contrary.

At the last official count, only 17 members of Congress were elected in anything that resembled a competitive election.

A total of 21 officers have been appointed since the begin¬ ning of the term without beneficial election.

Are we on Congress other because they had no competi¬ tion for the post or because the competition was such that there was actually no contest?

It is interesting to note that most of those Congress members who have been elected have a "truly representative govern¬ ment" voted against allowing the student body to voice their opinions on the proposal in an all-Uni¬ versity election.

Each student should be more repre¬ sentative than allowing each student to express his own opin¬ ion. However, it is impossible to call for a campus-wide vote on every issue. It is therefore necessary to have a group of representatives at-large to effec¬ tively present the views of their fellow students.

Student Congress has not done this nor is it likely to. We think the proposed student board is a giant step in the right direction.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

A reader of your paper asked whether I was morally bound to obey a law that was illegal according to the Constitution of the United States.

I answered yes, because the law of the Constitution supersedes any law or custom.

Since then, I have been asked several similar questions, and each time I have given the same answer.

I believe that the Constitution of the United States is the highest law of the land, and that no other law or custom can be higher than it.

Sincerely yours,

To the Editor:

I would like to express my concern about the current state of the economy in our country.

We are facing many challenges, including inflation and unemployment, and I believe that the government needs to take action to address these issues.

There are several policies that I think could be effective in improving the economy.

First, I believe that we need to invest more in education and infrastructure. This could create jobs and stimulate economic growth.

Second, I think that we should consider lowering taxes for individuals and businesses. This could encourage investment and consumption.

Finally, I believe that we need to strengthen our international trade agreements. This could help us to expand our markets and increase our exports.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Sincerely yours,

To the Editor:

I have been reading your paper for a long time, and I believe that it is an important source of information.

I would like to comment on a recent article that I found especially interesting.

The article discussed the impact of climate change on our planet, and I believe that it was well-written and informative.

As someone who is concerned about the environment, I think that it is important that we take action to address this issue.

I would like to suggest that we need to invest more in renewable energy sources, such as wind and solar power. This could help us to reduce our dependence on fossil fuels and reduce our greenhouse gas emissions.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely yours,

Mikkola And Roberts Help In Colorado Win

By RICK PIANIN
State News Sports Writer

State's hockey squad pulled off an exciting 4-on-3 overtime victory against Colorado College Saturday night to sweep a five-game series and earn a spot in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association playoffs.

The Terriers solved the Tigers 4-3 Friday night.

The Western was at the heart of the first round of the playoffs, scheduled for Friday and Saturday afternoons.

Two Mikkola and Creamer-Hoff-Williams were both standouts for State in the series. Mikkola scored six goals and gained four assists to turn in an outstanding season. Williams, a senior who played at Colorado College last season, tied for third place in the series with 17 points

Coach Bob Howard had no idea who would emerge from the batters and pitchers’ boxes when his team faced State’s four-game sweep. As the state’s top-ranked team, Howard’s Wolverines had been favored by the media and fans.

Howard was well aware of the challenges the Terriers presented, but he had no idea who would step up to the plate to provide the key blow. He had confidence in his starters, but he also knew that his team was capable of coming through with a win.

The Terriers proved their worth, however, as they emerged victorious over the Wolverines in the final game of the series. Howard was pleased with his team’s performance, noting that they had played well and had taken advantage of the opportunities presented.

Howard’s team finished the season with a record of 17-8, but they were not satisfied with their performance. They knew they could have done better, and they were determined to prove themselves in the upcoming playoffs.

Howard’s team was led by a strong pitching rotation, with six starters vying for the starting nod. Howard was pleased with his team’s depth, as he knew that he could rely on any one of his pitchers to provide the key blow.

The Terriers’ victory over the Wolverines was a testament to their hard work and dedication. They had faced many challenges throughout the season, but they had never given up.

Howard was proud of his team, and he was confident that they would continue to grow and improve. He knew that they had the talent and the ability to compete at the highest level, and he was ready to lead them to victory.

The Terriers were scheduled to face a tough opponent in the next round of the playoffs, but Howard was confident that his team was ready to face the challenge. They had proved their worth in the past, and they knew that they could do it again.

Howard was looking forward to the upcoming playoffs, and he was excited to see what his team could accomplish. He knew that they had the talent and the ability to win, and he was ready to lead them to victory.

The Terriers were ready to take on the challenge, and they were determined to prove themselves in the upcoming playoffs. They were confident in their ability to compete at the highest level, and they were ready to show the world what they were made of.

Save your Camay wrappers and you may win a 21" RCA color TV console! The three-runners-up each get a magnificant portable RCA 19" TV! Any girls' housing unit on campus can enter Camay's Wrapper Saving Contest. If your group is small, don't worry. You'll win on the basis of how many wrappers you save per capita (10 girls who save 100 wrappers will beat 50 girls who save 300 wrappers).

Contest closes May 1, 1965, so start collecting now. And start washing with Camay—the beauty soap with rich cold cream. Even if you don't win the big prize, Camay leaves your skin soft—a pretty good prize in itself.

Here's all you do:
1. Save Camay wrappers (both and Composition size only) in the official mailing cartons provided to each accredited women's housing unit; include the entire wrapper pleated partial wrappers, and facemasks will not be accepted.
2. Mail your accumulated wrappers to Camay, C.P.O., Inc., Spring Park, Minnesota 55382, in the mailing cartons which will serve as your entry blank.
3. Be sure to print plainly, on all cartons mailed, the name and address of your organization. Cartons can be mailed as they are filled and need not be accumulated and all mailed together. All entries must be postmarked by May 1, 1965, and received by May 15, 1965.
4. Winners will be determined on a per capita basis according to official housing unit "census" figures checked by the University as of May 1, 1965; judging will be handled by an independent agency. Decision of the judge is final.
5. Winners will be announced in Camay's advertisement in the Michigan State News on May 20, 1965.
