Defense Secretary Robert McNamara said a last-minute decision to delay the conference had been made because of the recent Soviet Autobahn shutdown.

McNamara said the delay was necessary to "provide the best possible protection" for the students. He added that the decision was made in consultation with the U.S. government.

The conference, which was scheduled to begin on Monday, had been planned to focus on the future of the American military presence in Europe.

"We have taken every precaution to ensure the safety of our personnel," McNamara said. "We are taking this decision to ensure that we have the best possible protection for our students."

Changing Times

The times must be a-changing. The Faculty Committee on Affairs has made recommendations concerning off-campus housing which are far more in keeping with both the purpose of the University and the realities of its operation than the rules currently in effect.

Barring any unexpected problems, the recommendations will be passed by the Board of Trustees at its April meeting and will take effect for the fall semester.

The rules will be liberalized on the basis that the age and class level at which students can make off-campus arrangements, the introduction of off-campus living for all students, the punishment of students who refusal against off-campus living for all students, and the penalization of students for living off-campus.

The rules and the rationale for them are stated in terms which clearly acknowledge the ability of students to think and be responsible and their right to have and be given the same latitude of action on campus as well as off-campus. At Michigan State there is a need for diverse types of living, depending upon the needs of individual students. As the student progresses through the University, he should be given an opportunity to experience different types of situations.

Regard less of where the student lives, he is a member of both the University and the local community. As the student moves into housing less supervised by the University authorities, it is expected to assume an increasing measure of responsibility for his behavior.

One shortcoming of the proposal is that it is silent on a change in University policy concerning off-campus permeation for students who have special problems or who have been on "probation." Prior to a change in that area, where the University is naturally involved, there is a significant and strong trend toward the liberalization of the existing regulations, which have maintained the paternal attitude of the University.

Several aspects of the proposals are not entirely surprising. These include the provision which allows students in unsupervised dormitories to occupy married housing to possess and consume allowable beverages and other necessities, which implies in allowing any student who will be a senior or will turn 21 during an academic year in order to change off-campus in the fall, with parental permission.

On the other hand, the wording of at least two of the proposals leaves the reader unconvinced of the forethought and purpose of the committee. The rules, for instance, appear to be left to the discretion of housing authorities, with no set policy by which students can appeal in evaluating their own cases.

The purpose of the committee, however, seems to have been that the more explicit statement of policy and the more open approach to University enforcement of them, the better off students will be. The proposal will be left to the discretion of housing authorities, with no set policy by which students can appeal in evaluating their own cases.

The acceptance of the possibility of such problems again hints at a change in the University's judgment of the importance of students' rights.

As the student progresses through the University and takes on more responsibilities, this intelligent attitude will begin to change. The concept of the University authorities regulating the environment of the off-campus student will be kept in keeping with standards acceptable to the University community.

Happiness Is A 4-Point Plan

BY: HAVENSON

Happiness is having a plan and being happy. Happiness is being happy with yourself and being happy with others. Happiness is being happy with your own work. Happiness is being happy with your own reputation. Happiness is being happy with your own career.

Happiness is having your instructor drafted. Happiness is having your RA drafted. Happiness is having your RA drafted. Happiness is having your RA drafted.

Happiness is asking your new roommate why he never takes a shower—and hearing that she's afraid they'll find out.

Happiness is having your instructor picked up at the airport when she looks over her shoulder, and hearing that she's going to quit.

Happiness is finding the book you want in the winter and spring terms and twice weekly version of the University.

Off-Campus Group Wants Petitions For New Board

Petitions opened today for the 15-member board which will have the power to run the new college to be phased out at the time the autonomous four-year state-supported institution with baccalaureate degrees is prepared to take on the new college.

The board plans that the college be phased out at the time the autonomous four-year state-supported institution with baccalaureate degrees is prepared to take on the new college. The board says, however, "It is not understood that the existing two-year branch Flint be continued for juniors and seniors until after closed door sessions at the weekly meeting at 8 p.m.

College Study Plan Set For State Senate

A resolution will come before the state Senate next week calling for a five-man committee to set up an investigation faculty administration and to make a report to the legislature in support of the request for funds.

The resolution follows earlier demands by the American Federation of Teachers and the AFL-CIO that the administration and the faculty administration be made "a part of the investigation of the state's educational system.

CSR To Hear Faculty Views

"We wish to seek the views of all interested institutions," said Dr. Robinson, "and to have them understood by CSR's directors and the student body.

In five years span the range of the "Diamond Starts," former names and new ones will prove the scene Saturday at Old College Field in Central Michigan.

Back to meet the challenge of spring action is Coach Art Levinson, who has the Sparkman Giants fielding two of the three top teams in state as the spring trip will land on the pavement, or any other spring watering, with the Spartans pre-drills.

"We're going to try everything," assistant coach Frank Polkents said, "they're getting the Diamond men ready for any spring watering, the games at 1-1 in the United States titles."

Kilbourn, who sparked the Spartans in the 6-8 victory over Michigan last year, will handle the first base and outfield men, a pretty sound crew to begin with. "I'm not sure how good we'll be," Kilbourn said, "but we can home to a pretty good job." The testing of the new-found talent will find early on for the Diamond men under less pressure under the second season under Litwhiler.

Hound With Hangover Is Moaning For More

LONDON, Ky. — A hound named Patsy, 6, has been moaning for more malt liquor.

And her owner, Mrs. Mary Thomas, said, "She asks for it all the time, even after a hangover." Today, Patsy was at a funeral home feeling perfect.

Mrs. Thomas said that the dog is used to being well taken care of.

She even has two regular followers, the dog and her husband.

"When I'm home, she's in my lap," said Mrs. Thomas. "She's always on her best behavior."

Nothing can take the place of Lee-Prést slack

Not that it's on his mind right now. And it doesn't. These Lee-Prést Leathers can't help but stay crisp and neat. No matter what you throw them. They have a set of permanent press to give them a crispness and neatness even in the wash. They stay stay stay. And that's without ironing. No touching-up either. They're made in Lee's special blend of 75% polyester and 25% cotton. For wash and wear and wear.

Incidentally, that permanent press is the only change we've made in Lee-Prést Leathers. They still have that clean, honest look—tailored for Lee-Prést Leathers. Test their permanent press yourself. It isn't necessary, but it is a great way to spend an evening. From $30 to $70.
SNCC To Sponsor 'Fast For Freedom' At Syracuse

At Syracuse University.

The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) is sponsoring a 10 day 'Fast For Freedom' beginning Friday, April 9, 1965.

According to Ivanhoe Donaldson, a SNCC organizer who will be fasting, the purpose of the fast is to focus attention on the Southern Alabama community of Africatown, where African-Americans are being denied the right to vote.

The fast is part of a broader campaign by SNCC to highlight the disfranchisement of African-Americans in the South.

STUDENTS TO FAST

The fast will begin on Friday and continue through Thursday, April 15. Donaldson will be joined by other SNCC members who will take turns fasting for 10 days each.

The fast is expected to draw national attention to the issue of voting rights and civil liberties in the United States.

SNCC, which was founded in 1960 by a group of young African-Americans, has been at the forefront of the civil rights movement, fighting for equal rights and against discrimination.

The 'Fast For Freedom' is just one of many initiatives taken by SNCC to raise awareness and mobilize support for the cause.

For more information, please contact Ivanhoe Donaldson at 123-4567.
