Library—Has It Kept Up With Campus Growth?

By DON SOOKOL

Students have recently been finding that information about the location of the MSU Library has been inadequate. In many cases, the current directory of the library has been so out of date, some students are now having to use the index of the MSU Directory in their search for information. This is due to the fact that the library is growing so rapidly that it is not able to accommodate the needs of 14,000 students. It has space for about 2,000 students, and the existing directory does not show how the growth will be accommodated.

During the past decade, the growth of the library has been so great that it has had to be phased into a new facility. Many students are finding it difficult to locate the new library within the existing directory. This is due to the fact that the library has been expanding so rapidly that it is not able to accommodate the needs of 14,000 students. It has space for about 2,000 students, and the existing directory does not show how the growth will be accommodated.

Formal figures intending to point up the inadequacy of the MSU Library. A diet of facts and figures, although filling, can often be tasteless. To accommodate the needs of 14,000 students, it had space for about 2,000 students, and the existing directory does not show how the growth will be accommodated.
Many Campus Teach-Ins Are Not Serious Debates

Gifs, Grants Total $690,370

Gifts, grants totaling $690,370 were accepted Thursday by MSU's Board of Trustees meeting at Oakland University, East Lansing.

The Board accepted a $30,000 grant from the National Science Foundation to support research by Dr. Robert S. Bandurski, professor of psychology.

Dr. Bandurski's work is in the area of the organization of behavior, functioning of brain areas and attitudes and making research on how attitudes and the variations in them are affected by food and food preferences.

The Board accepted a $59,912 fellowship to support research by Dr. Michael C. O'Connell, professor of biochemistry, and a $43,000 grant for special research by Dr. Leo Katz, professor of botany and plant pathology.

For continued research by Howard Berliner, professor of biochemistry, the Board accepted a $21,000 grant from the United States Army to study the metabolism of vitamin and mineral requirements of microorganisms.

The grants were in fulfillment of the Board's policy of granting financial assistance to faculty members who have been awarded fellowships or grants from other sources.

Walker Hopeful For Viet Nam

MADISON, Wis.—AI. Graham is hopeful that stepped-up aid to South Viet Nam may induce the South Viet Nam government to take steps toward improving relations with the United States, despite the fact that the South Viet Nam government has so far not been receptive to American aid.

More Bombing in Viet Nam

MADISON, Wis.—A military spokesman for the United States and Viet Nam said an attempt was made to bomb railroad yards in the city of Hanoi.

Dr. Rokeach's work is in the area of the organization of behavior, functioning of brain areas and attitudes and making research on how attitudes and the variations in them are affected by food and food preferences.

The old jinx about the eleven-spur team with the up-and-down night-and-night against Michigan State football took to Michigan State baseball this week as coach Bernie LeWandowski’s waggled up the Big Ten win at home.

The Spartans looked impressive yesterday, when a trio of freshman hopefuls, including the first game of a scheduled against Northwestern. They had enough to slip by the Badgers 5-1 in the afternoon on the right pitching of John Keyes.

The same performance put State in a tie for second place at 2-1 in conference, behind Michigan. The Illini are 3-1. After losing two to the Wolverines last week after a brilliant finish in the perfect game.

Laffterfield Doug Detrola stopped the Illini in the seventh inning, as he drove for an easier State having hit the ball to Michigan Northwestern in the ball after hitting two to the Penetrators here.

/KEYES—Doug Detrola, who pitched for the Illini in the seventh inning, scored the only run in the seventh inning on a home run to pull Illinois even at 2-1.

After the Spartans had assumed a 1-0 lead in the fifth, they sailed through the next four frames to win the game.

Geographer Maps Strategy For Stadium Grid Defenses

By JERRY MORTON
State News Sports Writer

Larry Groza's next challenge is to figure out how to predict the future. Groza, who is one of the most respected figures in college football, is working on a project that will use geospatial data to help plan the layout of future stadium expansions. Groza, a former Ohio State Buckeyes punter, is now working with a team of experts at the University of Michigan to develop a new approach to planning stadium grid structures.

Groza's work is part of a larger effort to improve the efficiency and sustainability of stadium construction. The project is being funded by a grant from the National Science Foundation, and it involves using geographic information system (GIS) software to analyze existing stadium layouts and predict future growth patterns.

"We're trying to develop a new way to look at stadium planning," Groza said. "We want to be able to predict how people will use the space in the future, and we want to make sure it's designed to meet those needs."

Local U.N. Vetoes Plebiscite for Africa

An executive action by the Security Council on the African question was taken Friday by a majority vote of nine to two, with the United States and the British United Nations mission voting no. The African nations were not represented by missions to the United Nations.

The action was taken by the Security Council in pursuance of the resolution adopted last week by the Assembly, which provided for a plebiscite on the African question in the United States.

The resolution was adopted by a vote of 53 to 0, with the United States and the British United Nations mission voting no. The African nations were not represented by missions to the United Nations.
