Grads Find Library 'Inadequate'

By COLLEEN D'OBREIN
State News Staff writer

If a graduate student were to write a Ph.D. thesis on the Soviet Union, he should not come to MSU. The library is inadequate.

This is the advice that at least two graduate professors said they have given to several students. Seven sociology professors and other experts in this field. This is the advice that at least two graduate professors said they have given to several students.

Allen, Osterink

Margaret Allen, Cleveland, Ohio, senior and Kappa Alpha Delta, was presented the Outstanding Senior Award at the University of Michigan.

Allen has been president of the senior class and vice president of the council. She was Trophies and Programs chairman for Water Crusier for Pan American Airline, executive secretary of the Contemporary Dance Club and sophomore class president and member of the Kappa Alpha Delta, a Greek sorority.

Osterink has held offices as secretary of the Board of Directors, vice president of the Board of Directors and chairman of the Board of Directors.

Both Allen and Osterink were presented the Outstanding Senior Award at the University of Michigan.

New Power Plant Under Construction

A new power plant will be completed next fall. The new plant will replace the old power plant, which is located on the campus.

The new power plant will be completed in the spring of 1968. The old plant will be dismantled and the new plant will be built.

The new plant will be located on the north side of the campus, near the main entrance.

The new plant will be a modern, efficient facility. It will be capable of generating 40,000 kilowatts of electricity.

The new plant will be designed to meet the needs of the university community. It will be able to supply electricity to the entire campus.

The new plant will be equipped with the latest technology. It will be able to operate in a variety of conditions, including extreme weather.

The new plant will be built by a reputable contractor. The contractor will be responsible for the design, construction, and operation of the new plant.

The new plant will be an asset to the university community. It will provide reliable, efficient, and cost-effective electricity to the campus.

Army Units Seen In South

N. Viet Aggression Cited

WASHINGTON—Tactical and infiltration units of the North Vietnamese Army were reported to have moved into South Vietnam from the north and started a new phase of the conflict on Sunday.

This is the first time since the U.S. withdrawal from South Vietnam that such units have been visible in South Vietnam.

The move was confirmed by the South Vietnamese government, which said that the North Vietnamese Army had moved into South Vietnam from the north and started a new phase of the conflict.

Where Have All The Flames Gone?

Remember the procedure for effecting rules changes in the University? It's simple.

You go through a committee, or maybe through a subcommittee and then a committee and a set of recommendations based on research and opinion polls. In the case of a committee, you go through the faculty on student affairs, whose chairman is Charles W. Tikemeyer.

When the committee is satisfied, it recommends to President John A. Hannah, who takes them to the Board of Trustees. The trustees, on their own, everyone seems to think, have the final say.

Last term, through a series of traumatic confrontations of opinion, the University braced itself for a change in off-campus housing rules, to be passed upon formally by the Board of Trustees.

A news story in the State News March 11 said, "Any recommendations (including subcommittee) will go to President John A. Hannah, then to the Board of Trustees."

The editorial dated an editorial, entitled, "Concerning the housing rules change..."

"After the parent committee discusses them tonight, any recommendations for change will be put forth through further investigation, passage by the committee, the president's office and finally to the Board of Trustees. The president...emphasized...makes all changes in rules...the committee's recommendations..."

We believed that then.

April 3, a news story quoted Tikemeyer as saying the recommendations that the Committee on Student Affairs had just approved would probably be accepted by the Board of Trustees. Again, the trustees were making the decision.

The next day, our editorial was headlined "Changing Times." It noted the recommendations and, about the recommendations, "Barring any unexpected problems, the recommendations will be passed by the Board of Trustees at its April meeting, and will be university policy in time for next fall.

We still believed it.

Last Thursday, the Board of Trustees met at Oakland University, and the Housing Committee discussions were discussed at the formal meeting. The housing recommendations were not among them.

The housing rules came up for discussion, but informally at a luncheon after the meeting. The trustees "informally accepted" the changes. They must have decided earlier not to veto the Board of Trustees' recommendations, which would have required formal discussion.

Then, the question: Who made the decision to change the housing rules? Was it the trustees, as we supposed along with you, or the Board of Trustees?

The trustees "informally accepted" the changes. They must have decided earlier not to veto the Board of Trustees' recommendations, which would have required formal discussion.

John Benington, Michigan State's new baseball coach, held his first press conference Monday and appeared to be a serious, confident professional, eager to embark on a critical job.

The day before, at a banquet with new men's basketball club, he had made the statement that "he would not get caught up in the 'five-year plan'" and Monday's conference made it clear that Benington's interest in his new job is genuine and strong.

"I'm not thinking about two or five years from now, but I'm thinking about what we have done," he said Monday, and told the players present they knew what he meant.

Benington is already caught up in the time-consuming job of recruiting and he is responsible for more of the work left unflattened at his former school, St. Louis.

"We still have to carry out some chores in St. Louis, and I am really looking into now," he said.

Furthermore, Benington already had a kind of national clientele, but he stated that he would continue a blending of the serious and the humorous at a press conference Monday, He is flanked by athletic director Biggie Munn, left, and John Fuzak, dean of studenants.
