Snags In Viet Protest

The MSU Committee for Peace in Vietnam is running into several snags in its plans to march from the campus to the state capitol in Lansing. The students were told by the state's attorney general that they cannot make speeches at the capitol.

The students plan to request another parade permit at least twice a week in advance of the demonstration. Perhaps they will also request the permit for a less busy day of the week.

This should eliminate both reasons the Council gave for denying the permit Monday night. We suspect that the Council may have denied the permit simply because it does not want a demonstration in Lansing during a state legislative session. We hope this is not the case and that the council will see that the request for a parade permit when it comes before them a second time.

Point Of View

Greeks Houses Should Reveal Racial Biases

By Dave Stewart

If someone ever asks me where I was when the great causes of mankind were on the march, I would hate to say that beastly Michigan State University. And it's a fact that the MSU chapter of the NAACP, the Canterbury Club, a student civil rights organization, was one of the groups that was denied permission to march from the campus to the state capitol.

I wish that a few students would stop to think how ridiculous they look when they refuse to allow the above groups to make speeches in the capitol. If they could read the disapproving faces on the faces of the speakers and the malcontent look in the eyes of the students, they would realize how ridiculous they look, just as I do.

Marchers Will Bring Change

To the Editor:

I would like to thank both the Michigan State University students and the students of the University of Michigan for all the support you have given me during these 24 years and during my 48-year period of study. I have always been a great believer in the power of the people and the power of the students, and this has always been evident in my work as an organizer and as a leader in the movement for world peace.

Unfortunately, the United States is not a nation of peace and the power of the students is not always evident in our country. However, the students of both universities have been a great inspiration to me and I am grateful for all the support I have received.

Only A Few Care About Their Society

By Edited

In every society there are a few people who care about the problems of their society and who are willing to do something about them. I believe that these people are truly great people, but unfortunately they are not the majority.

Dirty Tennis

Make A Picket!

To the Editor:

Editor's "Post of Duty" by H. P. Martin, was a very interesting article. However, I think that the students who are involved in the activities you mention are not doing enough to make a difference. If they are truly concerned about the issues they mention, they should do more than just write editorials.

Blood Drive Permission Slip

CONSULT AND TELLING FOR' PERSONS UNDER 21 YEARS OF AGE

If CSR can lure a few students away from the sun deck, it will have served its purpose. As long as the best are in control, everything is fine. There have been many types of people to be proud of. When we have a library to fit the needs of all students, we will have a better sense of what we are working for.

Good Causes Must Be Chosen With Care

By Larry Tate

To the Editor:

One of the most important things we can do is to support good causes. We must be careful to choose the right causes and to support them in a way that is truly beneficial. If we support causes that are not truly beneficial, we will only be causing more harm.

A host of factors have combined to deflate the Spartans. Not the least of these is the fact that "spring time" has been here for a month or more, and the team is ready to get playing. The Spartans are full of pep, but they haven't been able to turn it into wins.

"We've had our chances, but we've let them slip away," Litwiler said. "We've played well, but we've also played badly. It's been a mixed bag so far."

Water Carnival Judging

Floats Compared On Basis Of Nightly 100-Point Scale

"We did the Ten-Bash contest in order to see how 'Floating Ideas' were interpreted," said the 14 judges. "And we didn't try to force the creators to think like us."

The 100 points, awarded based on a standard set of specifications, are divided among the following factors:

- Visual effect: 35 points
- Construction: 25 points
- Creative use of theme: 20 points
- Mechanical complexity: 15 points
- Performing arts: 5 points

These factors are based on the creators' opinions on the exhibit. The judges are familiar with the mechanics involved in the construction of the exhibit. These points are based on the exhibit's creativity and how well those ideas are related to their theme.

Study Planned Of Culture Lack

"A lot of the people I talked to were actually interested in the new lingo," said one of the judges. "And we didn't try to force the creators to think like us."

"We didn't try to force the creators to think like us. We just wanted to see how well they could use their ideas to create something unique," said another judge.

Deposed Dominican President Interviewed

"I was deposed because I refused to give in to the pressures of the Left," the former president said.

Some of the judges were surprised by the amount of creativity that went into creating the exhibits. "We were amazed by the amount of creativity that went into creating the exhibits," said one of the judges.

"I understand the theme of each exhibit," said the former president. "I was deposed because I refused to give in to the pressures of the Left."

- Three Military Units
- The Viet Cong are divided into three types of military units. In the top are the main bases, crack troops infiltrated from China and provided with arms and equipment by the North Vietnamese, who are estimated to number 45,000, about equally divided between North and South. In the middle are the main bulk of the Viet Cong, estimated to number 80,000 to 90,000, about equally divided between North and South. The fact that these are not main bases is evidenced by the Viet Cong attacks from 1954 onward.
