Timidity And Doubletalk

The Student Board’s reluctance to discriminate in off-campus housing provides one explanation for the civil rights demonstrations which other students are staging in the streets of East Lansing.

In a meeting which would do credit to any more experienced bureaucrats, the Board killed a move to investigate discrimination in organized living units such as fraternities and sororities.
The Board’s minority member committee of all power to investigate discrimination in supervised living units such as apartments and rooming houses. It reduced the committee to two members and directed it to “study University policy” before taking further action.

PRESIDENTS OF THE INTRAFRATERNITY AND PAN-RELIGIOUS COUNCILS soberly pointed out that Greek organizations are not permitted to discriminate according to race color, creed, religion, national origin.

What official policy permits and what actually happens can be two different things. Of course. Discrimination in unorganized living quarters has brought many complaints.

But seriously...

Wheat Czechs
Rice Czechs

By DON SOCOLO

Recently, a new emphasis has been placed on the use of grain crops and the trade and commerce of these crops in East Lansing.

These grains have been very successful in East Lansing and are expected to continue to be so. They are being prepared for export to other countries.

The future of wheat and rice in East Lansing seems very bright. They are expected to continue to be prominent in the East Lansing area.

LETTER

One Man, One Vote, One Heart

To The Editor:

Most citizens have been disheartened by the recent findings in the government’s report on the voting rights amendment.

In order to encourage greater participation in the electoral process, the government has decided to adopt a new policy of one man, one vote, one heart.

This policy will ensure that every citizen has an equal voice in deciding the fate of their country.

Pledge Quits Because Of Discrimination

To The Editor:

I am amazed indeed to read the recent findings of the Commission on Discrimination in the Greek system of higher education.

This commission’s findings paint a bleak picture of the Greek system’s discriminatory practices.

I am writing to express my strong objection to this commission’s findings and to urge the Greek system to take action to rectify these discriminatory practices.

The Greek system must acknowledge and address the discrimination that exists within its ranks.

Thanks to the Shah’s 60,000-man secret police force and his huge army, the threat of an Arab invasion is ever present.

But unfortunately this revenue, together with foreign aids and the revenue from indirect taxes (which have been frozen) is being invested in the oil industry in Iran.

The Iranian oil revenue, if appropriated to the economic development of the country, is able to bring economic prosperity to Iran.

In Iran, demanding constitutional rights, an end to dictatorial government is able to bring economic prosperity to Iran.

The Iranian government is striving to improve the living conditions of its citizens.

The government is working to improve the living conditions of its citizens.

Garrett Sparks Trackmen In Conference Win

IOWA CITY, Iowa—56 in '65.

That summed up the picture here Friday and Saturday for the Michigan State Spartans as they won the Big Ten track championships, setting a conference record as well as a number of varsity marks and earning a team effort which proved worthy of the title.

The Spartans accumulated 56 points in their victory, followed by Michigan at 43 and Wisconsin, the defending champ, at 41, trailed by the top three Iowa and Minnesota—49 each; Northwestern—10; Illinois—9; Northwestern and Nebraska—6 and 5 respectively.

The title comes more than the importance of being champ marked the first time that a track team has brought Big Ten glory back to East Lansing since Michigan State accumulated the conference in 1949.

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Before this season's baseball series between Indiana and Ohio State, coach Don Cliett had said winning a game in the Big Ten was easier than winning two.

But that doesn't make him any happier. He will be working to stretch Sonny's legs, to bend Sonny's back and to roll him forward.

If he were grown-up about these things, he wouldn't have as much to do as he does, because Sonny's still a kid. He takes the same things seriously.

And, when the ugly bear comes creeping on the campus, they'll have to be ready to fight or run. But that's only if he thinks he has the bear off his back. He's got the risk of being without worrying too much.
