The Rise (And Fall?) Of Student Board

Student apathy is back with us, despite the igniting process MSU went through earlier this year installing a student government designed to encourage participation.

The Student Board system of government comprising ASMSU was formed to give student power and authority to student government. The common complaint was that it was too hard to get things done, and make student government a detached, overly disinterested group. So ASMSU devised ways to bring more students in.

Today's open forum with the board was meant to be an example of how students could communicate with their elected appointees and otherwise qualified leaders. It was to be an introduction of direct democracy into a public system's supposedly authoritarian form of government.

It turned out instead to be proof that students "could care less." There were 14 members of Student Board present Sunday, but only six or seven bothered to show up. Nothing was accomplished.

This happened at the time when MSU is going through its greatest civil rights crisis to date. ASMSU has been praised anew by the president of the University as an effective body. When expansion, academic and extracurricular pressures are tremendous, other topics are pertinent for discussion.

Something is wrong, and it's not Student Board's fault.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Progress Or Impatience?

To the Editor:

"I received a copy of the new student newspaper you mentioned in your column. It's only a test edition, but I'm very impressed with how well it's put together. The layout is clean and the articles are well written. I think it's a great start for a new student newspaper and I hope it continues to improve."

Civilization -- And Its Lack

To the Editor:

The characteristics of a civilized society in the ability of its citizens to understand and respect differences. The lack of understanding and respect for differences is evident in East Lansing. Despite the concerted efforts of municipal authorities in providing for the rights and freedoms of all individuals, we cannot ignore the fact that there still exists much misunderstanding and prejudice.

It is unfortunate that such misunderstanding and prejudice exist in this day and age. This lack of understanding can only be overcome through education and exposure to different cultures and beliefs. For this purpose, MSU should take the initiative in providing opportunities for students to learn about other cultures and beliefs. By doing so, we can help to create a more understanding and tolerant society.

The Great Influx

By DON SOCCOL

Since the nationalized creation of the NSF (National Science Foundation) until now, our society has been inundated with new educational opportunities for students. These opportunities have been varied and numerous, ranging from scholarships and fellowships to research grants and faculty positions.

However, despite these developments, it is clear that there is still a need for more support and resources to be devoted to education. Many students are still unable to afford the costs associated with higher education, and the availability of scholarships and fellowships is limited.

It is important that we continue to advocate for increased funding and support for education, so that all students have the opportunity to pursue their academic goals. Only then can we truly say that we are creating a more equitable society for all Americans.
Willard Wirtz told Congress Monday that state job and cause disruptive industrial competition laws should be wiped out by repealing the section of federal labor laws that permits them. "The argument that union shop agreements violate the rights of individual employees must be abandoned," he said.

Lafayette Picks MSU Over UCLA

By LARRY MOOG
State News Sports Writer

By selecting the Spartans for its final pick in the national basketball tournament, the Sportster has now correctly picked 16 of the 20 games in its weekly predictions.

Lafayette's prediction of Michigan State's victory in the championship game was foiled by the Spartans' loss to UCLA in the title game of the NCAA tournament.

Lafayette said it picked Michigan State because the Spartans had a better record and a stronger schedule than UCLA.

"I think Michigan State is a better team than UCLA," Lafayette said. "They have a lot more experience and a lot more depth."

Jazz Musicians Play
To Benefit the Blind

Local jazz musicians will play tonight to raise funds for the Michigan State University Blind Students Association.

The performance will be held at 8 p.m. at the Golf-O-rama, East Lansing. The proceeds will go to buy tape recorders for the University's blind students.

The jazz groups that will perform include the Steve Bergman Trio and Jim Kot and his Sextet.

T he Deputy' Opens Today

By FAYE E. UNGER

Tuesday. May 25. 1965

Production of 'The Deputy,' a play often interpreted as condemning the Pope's silence in the massacre of the Jews and eventually carrying a protest to Rome in an attempt to persuade church officials to act, will open at 8 tonight in the Playhouse.

The Play is held to dramatize this question of how man can continue to exist in a world where Jews and eventually carried man to Rome in an attempt to persuade church officials to act.

The play focuses rather on the conscience of a man, Thomas, East Lansing graduate of the University, who has decided to return home four years after he left college to join the fight against the Nazi's.

The play will run in the Arena Theatre through Saturday and to McDonell on Monday.
