LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor,

I have heard many upperclassmen express concern over the number of students who come to campus each贻t to take courses in the Department of International Relations and the College of Business, which I am sure is disturbing to many students and faculty alike. It seems, however, that the most common complaint in this regard is that the number of students is too high and that the faculty is too small.

Four Crises Seen

India now emerges from four crises since the death of Nehru and the election of the president in the national election, the press reported yesterday. They are the economic, the political, the social, and the religious crises. These crises are not, however, the only ones that can be identified in India. There are other crises that can be identified in India, such as the cultural, the educational, and the environmental crises.

Student Role Redefined

College administrations have been debating the role of the student in the educational process. Some administrators believe that the student should be given a greater role in helping to run the university. Others believe that the student role should be limited to simply paying fees and attending classes.

Student Position in the Educational Process

The educational process in most universities is not the same today as it was twenty years ago. The role of the student has changed significantly over the years. Today, the student is not only a passive participant in the educational process, but also an active participant. The student is expected to be involved in the decision-making process and to have a say in the direction of the educational institution.

The Importance of Student Involvement

Student involvement in the educational process has become increasingly important in recent years. The student has a right to have a say in the development of the curriculum and the selection of the faculty. The student has a right to be involved in the decision-making process and to have a voice in the direction of the educational institution.
PHI DELTA KAPPA HEAR CHAIRMAN

Higher Education Problems Outlined

The new chairman of the Department of Airplane Research and Higher Education Problems outlined Friday at the annual meeting of the Department at Michigan State University. Donald Shaw, president of the Department, said that the problems of education are more complex than ever before. "The older generation had to face the question of how to get people to read," Shaw said. "Now we have to face the question of how to get people to read." "Education has become a major industry," he added. "It is no longer a matter of how to get people to read, but how to make them think."

Infant Killed, 8 Injured, as Car Hits Parked Tractor

An 11-month-old child was killed and 8 persons injured Monday morning when their car hit a farm tractor parked on Hagadorn Rd. early Monday morning. The accident occurred at 3:05 a.m. at the intersection of Hagadorn Rd. and the MSU Sailing Club property. Donald Pazan was pronounced dead on arrival at Sparrow Hospital. They are Maxy Lou Pazan, 26, the boy's mother; Ronald Pazan, 25, of 1322 W. Michigan Ave., Grand River Ave.; and one four-place plane at $11 per hour.

The tractor was illegally parked on the side of the road and action may be taken against a driver. The tractor had been used by the MSU Sailing Club for work on land he owned, according to the tractor's owner, John Cote, of East Lansing. The boy was thrown about 90 feet when his car hit the tractor, according to the tractor's owner.

Com Arts Institute Includes Theater, Debate, Journalism

High school and college students from eight states will publish in "The Spartan," a newspaper which is part of the summer's Communications Arts Institute, which began June 20 and ended July 16.

The Institute is sponsored by Michigan State University. The total cost for operating the Institute for six weeks is $50,000.

Over 600 students are expected at the three two-week sessions in an unprecedented third session. Four hundred students are attending the third of 12 different courses. The proportion of students attending each of the two-week sessions giving high marks for the programs is 94.

Faculty members conduct classes in printed and duplicated newspapers, yearbook editing, TV and radio, theater and debate. Many of the students who attend high school newspaper and newspaper editing, acting, theatre, and debate are participating by their local newspapers, radio stations or civic groups.

Water Shortage ‘No Problem’

There is little chance that East
- Lansing will suffer a serious
- water shortage this summer
- the city is being experienced in the
- last several years. The city has
- during the summer. But still
- New York has had to stop
- contractor to do this for
- city, to save water. In New
- York state, people have had
- to stop using water supplies for
- watering. East Lansing, however,
- will continue to use water.

Operators Don't Have Answers

With all their many problems the
- MSU operators are very happy and close group. There are
- six operators and all year long are man­
