Verdict Is Rendered: Protection Falls Short

WILLIAM M. SMITH, a former MSU student, told the Michigan Civil Rights Commission at a hearing last week of his experience as a victim of newspaper accounts which he said violated his civil rights. Smith, an East Lansing realtor, named him as the complainant in a case involving racial discrimination in housing.

SMITH SAID he dropped his charge of discrimination against Richard C. Clacherty, an East Lansing realtor, because of newspaper accounts that he had lost two jobs regardless of whether a complainant in the housing cases involved. "You're colored," Clacherty admitted at the hearing. "You're colored."

CLEANING HOUSE?

CLEANING HOUSE? is one of those little realities of life which the civil rights section of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission has in common with the complaint in a case involving racial discrimination in housing.

IT IS difficult to imagine an employer firing a Negro or white who has never been accused of discrimination before unless you consider the state scroll of criminal records. And you would seem to be in a matter of further legislation. The Michigan Civil Rights Commission continues investigating civil rights cases regardless of whether a complainant in the housing cases involved.

ongoing Schools Eliminate Failure, Need Understanding

Failing a youngster in the first grade is about failure, comments Dr. Raymond M. Collier, a Michigan State University specialist in educational development.

But much hinges upon the failure being a nongraded one, Collier believes. And nongraded schools have a brand new relevance for educators today.

"There is an increasing realization that failure in the traditional grades is almost criminal," says Collier.

The schools are an important part of the problem, he adds, and the answer to the failure is the nongraded concept.

"In a nongraded school," he explains, "it is not failure to repeat a grade, but just repeating the necessary training in that part of the curriculum where a child's weaknesses are obvious.

"The child is not 'failed.' "

Collier is director of the Michigan State University Cooperative Research Program in the area of nongraded education. The program, begun 10 years ago, has involved 15 schools in the state, as well as other national efforts in Chicago, New York City, and the District of Columbia.

In Van Dyke's "level system," grades are eliminated. A child is placed where he can do his best work. He is taken out of the grade system, states Collier, and is working in an atmosphere where he is free to develop his individual educational growth.

"In a nongraded school," he explains, "it is not failure to repeat a grade, but just repeating the necessary training in that part of the curriculum where a child's weaknesses are obvious.

"The child is not 'failed.' "

Collier notes a serious human problem in the failure system, which rewards students for the grade level they reach, allowing them to advance to the next grade level, even though they have not mastered the material.

"The child is not 'failed.' "

Collier expresses belief that the nongraded concept will eventually catch on. He warns of possible pitfalls in the current "leveling" system.

"It is not a fad. If it becomes a fad, with more students being turned away from schools and into non-traditional learning, then it is in the wrong direction," he says.

"The child is not 'failed.' "

Collier says the "level system" is not a fad. "It is a concept that has been around for over 50 years, and its time has come," he concludes.

For the students, Mrs. Nell Henderson, Van Dyke's principal, reports a recent survey of the nongraded school's success, he points out, depends on accompanying changes in curriculum.

The concept of the "level system" was born in Van Dyke in 1961, when Mrs. Henderson's son was in the first grade.

FORESTY SENIORS SPEND SUMMER IN NORTH WOODS

The annual 10-week session is held at Camp Dunbar, or, the St. Mary’s River, 17 miles south of Sault Ste. Marie, for the woods department head for the woods learning experience, James McCollum, said.

"There are also pages for telecommunication," James McCollum continued. A large brick school building that was donated in 1910 he donated most of it to the university for forestry and wildlife research. The property was unused for three years and was deeded to the university in 1921, but the enrollment was small. About half of the time is spent on delivery positions. The men develop a forest management plan, and are attending the summer camp. This year 42 forestry seniors are attending the summer camp. The summer board of the American Federation of Musicians met at Kellogg Center Wednesday and Thursday as the Congress of Strings convention on the business of the union between the annual national meetings. Their decisions will be published in the September issue of the union magazine.

The union sponsors and gives scholarships for the Congress of Strings, and has held the camp. The Congress of Strings supports and endorses the special talent in art education, and the interest of youth in the arts.

Refuse Operation Down in Dumps

The load-luggers, into which the load-luggers are unloading the last carload of household garbage taken to a sanitary land-fill east of campus on Dawn Avenue near the Red Cedar River, are dumping. One of the biggest drawbacks to this season is the time lost by the men in traveling to a distant dump.

"We feel that the summer camp is a great chance to get the feel of the woods," McCollum said, "and this chance to do some worthwhile work to be published. "We have great hopes for the magazine," Miss McCollum added, "it is not expensive and there will be more work to be published."

Calendar Now On Sale

The calendars, Miss McCollum said, are serving in" Zeitgeist has no connection to this system."

She said that the charge for the magazine will be $2. Contributions will not be paid.

"This year the magazine will come out once a term. "We feel that the magazine will be important to the student concerned with arts and letters," she said.

There are also pages for telephone directories, and a demonstration area for the wildest sweaters. This magazine, "Zeitgeist," will come out once a term. Miss McCollum in 106 International Center, is in charge of the magazine.

For those interested, some advice in the magazine, "Zeitgeist," is in charge of the magazine. The magazine will be printed in "Zeitgeist," Box 150, East Lansing. Study Strain Ends Soon For Widow, Her 5 Children

"When a woman," a neighbor of Mrs. Zoe Piatt said, "I can't imagine how she did it.

"Mrs. Piatt is a widow with five children, living on a very small income. She lost her husband in a car accident.

"But she never even mentioned it. She didn't even say, 'I'm going to have to go to work.' She just did it, and she did it well.""}

"She works 12 hours a day, five days a week. She's a nurse, a cook, a maid, a housekeeper. She does it all."}

"She's a credit to the city," a neighbor said. "She's the kind of woman who makes you feel like you're worth something."
... and to celebrate the occasion we offer the following for your pleasure

Meet WJIM's DJ's on Wednesday
