TRAFFIC CONTROL HEADACHE

70,000 Small Problems

By Jerry Dykstra
State News Sports Writer

The problems posed when 70,000 fans and 17,000 cars are in the vicinity of Spartan Stadium during football games are as close to being solved as possible, according to Richard Bernitt, head of the Department of Public Safety.

To keep a smooth flow of traffic, Bernitt's department employs 28 campus police officers and some 75-to-110 MSU students. In addition 45 off-duty Lansing policemen are stationed inside the stadium to help control the crowd before, during and after the game.

In order to keep a close eye on the traffic, Michigan State police have their center of operation in the upper west side of the stadium. From that vantage point, traffic flow can be watched over with an eagle eye.

But the Department of Public Safety even goes further to ensure a safe, rapid flow of traffic through the use of an airplane.

Although the volume of traffic varies from game to game, it generally takes at least 45 minutes to clear the campus of congestion after a Saturday game. Numerous traffic signs are posted on the days of the games to assist the driver in locating his correct exit route.

"The best advice to give spectators is to arrive early and avoid the rush," said Bernitt. "The earlier spectators come, the closer to the stadium they will be able to park."

The parking pattern at games can be likened to the ripples in a pond, caused by the dropping of a stone. The stadium represents where the stone is dropped. Cars are parked around the stadium in layers, thus the rippling affect.

Bernitt also suggests that spectators parking in the commuter lot should use the bus to go back and forth from the stadium to their cars. This route will be taken by the commuter lot buses and no other traffic. Important facts that this service not only helps to relieve traffic congestion, but also saves the time and energy of the fans.

The weather must also be taken into consideration when planning traffic control procedures. On especially wet days, cars cannot be parked on the soggy turf, so parking must be put into use a lot further from the stadium.

So far, Bernitt and his department are satisfied with the way their traffic plan has worked so far. If you doubt its efficiency, take a look around Saturday and see how they handle the crowd for the Ohio State game.

Activities Carny Entertainers Set

A local jazz combo and a folk-singing group will entertain at "It's What's Happening, Activities Carnival '65," set for Thursday at Spartan Stadium.

Entertaining will be Roadside Table and the Litter Barrels, a folk-singing group, and a jazz combo from the West Circle Jazz Society, said Howie Wilchins, Paterson, N.J., senior and chairman of AMUS's carnival committee.

Any club or organization on campus wishing to set up a booth or display at the carnival should contact Wilchins at 353-2966 between 3 and 5 p.m. daily. Applications for a display may be obtained at 334 Student Services.

It's about that sweet smell of success.

It's a heavy season at first, gradually tapers off until there's nothing left but a trace.

It's a popular season, too, and unfortunately, there's a limited supply available. Hence, it's given one in one lump sum to the victor emerging from the Midwestern Wars.

This present-day installment of the War of the Roses has but one symbol, but there are ten armies fighting for it. And, if the victor emerging from the Midwestern Wars.

There are ten armies fighting for it. And, if the victor emerging from the Midwestern Wars.

The Big Ten race is shaping up into another traditionally tight battle, Michigan State leads the pack along with Northwestern, tied for the top spot with 2-0 marks.

On the deficit side, Michigan, defending Rose Bowl and Big Ten champs, owns an 0-1 mark, while Illinois, Indiana and Ohio State, tied for the top spot with 2-0 marks. Michigan State last week, scored halfback Jim Dwyer and guard Paul Keating are both out for the season with knee trouble.

It's the fifth week of football. The halfway point. The turning point for most teams. The big week in the Big Ten.

The Michigan State News, East Lansing, Michigan 3
Ohio State is back in town. The Buckeyes are slated to roar into Spartanville sometime around noon today with taskmaster Woody Hayes in command.

After an "exhibition" disaster to North Carolina and another near-disaster against Washington, Ohio State was up to its old tricks against conference foe Illinois last week, trampling over the Illini like a herd of berserk buffaloes. Illinois didn't have a chance, as Hayes sent his power backs charging over the Illini and the goal-line. The final score was 28-14, and Woody accomplished the trick in his bull-headed, run-them-into-the-ground fashion.

Hayes beamed a rare smile after the Illini game and soothed, "This was more like home." Hayes is expected to continue his round-eating tactics against State.

Both teams are ambitious this season. The Spartans are 4-0 overall and 2-0 in the Big Ten, while the Buckeyes are 1-0 in the Big Ten.

A capacity crowd, hovering around the 76,000 mark, will fill the seats and corners of Spartan Stadium for this one Saturday. Don't expect any nonsense from Woody, it will be the typical Buckeye ball-kicking.

Tom Barrington, who has played nearly every position in the Buckeye backfield sometimes in his three year career, packs plenty of power into his 208 pounds. Against Illinois Barrington led the ball 32 times for 179 yards.

Willard Sanders is another power back while halfback 'Bo' Rein relies on speed, which simply means he carries the ball only once or twice in a game.

Ohio State has experienced quarterback in the person of Don Unverferth. The 6-1 senior has thrown the ball with accuracy this season, completing 26 of 53 passes; all but 11 of those came in the two non-conference games.

Tight end Greg Lashutka and halfback 'Bo' Rein are Unverferth's pet targets when he does throw.

The Buckeyes have scored strengths in defense. Linebackers Bev Kelley and Tom Briel and tackles Bill Hidder and Doug Van Haren have a vulnerable defense, supposedly one of the best in the Big Ten.

While the visitors lean to the running game, State tends to a more versatile attack with combinations of passing and running.

Bob Apisa, a non-starter, and Clint Jones are the guts of the Buckeyes.

Gilliam's Glove Stops Key Play In LA Win

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (UPI)—The champagne-toasting Los Angeles Dodgers agreed to a man that Jim Gilliam's diving stop of Zoilo Versalles grounder in the fifth inning Thursday was the deciding play of the World Series. "I was getting a little shaky in the fifth and sixth innings," admitted Sandy Koufax, who shut out the Minnesota Twins for the second time. "Then Gilliam made that play and that made the difference. In the last two innings I got my rhythm back and felt as strong or stronger than I had all day." Manager Walt Alston of the Dodgers also voted for Gilliam as the man who delivered the decisive play. But he said he did not think he would have taken Koufax out of the game if (continued on page 7)

Watch for the "Snap Snafu" in Saturday's game

This play is sure to surprise the Ohio State Eleven. It requires some skillful faking however... The center takes the snap to the Quarter back who fakes back to pass a ball he doesn't have, the defensive line charges thru in pursuit finding itself on the wrong side of the ball as theWarcenter scrambles down the field, unobstructed for another MSU touchdown. (Shades of Michigan!)

Another Big Surprise...
Another big surprise is awaiting you at the Big Ten Club at Gold-O-Tron. Spartans and Buckeyes will gather there after the game to listen and dance to the Rock & Roll act of the Band from Uncle and rehash the MSU victory. You'll be surprised to see the many changes made inside, everything is bigger, newer and better and the music is GREAT!

rushing game. Aplsa will be out to keep his touchdown streak intact, having scored in all four games this fall. The sophomore has reached all of his scores on runs of more than 20 yards. Jones is the workhorse of the backfield and probably State's most versatile offensive performer. The Cleveland junior has scored 200 yards in 58 rushes and hauled in 11 passes.

Dwight Low, who saw more work last week against Michigan, will be at left half. Eddie Cotton will start at fullback.

Steve Juday will handle the signal calling chores. He'll keep a watchful eye on pass partner Gene Washington out on the flanks. Washington, a Junior, is off to another fine start with 17 grabs for 236 yards.

SYRACUSE over Penn State—The Orangemen are about as predictable as a Michigan weather forecast, but Ben Schwartzwalder will have his clansmen as high as a kite for this Eastern family feud. Besides, a "little lesson" goes a long ways.

LSU over Kentucky—The Wildcats are restless, and LSU's famed defense seems to have evaporated. But I always thought Kentucky was a basketball school. Kentucky fried chicken for the Tigers by Saturday night.

Northwestern over Wisconsin—Matt Frutha's Badgers will have a bad time to remember the pain of the Nebraska buttngering at last week. Both are 1-0 in conference play, but it's time for the Badgers to start their backslide into the Big Ten basement.

Bloomington over Indiana—and that's putting it mildly. The Illini will be in a bad mood after taking it on the chin from MSU and Ohio State on consecutive Saturdays. The Hoosiers won't stop Jim Grabowski either.

Iowa over Minnesota—The Hawkeyes are headed for an upset, and it will put the Gophers in a hole, since they haven't reached the peak the football writers had mapped out for him this year. Let's hope he's on against Minnesota Saturday, and costs off by the time the Iowa-MSU game comes around.

Purdue over Michigan—Purdue will be too Griese for the Wolverine defensive eleven to handle. When the mighty fall, they fall fast and hard. Others will knock the chip off Michigan's shoulders before the '65 campaign is through.

MICHIGAN STATE over Ohio State—It might be too much to ask, but what the heck, I'd give up all my Christmas gifts to have things come true, here. After bopping off the Elliott brothers, I can't think of a better thing to do, than take Woody Hayes and Ohio State down a notch.

Missouri over UCLA—Missouri has the backs, the UCLAmen have the defense. With Charlie Brown, Gary Lane and Johnny Roland in one backfield, Bruin's beware. The Tigers are pointing to their grudge battle with Nebraska.

Texas over Arkansas—What happens when two winning teams collide head-on—usually one has to give ground. There will be no joy in Fayetteville, the mighty Razorbacks will strike out. Texas will hand Arkansas its first loss in 16 straight games.

Stanford over Southern California—Maybe the Injuns were always the real good guys and historians just pulled the wool over our eyes all this time. Stanford will catch up to Trojan speedster Mike Garrett.
Motiff can sit in the press box and control the tempo at which the band will play each piece of music. It is the responsibility of the drum major to give the tempo for each piece with four short taps. As Falcone puts it, "The drum major is a young person, not a sensitive musician, and most likely has other things on his mind. Occasionally he doesn't get the right tempo."

To set the proper beat Motiff types a half dollar on the short wave transmitter. This lets the drum major know exactly what piece to set for the band. Once the number has begun, however, it is impossible to change the tempo via the radio transmitter.

This system is also useful for transmitting verbal instructions from Motiff to the drum major in numbers.

So far the electronic communication has not had any breakdowns or mishaps, but there is one drawback, according to Sam O'Malley. The receiver in his shako makes his hat lopsided.

Another innovation of the MSU marching band, MSU's "Patterns in Motion," has caused a change in the routine of bands throughout the country. In this pattern of marching style, band members on the field interpret the music in the form of shifting, geometric patterns. Motiff must prepare a special musical arrangement for each piece, and then set complete marching instructions.

The band, in turn, must learn the various dancing steps and fancy footwork that go with Motiff's arrangements.

This work starts for the band members some 2-1/2 weeks before classes begin, and continues with practices six days a week during the football season. What is the reward for all of the hard work?

"The reward," Falcone said, "is to belong to an organization which excels in its work. It gives the band members a great pride and satisfaction in the work they do. To know that the University student body is proud of them is a great reward."

Ford Motor Company is:

\[ \text{responsibility} \]

A key dimension of any job is the responsibility involved. Graduates who join Ford Motor Company find the opportunity to accept responsibility early in their careers. The earlier the better. However, we know the transition from the academic world to the business world requires training. Scholastic achievement must be complemented by a solid understanding of the practical, day-to-day aspects of the business. That is the most direct route to accomplishment.

Stephen Jaeger, of the Ford Division's Milwaukee District Sales Office, is a good example of how it works. His first assignment, in January, 1963, was in the Administrative Department where he had the opportunity to become familiar with procedures and communications between dealerships and the District Office.

In four months he moved ahead to the Sales Planning and Analysis Department where he had the opportunity to become familiar with procedures and communications between dealerships and the District Office.

As a growth company in a growth industry, Ford Motor Company offers an exceptionally wide spectrum of job opportunities. The chances are good as sales, finance, advertising, customer relations and business management. Responsible job? You bet it is—especially for a man 25 years old. Over one million dollars in retail sales, annually, are involved in just one dealership.

There's a future for you with Ford.

PRACTICE STARTS TODAY

Basketball Is In The Air

If the men gathered at Jenison Field House’s basketball gym are walking around with tags in their buttonhole reading, “Hello, My name is . . .”, don’t mistake the group for an HPR convention. It’s merely the first day of basketball practice.

There’ll be introductions made all around, with four distinct groups on the scene—seven returning Spartans, eight sophomores, two junior college transfers and three new coaches. Although basketball may be out of mind and out of sight to the Spartan sports fans, Friday is opening day according to the NCAA rule book for starting work on the coming season.

It marks the first appearance of Coach John Benington and his staff—assistant coach Sonny Means and frosh coach Bob Nordman. Benington is expecting quite a bit of competition, even .for them,” he said, not explaining his strategy. He’s added several switches in the making.

“There are some bigger, younger kids coming up. If they can progress, we’ll have some fine and needed help.”

“Just us,” he quipped, “It’s just change my assistant coach’s name and stick him in the lineup. That should be something quite a bit.” Frosh coach Nordman stands 6-1 and adapted professional basketball with the Boston Celtics less than a year ago.

“The kids are anxious to play. Many of them have been practicing on their own for about two hours a day, four days a week. This is a welcome sign of encouragement for me,” Benington said.

The Spartans don’t launch into their “65-66 campaign until Dec. 4, but Benington feels that the practice sessions between now and then will help grease the boys, the new coaches and a new system acquainted.

The varsity will practice about two hours a day from now until its first game, a home test against Western Michigan.

ATHLETIC TRAINER GAYLE ROBINSON

The Ben Casey Of Spartan Stadium

BY LARRY WERNER
State News Sports Writer

It goes without saying that physical fitness is of utmost importance in athletics. However, one person who is often overlooked in the main responsible for the athletes' condition, the athletic trainer. At State, namely, Gayle "Robbie" Robinson.

Robinson supervises the operation and maintenance of four training rooms on campus. Two are located in the stadium, and one each in the MSU Fieldhouse and the Old Bowl. The training rooms are located in the stadium, and each training room, infrared heat lamps, foot baths for sprained ankles, ice massage equipment, muscle nerve stimulators, various medications and special instruments for deep-seated injuries—"the Raytheon."

Robinson's job is to keep busy year-round taping ankles, treating minor injuries (minor injuries are treated in Olin Health Center) and rehabilitating all players. Therefore, he is unable to concentrate on the off-season condition of players in a particular sport.

"No athlete must keep himself in condition year-round," Robinson insists. Robbie's prime concern in the fall of the year is the condition of the Spartan gridders. State's footballers are well aware of the veteran trainer's knowhow.

Sophomore fullback Bob Apisa was quick to state, "He (Robinson) does a good job." Senior linebacker Ron Coovert felt, "He knows his job. He has the best interests of the team in mind."

Robinson graduated from State in 1940 after three fine seasons on the track team as a hurdler. He coached in his native Muskegon before coming back to State. Robinson's talents are not only appreciated at MSU, as he received national acclaim when he was quick to state. "The Robinsons do a good job."

"I feel fortunate that people like Dr. (President John A.) Hannah, "Biggie" Munn and Duffy Feaster flew to Germany to get me," Robinson said.

Robinson and a pair of boxing officials flew to Germany together. Boxing clinics were also provided for the servicemen. Two-day programs on the science and prevention of injuries were conducted by state's veteran trainer. Main stops for Robinson were—Augsberg, Wurzburg, Friedberg and Bad Kruhembach.

The highlight of Robinson's trip was a week's stay in Berlin—visiting both sides of the wall.

Championship Preview?
'S' Harriers Vs. Gophers

By JOE MITCH
Michigan State News Writer

Spartan cross-country Coach Fran Dittrich hasn't quite conceded that he'll push the panic button, but he's nearing that point.

Even with two victories under his belt, Dittrich is not as happy as one might think. He's looking forward to that third consecutive win, but he's also a bit skeptical as to what he can expect in the remaining six weeks of the season.

"We've got a schedule that is as tough as the football team," said the Spartan mentor of seven-returning lettermen, "I just hope that we can keep improving and remain free of injuries."

Saturday, Dittrich will find out if he should start crossing his fingers. That is the day when the harriers face their toughest opponent of the dual-meet season, Minnesota provides the possible fireworks, beginning at 10:30 at the Forest Akers Golf Course. Getting past Minnesota in Dittrich's first worry, but it's not his final one. Beat or the two teams is perennial powerhouse Notre Dame following that in Western Michigan, last year's NCAA champion.

Minnesota is led by several standouts, Dittrich included, as a better-than-even favorite to retain the Big Ten title that it took away from the Spartans a year ago. Dittrich indicated this potential by getting off to a quick start this season with two victories, including a 23-38 conquest of Wisconsin.

The Gophers will race a veteran squad against State, with only one key man lost from last year's lineup. Only one was among the seven-returning lettermen, an indication of which Dittrich summed up the Minnesotans the way he did. "They'll be ready for us," he said, "We'll have to put our best to beat them."

Expected to give Minnesota's top runner, Tom Heinonen, his stiffest competition are Dick Sharkey and Art Link, both members from Detroit Redford's High School.

Sharkey, a junior who missed all of last year due to a leg operation, would like nothing better than to duplicate his banner sophomore year, when he captured All-Americans honors. He could be back on track, especially since he has trained first and third respectively in his first two races.

Link's first year on the varsity team has proven to be quite successful. He posted a 22:01 time for third place against Indiana and finished fourth against Wisconsin with a four-mile mark of 20:52.

The Spartan cross-country team has proven to be quite successful, too. Set for a meet against State, with only one key man lost from last year's line-up.

time to lead in pass receiving and kicking, only Bill Jackson of Marshall, the nation's scoring leader, maintained his firstplace position in the other statistical departments.

Jackson, a junior halfback, has scored nine touchdowns for 54 points and leads Chuck Hughes of Texas Western by only a slim six points.

WOULD YOU LIKE TO READ
1000 to 2000 WORDS A MINUTE
WITH FULL COMPREHENSION AND RETENTION
EASE PRESSURE-SAVE TIME-IMPROVE CONCENTRATION

You can read 150-200 pages an hour using the ACCELERATED READING method. You'll learn to comprehend at speeds of 1,000 to 2,000 words a minute. And retention is excellent.

This is NOT a skimming method-you definitely read every word.

You can apply the ACCELERATED READING method to textbooks and factual material as well as to literature and fiction. The author's style is not lost when you read at these speeds. In fact, your accuracy and enjoyment in reading will be increased.

Consider what this new reading ability will enable you to accomplish in your required reading and in the additional reading you want to do. You'll have many hours.

No machines, projectors, or apparatus are used in learning the ACCELERATED READING method. The reader avoids developing any dependence upon external equipment in reading.

Afternoon and evening classes in ACCELERATED READING will be taught adjacent to the MSU campus, beginning on October 28.

For our guest at a 30-minute public demonstration of the ACCELERATED READING method, and see it applied by college students who have recently completed the course.

A Bloody Good Show--That's Rugby

Scrum, Line-Outs
Part Of Rugby World

By GAYLE WESC
State News Sports Writer

A little bit of England has come to Michigan State in the form of the MSU Rugby Club.

Interest in the organization is rising rapidly, and crowds grow with every home game.

The club, a member of two leagues, is in its second year after compiling a 2-8 won-lost record last season.

Rugby, a sport native to England, is the predecessor of American football. It originated in 1823 when William Webb Ellis became frustrated at the thought of kicking a soccer ball past the opposing team, picked it up and ran with it. The sport gradually caught on in England, and is now played throughout the world.

"The basic differences between rugby and football are that you can't pass the ball forward and there is no blocking and no starting from a scrummage line," the team's coach, Neville Doherty, said.

Instead a team tries to score through the use of running, passing to teammates running behind the ballcarrier or kicking the ball over the uprights of the goal posts.

Scores come in the form of touchdowns, the same as their American counterparts, worth three points, conversions (place kicks after touchdowns) worth two points, and penalty kicks (the same as field goals) worth three points.

An offensive threat is stopped by tackling a ballcarrier, kicking the ball to the opposing end of the field or stealing it and running downfield.

Two ways of getting the ball in play which are unique to rugby are the scrummage, or scrum, and the line-out. A scrummage occurs after a minor penalty (hitting the ball with the forearms or passing the ball forward) or after a ballcarrier is tackled. In a scrum, eight members of one team lock themselves together and try to push the opposition, which have formed themselves in a like manner, away from the ball which has been thrown between them. The object being to get the ball under a foot and heel it back to a teammate behind.

An offensive attack is started by kicking a ballcarrier, kicking the ball to the opposing end of the field or stealing it and running downfield.

Another Fontes!

Arnold Fontes, a sophomore quarterback and Don Unverferth's understudy, is the brother of former Spartan defensive back Wayne Fontes.

Windsor Next For Ruggers

The MSU ruggers will try to get untracked from the loss column Saturday when they take on Windsor in a home match. The game will begin following the Michigan State-Ohio State football game at Old College Field.

The Spartans club lost last week to Michigan, putting its season mark at 1-1. Windsor also has a 1-1 record.

Why should a traditional British club have a medallion on the back?

Because it looks better from the front.

The point of the tie always stays centered, the edges always neat. The authoritative look of these Resilio clubs is richly deserved. Each is an authentic British club insignia woven into the finest imported silk dupion. Decent and well-bred for the truly traditional wardrobe.

Resilio ties are sold at knowledgeable retailers. For complete information write Resilio Empire State Building, New York City.

P.S. All Resilio Traditional ties have a medallion on the back.
Soccermen Seek Fifth—Ahem, Win

Michigan State's soccer team will seek its fifth straight victory of the season when it travels to the University of Akron today.

In rolling up four wins, State has exploded for 26 goals, but its offense may get a stiff challenge from the Akron Zips, a formidable foe.

Defending Ohio Collegiate Soccer Assn. (OC'SA) champions, the Zips have a stingy defense led by sophomore halfback Dave Williams, an All-Ohio pick last year.

Up front, two junior college All-American transfers, Joe Queiroga and Jim Fonte, team with Udo Stillmayer, last season's scoring leader, to provide the punch.

A well-balanced team, Akron has 30 players on its roster, but very few from Ohio. By recruiting top high school players from all over the country, Coach Stu Parry in 12 years at Akron has fielded teams with an overall record of 73 wins, 25 losses and four ties. His teams have won the league title six times in the last seven years.

Hit by injuries the first month of the season, Akron lost its first two encounters. The goalie, center forward and a halfback were out of action. Since their return, however, the Zips have been impressive in four straight wins.

Last year State handed Akron one of its three defeats in 12 games, 5-0. Overall, State holds a 3-0 margin over Akron.

State's lineup will be the same as it has been the last two games: Tom Belloli and Turgud Enuston, fullbacks; Terry Bldiak, Nick Krat and Manny Ruscheinski, halfbacks; Terry Riddin, Najc Krat and Manny Roachinski, halfbacks; Gary McBrady, outside right; Pete Hens, center forward; Payton Fuller, inside left and Rich N'elke, outside left.
