Peace March Draws 25,000

Staff Writer Bill Pritchard accompanied a bus load of people from Michigan State to the Washington peace demonstration, below are the accounts of his experiences.

By BILL Pritchard

Staff Writer of the Free Press

Over 25,000 peace marchers called by the National Committee for a New Foreign Policy (NCNF) came to Washington to demonstrate against the war in Viet Nam Saturday.

The group, which included more than 150 organizations, gathered at 11:00 a.m. at the historic, but recently gutted, Federal Hall Senate chamber on Broadway and ran, and eventually spread across the front of the Treasury building east, then south to the White House.

The demonstrators were met by the mounted police and blue-shirted policemen who were holding a line in front of the Treasury.

The protesters carried their messages on signs which read: "Waste the money on Viet Nam," "End the war," "Stop the bombing," "March for peace." The signs were held above the heads of the marchers, some of whom were the type of people you would find in any street in any city.

There were middle-class families with husbands, grandchildren and grandparents, and middle-class social attitudes, and even a few social agitators, who were, I am sure, the type of people you would find in any street in any city.

The demonstrators on both sides of the Viet Nam issue were not all presenters of the student exchange students from Michigan State to the Washington peace demonstration.

Would Readmitting Schiff Be Harmful To MSU?

Last Tuesday, after long hours of deliberation, the Faculty Committee submitted the following recommendation on the faculty's charge against Paul Schiff.

The Committee recommended that Paul Schiff be readmitted to the University, but that he be placed on probation and that he be asked to appear again before the Faculty Committee in a specified number of months.

The recommendation was based on the grounds that Schiff had not violated any University regulations, and that his actions did not warrant his suspension.

The recommendation was not without its critics, however, and a number of faculty members expressed concern about the decision.

Professor John Smith, a member of the Faculty Committee, expressed his support for the recommendation, saying that Schiff had not done anything to warrant his suspension.

Professor Jane Doe, on the other hand, expressed concern about the decision, saying that Schiff's actions were not in keeping with the University's values.

The Faculty Committee's recommendation will now be submitted to the Board of Trustees for consideration.

AMA Endorses Legal Abortions

The American Medical Association (AMA) has endorsed legal abortions under certain conditions, and will recommend that all states pass legislation allowing access to abortion services.

The move comes as a response to the growing number of states and cities that are enacting laws to ban or restrict abortion.

The AMA's policy statement, which was approved by the organization's House of Delegates, states that abortion should be legal and safe when:

1. The life of the mother is endangered by reason of her pregnancy.
2. The pregnancy is the result of rape or incest.
3. The pregnancy is clearly the result of fraud or duress.

The AMA also endorsed the establishment of clinics providing counseling and services for women seeking abortion.

In a statement, AMA President Dr. Mary Brown said: "The AMA supports the rights of women to make their own reproductive choices, and believes that access to safe and legal abortion services is essential to women's health and well-being."

‘S’ Nips Stroudsburg in ‘Sudden Death’ 2-1

Larry Christoff played a spectacular season of defense, including a game-winning shot in overtime. The team was able to overcome Stroudsburg’s third-quarter goals to win 2-1.

The Spartans fired back in the second half with a goal by Kenney to level the score at 1-1. Christoff was involved in both goals, with the assist on the first goal and the decisive shot on the second. His performance was crucial to the team’s victory.

Spartan Coach Gene Kenney said, “We still have a chance, but it will be a tough one. We need to keep working hard and believe in ourselves.”

The win moves the Spartans closer to their national championship goals. They will need to continue their strong performance to secure the title.

A Better Use For 500 Meals

By RICK PIANK

State News Sport Writer

Con. George W. Romney, not exactly a gambler by nature, told the Michigan State basketball team in November that a raffle to raise money for the National Student Foundation would definitely not be run at the University of Michigan's Coliseum.

Last year, Romney let St. Inigoes draw for that same purpose, the proceeds given to players "to purchase souvenirs of the past and praise and glory that is now being showered on them. They proved this proposed plan would far surpass any enjoyment they might or plaster to remind them of this phenomenal 1965 season, years from now."

"In a manner of speaking, it would be a separate paycheck for the players," added Romney.

No one would dare deny that the Spartans are worth all of that and more. Sure enough, it was shown on them. They proved themselves in a convincing manner that they are the nation's No. 4 basketball team.

It seemed, however, that the proceeds from sale of 500 raffle tickets would not be enough to purchase souvenirs for the team. Few-handed dinners for football players outnumbered 1,000 signatures which, why. Don't the Spartans deserve this fund, on a special holiday treat, to some neighboring orphanage, training school, nurse institution or children's hospital.

Better yet, why not go through with the raffle and present a special holiday treat, to some neighboring orphanage, training school, nurse institution or children's hospital. But maybe this demonstrates the true spirit of the "Spartan family," but it might also be a precedent for other alumni drives.

The warm feeling the Spartans would get for following through this plan prepared them for any expense that might arise from an unexpected prize or trophy.

Besides, it's another way of getting the fans, who will need a visit of next year's farewell season, to visit in and support the team at their local and away contests.

It's the kind of experience you just don't forget.

It is called psychomotor therapy.

The therapy is used to improve the performance of the dog by strengthening the muscles and improving the dog's overall health.

The therapy is administered by a professional therapist who works closely with the owner to develop a customized treatment plan for the dog.

The therapy may include physical exercises, Electrical Stimulation Therapy (EST), or a combination of both.

This therapy can be used to treat a variety of conditions, such as arthritis, muscle weakness, or after-surgery rehabilitation.

Modern veterinary medicine has developed techniques that allow for the precise and controlled delivery of electrical energy to specific areas of the body, enabling the treatment of conditions that are difficult to treat with traditional methods.

The therapy is performed under general anesthesia, and the dog is monitored throughout the procedure to ensure its safety.
