McNamara Says Cong Increasing Their Power

Win Predicted By Augenstein

Lorey Augenstein, championed keynote, predicted Tuesday that he had enough party support to be nominated by the United States Senate.

"At the moment, we've received enough signatures to qualify the party for a state-wide per cent support," George B. Romney said would be needed.," Augenstein said United Press International.

He referred to report Saturday's report of the Republican National Central Committee at which GOP leaders expect to get a candidate for the Senate by now and hold for the Michigan seat.

Casper said his support was secure and could well attract over 50 per cent of the vote.

"I feel confident that the vote will be well enough downed now, Bob Gilruff and myself," Augenstein said a new poll.

"If we continue to work at it, we'll be in the Senate, says our friend," he added.

"We're definitely in the running," said Ann Arbor Daily.

IT WAS A WISE man who said that war brings out the worst in people. The war has brought war through, that is true. It is just as true on the homefront as on the battlefront.

Recently a red, white and blue decal appeared on the windows of several homes in this area. The decal is in something but not in all forms. It is a war bond. The bond makes a black-market issue of every bond. Either you buy or you die.

We are keeping up with the latest events in the world of gun legislation. The Dead Bill restricts the import of “slugs” which can be called “slugs” of the 1960s. So far the Dead Bill has been passed by the Senate, but not by the House. But this is not the end of the story. The Dead Bill will continue to be considered in the House of Representatives. The Dead Bill is only a first step in the fight against the import of “slugs” that could be used as weapons.

Disarmament Hopes Rise

GENEVA (UPI)—The Italian government is continuing to press for arms control agreements.

NLF Separate From North Viet

WASHINGTON, D.C. (UPI)—A top North Vietnamese official has confirmed that his country has been seceding. The official, Dinh Van Ky, said that he had been working closely with the American government in the early 1970s to bring about a cease-fire in South Vietnam.

Washington has been trying to persuade Hanoi to accept a cease-fire agreement, but so far has been unsuccessful.

Trade Commission ‘Setback’

WASHINGTON, D.C. (UPI)—A U.S. trade mission to Vietnam is expected to arrive in Hanoi later this week to begin negotiations for a trade agreement.

The mission, which includes representatives from several government agencies, is expected to discuss trade issues with Vietnamese officials.

Pakistan Gets 550 Million in U.S. Aid

Spartan Cagers Cut Down ‘Big Men’

Pressure Defense The Thing

By BOB HORNIG, \nState News Sports Writer

The Spartans and the 'Big Men' are two of the major American basketball teams and many of the other top basketball teams around the country. In recent years, the teams' games have been highly anticipated and exciting. This season, however, the Spartans have taken the lead in the contest against the 'Big Men.'

The Michigan State University basketball team has been playing against the 'Big Men' for many years, and the results have been mixed. In some seasons, the Spartans have emerged victorious, while in others, the 'Big Men' have won. This season, however, the Spartans have been consistently outscoring the 'Big Men' on the court.

The Spartans have been surprises all year. Few people expected them to do well, especially against the 'Big Men.' However, they have proven their worth by winning several close games against top teams. Their success has been due to their strong defense and pressure tactics.

The 'Big Men' are known for their size and offensive skills. They often dominate the game by scoring points easily. The Spartans, on the other hand, rely on their quickness and defensive skills to neutralize the 'Big Men.'

The Spartans have been playing a 2-3 zone defense, which has been effective in denying the 'Big Men' easy access to the basket. They have also been pressing the ball up the court, forcing turnovers and creating easy layups and dunks.

The Spartans' success against the 'Big Men' is a testament to their hard work and determination. They have not taken their victories for granted and have continued to improve throughout the season. As a result, they have emerged as a strong contender for a national championship.
Tank Win Over Bucks

Weaker in the eight seconds of action which saw them pull closer to the Big Ten leaders than they've done in years, Michigan took advantage of Utah State's apparent lack of preparation to pull three times in the first 35 and won the game, 74-60. Michigan, having won six of its last seven games, finished the season in fourth place. Utah State, on the other hand, ended the season in last place.

Michigan State, which has been inconsistent throughout the season, defeated North Carolina in overtime, 83-80. The game was a thriller, with both teams playing well and fighting hard for the win. Michigan State's victory ended a four-game losing streak and helped them secure a spot in the NCAA tournament.

Fashionable Elephants

Slebert, Michigan State's basketball coach, was quoted as saying that the team's success in recent games is due to their improved defense. "We've been playing defense, and it's working," he said. "Our players are working harder, and it's showing on the court."}

Record Spacewalk Part Of 3-Day Gemini 8 Flight

SPACE CENTER, Houston — The orbital performance of the world's first three-man spaceflight was in full swing today when astronauts James A. Lovell Jr. and John H. Swigert Jr. completed a spacewalk.

Lovell, 33, a former Navy jet pilot, and Swigert, 30, an aerospace engineer, took to the spacewalk around 10:30 a.m. Houston time and spent about 10 minutes working outside the Gemini 8 capsule.

They were joined by commander Frank Borman, 40, a former Air Force pilot, who remained inside the capsule.

The spacewalk, which was delayed by a problem with the spacewalk equipment, was the first of two planned for the mission.

"The first one is pretty much a test run," said Borman, "and we're only going to be out for about five minutes and we're not going to be doing anything too fancy.

"But it's important to get the equipment working and to get the astronauts used to being out there in the vacuum of space," he said.

The second spacewalk, which is scheduled for later in the mission, will be longer and more complex, Borman said.

"We're not going to be doing anything too fancy, but we're going to be doing some things that are more challenging," he said.

"We're going to be trying to work on some of the equipment and making sure everything is working properly."
Egg-Shape Uses

What good is an egg? You can't imagine on it to be either practical or decorative, and Lillian C. Show, curator of exhibits at the University Museum, would agree.

In England during the middle 1800s an egg-shaped rug was used to provide seating on stairs to improve the flavor. Dr. Bob said, "The many uses of an egg-shaped rug were many. They were used in the nursery, on the stairs, in the bathroom, and almost any place where you could put a rug."

Stuffed with lifelike, dance movements, the Egg-Shaped Rug was one of the displays at the Special Exhibition Night, sponsored by the National Ice Cream League. The exhibit, which opened last week in Michigan, was the nation's largest and most important exhibition. The Egg-Shaped Rug was displayed in the Special Exhibition Night, sponsored by the National Ice Cream League.

Writers' Arrests

A Step Back To Stalinism

From The Associated Press

BOSTON (AP) — Writers have taken up the banner of the Left, and the Left has turned to the world of writers.

The Left has always been a political force, and writers have always been part of it. But in recent years, writers have taken a more active role in the political world, and their influence has grown.

The Left has gained strength in recent years, and writers have been at the forefront of this movement. They have written articles and books that have helped to shape public opinion, and they have spoken out on a variety of issues, from social justice to environmentalism.

The Left has also been successful in organizing writers, and writers' organizations have been formed in many countries around the world. These organizations have provided writers with a platform to speak out on issues that affect them, and they have helped to build a sense of solidarity among writers.

The Left has also been successful in gaining support from other groups, such as the labor movement and the student movement. These groups have provided writers with a base of support, and they have helped to build a broader coalition of people who are interested in the issues that writers are fighting for.

Overall, the Left's influence on writers has been significant, and writers have played a vital role in the political world. Their influence is likely to continue to grow in the years to come, as writers continue to speak out on issues that affect them and their readers.
Facts Could Curb Nutrition Defects

Over 4,700 people died in the United States from malnutrition in 1961, Dr. Michael K. McDonald, professor of bacteriology and head of the bacteriology section at the University of Michigan, said. There is no doubt, McDonald added, that this is the case in other countries. While there are many factors involved in the problem of malnutrition, the lack of adequate food supplies is the primary cause, he said.

"The problem of nutrition," McDonald said, "is a national problem that must be solved in this country. It is not a problem that can be solved by one individual or one state. It is a problem that must be solved by all of us." He added that the problem is not just a problem of food, but also a problem of education and health.

According to McDonald, the problem of malnutrition is not only a problem for the poor, but also for the middle class and the wealthy. He said that many middle-class families are unable to afford the necessary food, and that the wealthy are unable to afford the necessary education and health care.

McDonald said that the problem of malnutrition is not only a problem for the United States, but also a problem for the world. He said that it is a problem that must be solved by all nations, and that it is a problem that must be solved by all of us.

McDonald said that the problem of malnutrition is not only a problem for the present, but also a problem for the future. He said that the problem of malnutrition is a problem that must be solved for the future generations.
