Romney Asks MSU Appropriation Increase

By BETTY LITTLE

Lansing, Mich. — Gov. George Romney on Wednesday recommended that the Michigan State University (MSU) legislature approve an increase of $50,000 in state funds for the university's budget.

This is the first time in 30 years that the university has received an increase in state funds.

The governor's recommendation is based on the university's need to maintain and improve its facilities. The increase would allow the university to fund projects such as the construction of a new library and the expansion of the science center.

In addition, the increase would provide additional funding for research and academic programs.

The university's current budget is $1.1 billion, with $500 million coming from state funds.

If approved, the increase would bring the university's state funding to $550 million, which would be used to support the university's mission of teaching, research, and service.

The increase would also help the university to attract and retain top faculty, and to expand its academic offerings.

The governor's recommendation is expected to be considered by the Michigan House of Representatives and the Michigan Senate in the coming weeks.
TIME, EFFORT, KNOWLEDGE and the process of thinking are valuable properties of professors. When a professor's work is too much, he will feel the need to take measures to protect himself. In some cases, he may even feel that he is being persecuted by the system itself.

WHAT would be the purpose of writing down new teaching methods, research findings and "scholarly" insights if we could not use them to find out what makes the professor's work so difficult? The Centre for Professional Education and Research on the professor's work and the environment of the professor as a scholar is a key concern of the current study. The Centre has been at the forefront of this endeavor.

COMMERCIAL publishers in the U.S. are willing to pay up to $25,000 for book ideas. The larger the book, the larger the price tag. But with the increase in the number of books in print, commercial publishers also want guarantees that the professors they will publish will have the time and energy to write a book.

A PROFESSOR'S WRITINGS, unless copyrighted, may be used by another editor who finds them "fitting" to be used in his publication. Furthermore, if the professor's work is published, and the professor is not paid, it may be used in both national and international publications. The MSU Press is well known for the quality of its publications, but the publishing business is a commercial one, and the publishing of a book is a complex process. The professor has to be aware of the economics of the book and the business side of publishing.

Red China Drawing Reactions To Tactics

ALL IS NOT BELL IN Southeast Asia, in the midst of the most violent and turbulent times in the region. The United States, with its influence, is still the major power in the region. But the New York Times reports that the United States has not yet offered a plan to China or the other countries involved in the conflict.

THE SINO-SOVET RIFT IS fast growing, mostly because of China's lack of flexibility, according to a recent poll of the American public. Red China has recently been criticized by the Soviet Union for not meeting the demands of the African continent. The United States has been criticized for its lack of flexibility, and many Americans have been concerned about the possibility of a Sino-Soviet war.

The immediate, taboo-breaking words of China's leaders appear to be coming up with their plan. In the interest of men's minds, the U.S. should be able to ask questions of both Red China's lack of flexibility and its desire for peace.

Red Tape Snags Wigs

BY SALLY RYAN

The red tape that prevents individuals from obtaining a wig has been a problem for many years. But the problem has now been addressed by the American Wig Association (AWA), which has taken steps to improve the situation.

The AWA has been working to improve the situation of the wig business for many years. The organization has been working to improve the quality of wigs and to make them more available to the public.

Better Marks In Two Days

In less than a year’s time we will be thrilled by final exams. And as so often happens, finals are due upon us. Classes end Friday, and Monday— Wednesday must be the last few exam dates. This annual ritual has become a time of intense study and stress for many students.

The members of Green Halley, the sophomore men’s honor society, have been told to get ready for the final exams. Halley would like to see a few days per semester at the end of the term as a period for study.

For example, classes could end on Wednesdays, Thursday to Friday could be a period to study, and some time away from school would follow the following Monday. This would provide ample time to study, instead of the usual few days prior to finals. The results would be more relaxed and better exam performance.

The concept of a reading period in mid-term is one new for many students. Some students have been using it for the summer semester dates as a week just prior to finals. Results have been more focused and better exam performance.

An undue stress is placed on grades. This is unfair. In the view of some problems, manageable. Once the course is done, the grade should be the same that students performed. The grading process should be fair and equal. If the exam was taken, the exam should be the same.

In conclusion, the exam period will be a time to study, not to cram. This new time could easily be absorbed over a usual-term.

More people are in favor of a reading period before finals, but the efforts of many people are necessary to make the reading period a reality. The members of Green Halley have taken a step, but other organizations must take their support in the green Halley’s effort will be little. In short, don’t positively agree with the reading period is a good idea, actively seek to make it a reality.
OKemos Man Dies Here

An Okemos businessman collapsed and died in a Safer Field Tuesday night following participation in a physical education class.

Joseph Kalko, 50, Okemos, a Safer Field owner and operator of the Globe and Safer Field Restaurant in East Lansing, was pronounced dead at 10:45 p.m. Tuesday by Dr. Robert H. Smith, Okemos.

President John A. Hurdle told the Faculty Committee Monday that the Administration had not yet received the report from the University's Board of Trustees regarding the matter.

It is learned Kalko was playing volleyball for the afternoon class when a fall resulted in what was believed to be a heart attack. The Administration said Kalko was sent to a hospital where he died later Monday night when the Safer Field restaurant went out of business.

Under the landgrant act, houses were given land which was to be sold, and the money placed to secret accounts. The land was purchased by the state in the manner prescribed by law.

LANSING (AP)—A special session on the Legislature's Gov.

George Romney today urged state officials and police for an allocation of $25,000 from the Department of Public Safety. Romney said "The increase and provisions of law enforcement among young people is the most serious part of the job problems of the state."

ALLEN said the annual appropriation for three years was the only sum of money the state could spend in accordance with its policy. Romney said the state could not spend more than $25,000.

Romney recommended a new law for non-geographic purposes. Romney said the law was not a punishment for the law, but the normal condition for the law to occur.

Wearing and singing true Rumanian while on stage during six days of each other, the Hungarian National Ballet and the Rumanian Folk Festival both thrilled the University of Michigan audiences. It was such a thrill to see the two groups, both distinguished, performing such different dances, that the audience gave them an ovation after the last dance of the evening. The audience was so enthusiastic that the Rumanians had to sing and dance an encore. It was a wonderful performance, and the audience was so enthusiastic that they made their accompaniment for the dancers.

Another good performance was given by the Hungarian National Ballet. The Hungarian National Ballet is a group of dancers who perform with such grace and beauty that the audience is drawn to them. They are a group of dancers who are not only good dancers, but also good singers. They make the audience feel as though they are part of the performance.

Rumanian Troupe Has Unique Authenticity

In the last 10 years, folk troops from across Europe have made their way to the University of Michigan, but none have been as authentic as the Rumanian National Ballet. The steepen "capers" and shrewd maneuvering of State's ticket office has brought about a 40 per cent over-all increase in home attendance for the 1966 season.

The recent watching of the Friday night contest between the University of Illinois and Purdue has raised the attendance to over 4,500. The Illinois-majored ticket was sold in quantities of 600 and over.

The attendance average for the 1966 season is expected to be over 5,000, and the home game attendance for the coming year is expected to be over 5,500.

ASMSU Backs Free Speech

ASMSU Student Council sponsored the debate on the issue of free speech, as expressed by the motion to allow members of the campus community to speak.

The resolution, moved by Charles A. Sens, Lott, and seconded by Jerry G. Lott, was approved by the council. The motion to allow members of the campus community to speak was also approved.

The resolution notes that "free speech is a fundamental right guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States and is protected by the First Amendment. It is essential to the functioning of a democratic society. The right to speak freely is necessary to ensure that ideas can be exchanged and that the truth can be discovered."

The resolution states that "free speech is not only a right, but a responsibility. It is the responsibility of each individual to use their freedom of speech to promote the common good. This includes the responsibility to speak truthfully, to respect the rights of others, and to avoid the spread of hate and division."

The resolution further states that "free speech is not absolute. There are times when speech may cause harm or incite violence. In such cases, restrictions on speech are necessary to protect the safety and well-being of all members of the community."

The resolution concludes that "in order to uphold the values of free speech, we must also uphold the values of responsibility and respect. We must work to create a community in which all voices are heard and all perspectives are considered."

The resolution was adopted by the ASMSU Student Council and will be presented to the university administration for consideration.

Batcluch Spreads To S-T

With deep concern over the ongoing dispute over free speech, the Batcluch has decided to expand its reach to S-T.

The Batcluch has been a prominent voice on campus for many years, advocating for the rights of students to express themselves freely. However, the group has faced opposition from some members of the administration and the faculty, who have argued that the Batcluch's activities are disruptive to the academic environment.

The Batcluch has responded to these challenges by taking their message to S-T, where they believe they will find more sympathetic ears. The group has already begun distributing flyers and holding meetings in S-T, and they plan to continue their efforts in the coming weeks.

MSU INTERNATIONAL FILM SERIES

presents "On Approval"

A film by Mike Leigh

Claire French, Emma Thompson, Mark Drowney, and Andy Serkis

in an evocative look at the life of a Free Press reporter.

The film explores the life of a woman who has devoted her career to writing about the arts. Through her work, she has come to understand the complexities of the art world, and the challenges of being a woman in a male-dominated industry.

The story is told through interviews with the woman, as well as with her colleagues and friends. The film is a moving tribute to the power of art to change lives, and to the importance of free speech in a democracy.

The MSU International Film Series presents "On Approval" at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, February 17, in the Fairchild Theatre.
