Board Should Uplift Campus Radio Vote

TO APPROVE OR NOT to approve, that is the question facing the Board of Trustees on the question of whether or not to renew the franchise of the campus radio network of the Michigan State University. In last Friday's referendum vote, the approximately 60 students who voted on the matter cast 11 votes for renewal and 49 votes against renewal. The final vote was made by the Board of Trustees.

The Michigan State Student Foundation, which is the governing body of the radio station, feels that the renewal of its franchise should be granted, and has made many efforts to convince the Board of Trustees that the station should be allowed to continue its operation. The foundation feels that the station provides a valuable service to the student body, and that it should be allowed to continue its operation.

However, the Board of Trustees feels that the station has not provided a satisfactory level of service to the student body, and that it should be denied renewal of its franchise. The Board of Trustees feels that the station has not provided a satisfactory level of programming, and that it has not provided a satisfactory level of service to the student body.

The decision of the Board of Trustees is final, and the station will have to close down at the end of the spring term if the Board of Trustees does not approve renewal of its franchise.

The Michigan State Student Foundation is planning to appeal the decision of the Board of Trustees, and is planning to continue its efforts to convince the Board of Trustees that the station should be allowed to continue its operation.

Rule Change In Making For Off-Campus Housing

RECENTLY THE WOmens of nomans Hall were given permission to apply to the University to compel the first step in completely changing the management of Campus View Apartment Housing. The women were allowed to invite guests to Sunday afternoon socials.

If the residents of an on-campus housing facility feel that they have been treated unfairly, they can appeal to the Michigan Selective Services Board. The appeal must be filed within 30 days of the notice of the decision. The appeal can be filed with increased retaliation if the rules in Womans Hall indicate that they have not been treated fairly. Any student wishing to engage in illegal activities can no longer participate in the rules of the station.

I feel in my duty to bring to the attention of the administration that the station is not providing enough service to the campus. I believe that the station should be closed down because it is not providing a satisfactory level of service to the student body. The station is not providing a satisfactory level of programming, and it is not providing a satisfactory level of service to the student body.

If the university were to provide a more adequate level of service to the student body, I believe that the station would be able to continue its operation. However, the university does not seem to be willing to provide a more adequate level of service to the student body, and I believe that the station should be closed down.

Korea Will Send More Troops

WASHINGTON (AP) -- South Korea's Ambassador to the United Nations said Wednesday that his country intends to send more troops to South Vietnam in the future.

The U.S. and South Korea have been negotiating an agreement to send more troops to Vietnam as part of a broader defense pact. The agreement would allow South Korean troops to fight alongside American forces.

The ambassador, who spoke in an interview with the Associated Press, said his government had made a decision to send additional troops to Vietnam in the future.

At the time of the interview, South Korea had already sent a small contingent of troops to Vietnam as part of a multinational force fighting in the region. The troops were deployed to help stabilize the area and support U.S. military operations.

The ambassador emphasized that the decision to send additional troops was made in consultation with the United States and other countries involved in the conflict.

According to the ambassador, the decision was based on the need to maintain stability in the region and to support the multinational force fighting in Vietnam.

The ambassador also emphasized the importance of continued cooperation with the United States and other countries in the region to address the security challenges.

The interview took place amid ongoing discussions between South Korea and the United States on the future of the multinational force in Vietnam. The discussions are expected to continue in the coming weeks.

Jobs Abundant In Rehabilitation

New opportunities in rehabilitation counseling are emerging rapidly from many employment sources, according to Gregory A. Miller, assistant professor of education.

Rehabilitation counselors are among the nation's in-demand professionals. According to state-by-state employment data, the number of rehabilitation counselors has grown significantly in recent years. As a result, there is a high demand for professionals who can provide guidance and support to individuals with disabilities.

Miller notes that rehabilitation counselors work in various settings, including hospitals, schools, and government agencies. They help individuals with disabilities develop skills and strategies to overcome challenges and live fulfilling lives. Rehabilitation counselors also work with employers to develop workplace accommodations and strategies to support employees with disabilities.

Preparation and Certification

To become a rehabilitation counselor, one typically needs to complete a master's degree program in rehabilitation counseling. These programs often include coursework in psychology, counseling, and disability studies. Graduates of these programs are typically required to pass a national certification exam to become certified rehabilitation counselors (CRC).

According to Miller, rehabilitation counselors are in high demand because of the growing number of individuals with disabilities and the need for support and guidance as these individuals navigate their careers and lives. To address this demand, many colleges and universities are expanding their rehabilitation counseling programs to train more professionals in this field.

In summary, rehabilitation counseling is a rapidly growing field with numerous opportunities for professionals to help individuals with disabilities develop skills and strategies to overcome challenges and live fulfilling lives. With a growing demand for rehabilitation counselors, now is an excellent time to pursue this rewarding career path.
it's what's happening

The need for a permanent, uniform, and eventually worldwide correctional behavior system was proposed Tuesday evening by Alfred C. Luger, professor of police administration. Luger believes that for the first time in history there is validation in existing research, information relating a high percentage of ex-offenders and the type of successful rehabilitation program methods used has been used for,

or in any significant area.

As an example, Michigan has 31,000 people under the control of the state, including those in prisons and on paroles.

This is an approximation, however, because愿意 does not include release statistics on ex-offenders. This type of research indicates that rehabilitation is possible.

The results mean involvement in whatever criminal justice would contribute to preventing first offenses and eliminating repeated crimes. Research meant much of what does now is actually harmful in increasing delinquent acts.

The U.S. position is needed to obtain the time lag between producing the research and putting it to use is startling.

The recent research has become more important to correctional agencies. Luger said, however, many agencies desire grants for the money involved in current studies. As a result, research has stagnated.

Behavior said a program involving a comprehensive correctional program is needed to base its program for the state. The method is not an overlooked common sense. Research should be classified between correctional experience and conventional behavior.

All variables used in the studies must be evaluated for reliability and validity. For example, if the hypothesis must be is possible. Variations must be introduced into current research in order to test its validity.

The normal reading in the structure of the significance of the time in standard in recording data, he said.

Luger said that by investigating what is being omitted and discovering why it is occurring, the system will become more effective and will improve practices through the advantages of existing research. The system would be useful not only to correctional insti-
