KING ASKS NEW HELP IN NORTH

Senator Rebels On Increasing Phone Taxes

WASHINGTON, D.C. (UPI)—A Senator from each of the 49 states, with one from the District of Columbia, has reversed the decision of the FCC to raise the telephone surcharge by $1.20 a month, effective January 1.

The action was taken by the Senate on a motion to increase the Federal Communications Commission's fee by $1.20 to provide for the construction of a new federal building.

The Senate action was taken after a debate that lasted several hours, during which Senators from both parties expressed their opposition to the increase.

The Senate also voted to prohibit the FCC from raising the surcharge above the current level of $1.20.

The FCC, in announcing the increase, had said it was necessary to finance the construction of a new federal building.

Tuition Bill Proposed Not Boon To Schools

The tuition bill for private schools sponsored by Senator H. J. Wallin, which will come up for discussion in the legislature, should not be regarded with favor by the students of private colleges. The wall in the bill means the addition of $1,200 per year to the annual cost of a private college. This would help private colleges, but it also represents the pulling down of the quality of education at the private colleges, since it is hoped that students will increase in number.

It is true, if by the means of the grants, private colleges will be able to attract additional students, and more students could afford to attend college. But the result of this new plan is to replace an unattractive education with an attractive education, and it is probable that the result of the increase of students will be a decrease in the quality of the education at the private colleges.

The situation is not as bad as some critics suppose. The added $1,200 per year would be the result of the increase in the number of students, since the total cost of a private college education is $1,000 per year.

Though a little better is not enough, it is a step in the right direction. The indicated change of the $1,200 per year must be the result of the increase in the number of students, since the total cost of a private college education is $1,000 per year.

Disobedience of Laws Prompts Harsher Rules

Now that the Negroes have taken advantage of the civil rights bill, the Federal Government will have to take action to effect compliance with the law. This is most unfortunate, and the penalties that will be imposed will not be acceptable to everyone.

MUCH CONTROVERSY has been created by landlords and consumers who have taken advantage of the civil rights bill.

The new civil rights bill has given the Negroes a chance to live in the same places as whites, but the question now is whether the Negroes will take advantage of this opportunity. The answer to this question is most important, and it is hoped that the Negroes will take advantage of this opportunity.

Students Riot In Jakarta

When 200 to 300 pro-Communist students attacked the U.S. Embassy, they broke windows and set fire to three cars before being dispersed by police.

Rioting swept through several areas of the Indonesian capital, Jakarta, last night. About 5000 students and others demonstrated throughout the city, and police dispersed them. They exceeded the number of those who had rioted on June 22 and June 30.

The students, who are demanding that Chinese Communist representatives be expelled from Indonesia and that all Chinese staff be deported, are student members of the Front for the Liberation of the Fatherland, a Communist front organization. They seized the American Embassy building and broke windows, set fire to three cars, and injured 12 persons.

In the past few days, according to published reports, the students have been involved in three demonstrations. They rioted outside the British Embassy on June 22, attacked the British Consulate on June 30, and rioted last night in the American Embassy.

The large demonstration was reported to have involved about 5000 persons, the largest ever in Indonesia. It was supported by a number of organizations and led by a prominent Communist leader, who is expected to address the students at a later date.

Trouble Toronto Title Fight

The Toronto Blue Jays, who already had eliminated the Yankees in the American League Championship Series, now faced the Chicago White Sox in the World Series. The Sox had a strong starting rotation, including left-handed ace Ed Walsh, who had pitched well in the previous Series. The Blue Jays were led by the dynamic pitcher Joe Bush, who had a 2.30 ERA in the regular season.

Despite the Blue Jays' early lead, the Sox fought back and forced a seventh game. In the decisive game, Bush was on the mound for the Blue Jays, while the Sox countered with lefty Eddie Cicotte. The game was scoreless until the sixth inning, when the Sox finally scored, taking the lead for good. The Blue Jays mounted a rally in the ninth, but it was too little, too late. The Sox won, 2-1, to win the Series.

The Blue Jays had come close, but ultimately fell short in their first playoff appearance. They would have to wait another year to make it back to the World Series.
Horizons Broadened by Exchange With Nigeria

By GEORGE TAYLOR

Flying dirt and concrete dust filled the air, as soldiers from over 100 nations walked wherever they go. This is essentially what happens at the University of Nigeria since building started in 1960.

The University of Nigeria was set up in an area with water and dirt, surrounded by 56 buildings and 230 faculty houses, marked William R. Brown, assistant dean of education and special consultant to the Nigerian government. "As of today there are 100 students enrolled in the university, of which 50 per cent are Nigerian. The total faculty represents 18 countries," said Dr. B. W. Brown, coordinator of the Nigerian program. The University of Nigeria was established in October of 1960, and it has been developed to include night classes, colloquia, arts, education, economy, science, technical training, business administration and law.

The purpose of the university is to meet the economic and social needs of the people. The course is designed to teach young people the everyday skills that will enable them to earn a living and at the same time prepare them to be good citizens of Nigeria. MID-WEST CONSORTIUM AIDS MU STUDENTS

About a year ago, the Mid-West Universities—Multiple Universities, Illinois and Michigan—formed a program to initiate graduate students and faculty in business and economics with students from member schools.

"At the present time, there are at least three or four MSU students doing research in this area," says Ralph Houghton, professor of political science and serving as dean of International Programs.

Currently, first plans are being made to extend the Mid-West Consortium program to other member schools.

Successfully, the mid-west consortium program has proven to be a useful tool in understanding the economic problems of developing countries.

A similar program has been initiated at Purdue University where the students are given the opportunity to learn about political, international relations, and business administration.

"We have found that the students have been able to take part in seminars, political science, and business administration workshops which are conducted in conjunction with the mid-west consortium program," said Houghton.

It is not yet known whether the program will be extended to other member schools.

U.S. Students Shorted

By CYNTHIA STRINGER

Students in America are not treated with the respect accorded their European counterparts. In Michigan, for example, at the University of Michigan, every student or potential student in the Mathematics Department must take a math placement test. The test is a series of questions that are answered in order. After the test is completed, the student is assigned a score that indicates their level of ability in mathematics. If the student scores below a certain level, they may be required to take additional math classes. This is in place to ensure that all students are prepared for the math courses offered at the university.

PLASTIC STIFFENS WAX MEN

It’s easier to make a front-line planer into a French adder if you are made of plastic and wax.

The MU Student is now changing the process of making gun parts from a three-dimensional mixture ranging from 0 to 100 feet. The process involves pouring a mixture of wax and plastic into molds, heating the molds, and then pouring a second mixture of wax and plastic into the molds. This process is repeated until the desired number of objects are made.

Many people have been using this process to make objects such as jewelry, toys, and art pieces. However, there are some concerns about the safety of using this process. It is important to follow proper safety procedures and use protective equipment when using this process.

So, if you are a student or a teacher, consider this: if you are shorted on math placement, you may need to take additional math classes to ensure you are prepared for the math courses offered at the university. And if you are using the plastic and wax process to make objects, be sure to follow proper safety procedures and use protective equipment.

WHY Didn't Soldier Answer Mail Call?

The first page of today's Cleveland Plain Dealer told Nanci Fawcett how Richard E. (Kid) Marks, 18, of New York City had been killed in combat in Korea on February 17. It also reiterated that Nanci had planned to meet him in Cleveland.

"I am 18 years old and a high school dropout. I joined the Marine Corps because of the draft. I just called up a way," Nanci wrote back in words of encouragement. In a few days she wrote her father, "I've got to get going again. I've been lying there a few days now and I've got to get out now."

The letter was written from a military post and ended with, "I love him a lot."

State Indians Were Active

Michigan has a history of Native American cultures dating back to 4,000 years ago. One of the most notable tribes in the region is the Potawatomi, who inhabited the southern part of the state. The Potawatomi lived in settlements along the lakes and rivers, where they engaged in hunting, fishing, and farming.
